Brush-Moore Is Sold To Thomson Papers

The Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., which publishes 12 daily newspapers in the United States, including The East Liverpool Review, has been purchased by a subsidiary of Thomson Newspapers, Inc.

The sale was made public today in a joint announcement by G. Gordon Strong, president and publisher of Brush-Moore, and Kenneth R. Thomson, president of Thomson Newspapers.

The purchase price was $72 million.

The Thomson group already publishes 23 daily newspapers in the United States, including three in Ohio: The Alliance Review, the Lancaster Eagle-Gazette and the Greenville Advocate. In addition, Thomson Newspapers owns 26 dailies in Canada and, through affiliated corporations, many newspapers in other countries, notably the Times of London and the Sunday Times.

THE TRANSACTION was completed swiftly. When holders of a large block of Brush-Moore shares had reached the decision to sell, they invited the Thomson organization to make an offer, and from then on the negotiations proceeded rapidly and smoothly to their conclusion.

The sale was made in the 40th anniversary year of Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., which was organized in 1927 by Louis H. Brush, Roy D. Moore and William H. Vodrey, all now deceased. At that time, the group comprised only five daily newspapers, all in Ohio. There are now twelve, six in Ohio, three in California and one each in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland. Brush-Moore also publishes several weekly newspapers, in California and elsewhere.

Mr. Thomson was highly complimentary about the Brush-Moore operation.

"WE ARE PROUD to have these outstanding newspapers join ours," he was quoted as saying. "We have known and respected many of the Brush-Moore people for a long time. The company has a splendid reputation, not only in newspaper circles but among the general public as well.

"We pledge that these newspapers, as an integral part of our organization, will continue to give to their communities the same efficient and dedicated service they have so singnally rendered in th past. We are especially pleased that Gordon Strong has agreed to remain as the operating head of the properties."

Mr. Strong, who is himself one of the selling shareholders, said: "We are impressed by the stability, strength and high morale of the Thomson group. Our discussions with them were on a high plane, and the agreement reached is eminently fair to all concerned.

"BRUSH-MOORE was offered to no other purchaser. We gave the Thomson interests first chance at them because we knew that they wished to preserve this organization intact and that they would continue to operate these papers with the maximum degree of local autonomy."

'Death Dodgers' Awaited

County Fair Anticipates Crowd For Show Tonight

By PAUL YOUNG

LISBON — Columbiana County fair directors anticipate a packed grandstand at 8 tonight when Johnny King's Death Dodgers "rev up" for a 28-event program.

The stands were nearly full Thursday night for a variety program that included the Four Coins, a vocal recording group; Toni Rosari and his wonder horse and dog show, Bill King and Jacki — a comedian and juggler, and the Judy Conti dancers.

DIRECTORS estimated yesterday's attendance at 12,000. Parking areas were almost full in the evening and throngs crowded the midway while the grandstand was in progress.

In the coliseum across the grounds, 88 head of 4-H and Future Farmers of America steers were sold at auction.

Pat Schoeni, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schoeni of Beloit RD 2, received 66 cents per pound for her 900-pound Angus. This was one cent less than the champion brought last year.

Pat's animal, purchased by Bachrach Livestock Sales, Plymouth, was judged best by Dr. Bill Wharton, animal science extension specialist at Ohio State University.

Pat is a junior at West Branch High School and a member of the topnotch Jolly Farmers 4-H Club.

Hubert Amos of Scio was auctioneer and Glenn Shreve of Damascus sale manager. They had to go to the barn to sell one steer, because he refused to leave the stall.

Sales totaled $23,658.58, for an average of 29.8 cents per pound, compared with 28.8 last year. Nearly 40 tons of beef on the hoof paraded through the sales ring.

John Richman, 16, of Calcutta received 38 cents per pound for his Hereford — a 960-pounder from the herd of his uncle, Don Thompson of Vernon Dell Farms on the Cannons Mill-Cal-

GOP Leaders Set Vote Next Week

Pennsylvania House Eyes $290.3 Million Tax Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — Republican leaders are contemplating an attempt to vote a $290.3 million tax package through the House next week, but refuse to commit themselves to that strategy.

"At this point, I really can't say what we will do," commented Majority Leader Lee A. Donaldson, R-Allegheny. "Certainly we would like to move the tax bills next week. But our plans are still fluid."

Five new tax measures were introduced in the House Thursday, including a 1 per cent levy on death benefits collected by insurance beneficiaries.

Chairman John Hope Anderson, R-York, of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, filed the bills with the House Speaker's Office. He said he hoped to have them cleared by his committee Monday when the chamber reconvenes.

"I am reasonably positive we can release the bills to the floor, since they have been discussed for a number of weeks by the Republican members of the committee,' Anderson said.

House Cuts Half Billion Off Aid Bill

Votes 2.8 Billion; Legislation Now Goes To Conferees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, laboring through a marathon 15-hour session, voted early today to slash President Johnson's foreign aid requests by a half billion dollars to $2.8 billion.

Even after a Republican—Southern Democratic coalition pushed through floor cuts of $44 million—and the House accepted earlier committee cuts of $219 million for a total of $563 million less than Johnson asked—the Democratic leadership was able to get the reduced version through by only an eight-vote margin.

The final count, recorded at 3:36 a.m., was 202 to 194. Many members had long since fled the chamber.

Even with the extensive pruning, the House-passed measure still contains nearly $200 million more than the Senate approved last week.

The differences, mostly in the military assistance section of the legislation, now must be resolved by a two-house conference committee.

Just before passing the measure, the House overturned an earlier 145-141 vote and cut an additional $33 million in technical assistance funds. The Republican move won the second time around, 234 to 163.

Included among the major cuts were $150 million from the development loan program, $72 million from the alliance for progress and $25 million from the Presidest's contingency fund.

Another $60 million for support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was chopped out after members were told they already had authorized the money in a separate bill passed earlier.

Despite the deep cuts, administration forces weren't totally without success.

Staved off were bids to pare $120 million from the support assistance program, and an additional $70 million from the Alliance for Progress, the program conceived by President John F. Kennedy to aid Latin American countries.

But the Democratic leadership was turned back in an attempt to restore a second-year authorization for the Alliance for Progress, eliminated Wednesday by an amendment.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-SC., of the Armed Services Committee sponsored the cut in Assembly Hopes To End Session Today

Conferees Study Revived Ohio Tax-Education Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Republican administration's revived omnibus tax hike bill headed into a conference committee today as legislative leaders struggled to bring the curtain down on a session that started on a snowy day last January.

Majority Republicans hoped to restore to the big money bill an emergency measure which would make funds from an estimated $300 million for education available with the start of school instead of 90 days from passage.

The House breathed new life into the measure Thursday afternoon following defeat of the Senate-passed bill in that chamber earlier in the day. But representatives lacked the votes for an emergency clause and the bill passed with a 90-day effective date.

It takes a two-thirds majority of 66 votes to pass emergency bills and the GOP dominates the lower chamber 62-37. Besides that, eight Republicans voted against the bill and most of them said they did so because of a controversial provision appropriating $15 million for parochial schools.

A possibility of a compromise between the leadership and the Democratic minority kept alive hopes that the emergency clause may yet be restored so that average annual $800 teacher raises and new and expanded educational programs my begin next month instead of in December.

Republicans could accomplish this by relenting to Democratic demands that the tax hike-education-appropriations bill be divided into three parts for separate votes.

However, Republicans are reluctant to give Democrats a chance to support the record school appropriations and then vote against the taxes. The GOP did this to Democrats the last time state taxes were raised, a decade ago.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess R-4 Wood held a news conference Thursday and gave estimates of how much money a list of Ohio cities will lose if they are unable to take advantage of educational state aid until December. He had no statewide figures.

He said Akron would lose $367,000, Canton $161,000; Cincinnati $589,000; Cleveland $966,000; Columbus $684,000; Dayton $399,000, Toledo $413,000, and Youngstown $176,000 for a total of almost $4 million.

Another Plane Lost, 13th This Week

U.S. Jets Hit North Again

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes drove deep into North Vietnam Thursday, bombing rail and military targets within 18 miles of Red China but losing another F105 Thunderchief jet to Red ground fire, the U.S. Command said today.

The Thunderchief was the 13th American jet reported downed in the air war against North Vietnam this week—one of the grimmest of the year for American fliers—and the 660th U.S. combat plane reported lost striking North Vietnam. The pilot was listed as missing in action, bringing the week's loss so far to 19 fliers missing with three rescued by helicopters.

Although no major ground action was reported in South Vietnam, the U.S. Command said at least 156 Communist troops were killed in scattered fighting, and police in Saigon disclosed the arrest of a Red terror cell of two men and three women. They were rounded up in the continuing police pressure to thwart Red attempts to disrupt the Sept. 3 presidential elections now nine days away.

U.S. headquarters reported that despite thunderstorms over much of North Vietnam, Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 152 missions Thursday. Although some pilots reported Communist MIGs skirting the edge of American formations, there were no dogfights, and the pilots said the Reds also fired fewer of the Soviet-built surface-to-air missiles than they threw up during raids on the Hanoi area earlier this week.

Returning pilots said the rail yards above Hanoi remained filled with boxcars unable to move south because the only rail bridges across the Red River at Hanoi have been dropped by bombing.

Pilots said there were almost 200 pieces of rolling stock in four yards hit Thursday and most of these were shot up, bombed or rocketed. But smoke and flames prevented precise damage reports.

The deepest strikes reported were against a rail yard just 18 miles below the Chinese border and the second raid of the week on North Vietnam's chief naval base at Port Wallut, 30 miles below the frontier. It was on the strike against the northeast rail line from Hanoi to China that the F105 was downed about 25 miles below the border.

Navy pilots reported heavy damage to buildings at Port Wallut, which was attacked Monday for the first time in the war.

U.S. Marine fliers made one of their deepest raids into the Communist heartland with a Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, a pretty good amateur punster, had a tailor - made case waiting for him this morning in the police lineup. He found a man who had been arrested with his shirt off.

"Had your shirt off, eh?" the judge remarked to James R. London of 726 St. Clair Ave., who was taken into custody in a downtown store on an intoxication charge. "Maybe you want to be like me — a Chertoff!"

London, questioned further by the judge, said he did not remember any of the circumstances of the arrest, including an argument that allegedly triggered the arrest.

Move Could Clear Way For Project

Matching Funds Set For Development In Glenmoor Area

In a development that may remove the last major stumbling block in the path of plans for construction of a new Columbiana County Airport, the Federal Aviation Agency at Washington today announced a grant of $222,045 in matching funds for the facility at the site of former Swaney Field near Glenmoor.

Announcement of the grant from the FAA was relayed from Washington by Rep. Wayne L. Hays, 18th District congressman.

The federal money is intended to be used in conjunction with a $100,000 grant that has been promised by the state government, the congressman explained.

The nucleus of the new facility will be formed by the 86-acre Swaney Airport tract contributed by Mike Turk over a year ago.

The Community Improvement Corp. later took steps to acquire additional ground adjacent to the basic tract to assure that enough land would be available to build runways to federal standards for executive - type aircraft.

The project has been administered by the Columbiana County Airport Authority, of which Vincent Laneve of East Liverpool is chairman.

After prolonged discussion and negotiation, the authority decided in March 1966 to use the Swaney Field tract as the site of the new airport. It proceeded on promises of federal and state aid, with the assumption that grants would pay all or most of the cost and the county would have little investment in the facility.

Living Costs Jumped .4% During July

WASHINGTON (AP)—Living costs climbed four-tenths of one per cent in July for the biggest jump in nine months, the Labor Department said today.

Grocery prices led the rise, increasing nine-tenths of one per cent and Assistant Commissioner Arnold Chase of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the usual food declines in August probably won't be as large as usual.

The four-tenths of one per cent general rise brought the bureau's consumer price index to 116.5, meaning it cost $11.65 last month to purchase typical family goods and services that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Consumer services continued their steady rise, averaging nearly 5 per cent on an annual basis. These included a nine-tenths of one per cent rise in hospital costs, a 1.3 per cent increase in home mortgage interest and five-tenths of one per cent rise in property taxes.

Living costs have risen a total of 1.6 per cent so far this year. Chase said the bureau is sticking with its prediction of an over-all increase of 2.5 per cent for the year, but conceded for the first time "it might be slightly above."

Consumer prices last year soared 3.3 per cent in the biggest rise in a decade.

Grocery prices led the rise, increasing nine-tenths of one per cent and Assistant Commissioner Arnold Chase of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the usual food declines in August probably won't be as large as usual.

The four-tenths of one per cent general rise brought the bureau's consumer price index to 116.5, meaning it cost $11.65 last month to purchase typical family goods and services that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Consumer services continued their steady rise, averaging nearly 5 per cent on an annual basis. These included a nine-tenths of one per cent rise in hospital costs, a 1.3 per cent increase in home mortgage interest and five-tenths of one per cent rise in property taxes.

Living costs have risen a total of 1.6 per cent so far this year. Chase said the bureau is sticking with its prediction of an over-all increase of 2.5 per cent for the year, but conceded for the first time "it might be slightly above."

Lt. Ann In Vietnam

By VONNIE MCCLURE

A Midland girl, who with her parents and sisters, fled war-torn Yugoslavia now is serving as an Army nurse in Vietnam, a country she describes as having many contrasts.

She is 1st Lt. Anna Seman who is stationed at the 8th Field Hospital at Nha Trang.

In a letter sent the Midland News, Ann describes some of the conditions she faces and says she is adapting to changes.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Seman of the Midland-Fairview Rd., Ann indicates she is enjoying her duties and is anxious to travel to other countries. She is the first girl from the Midland area to go to Vietnam.

She wrote:

"I HAVE BEEN here in Vietnam for four months and am stationed at a city along the South China Sea. It's located 180 miles or so north of Saigon.

The female officers here have it fairly nice compared to fellows out in the fields. We live in a villa. The rooms are small but comfortable. Usually two girls share each room. The biggest problem is the lack of closet space since women always like to collect things.

The weather here is kind of hot; it reaches about 110 degrees by 10 a.m. Our villa is not air conditioned but we do have fans which really help.

Ann at work in Vietnam hospital.

The American women are really treated like queens since there are so few of us. The men are always very helpful. The hospital is very modern with the most modern equipment. I have worked in several hospitals in the states and I think this hospital has more up - to - date equipment than any I have seen. Most of the wards are air - conditioned which makes it very comfortable for the patients to sleep.

—:—

I FORGOT TO mention that about a block or two from the nurses' villas there is a beach that we can use. The area is secure. I can go swimming in the South China Sea when I am free. I am even learning to swim now — I was never able to before.

The uniforms which we wear are usually fatigues since white uniforms are hard to keep clean, or get clean. The fatigues are very comfortable and cool. They do nothing for the figure. I am working nights.

Our main mode of transportation is an Army jeep. At first it was kind of hard to get into it, but now, with practice, it's very easy.

It is very hard to describe Vietnam; one would have to be here to really understand. There is one thing I would like to say: If anyone has a family or a friend stationed here, they should write often, for this gives the person the feeling that someone cares. One never appreciates a letter or note from home until they are away.

I KNOW THAT when I receive a letter from my parents it makes me feel like I am sharing their everyday experiences with them. It's always nice to hear what they are doing, and you forget you are so far away.

I receive the Midland News which is a good morale booster. After reading about people in Midland, it makes you feel like you know them all, even though I have never met most of them.

In November I am planning to go to either Bangkok or Australia for my R. and R. I can't wait, so I can travel and see as much as possible of the world."

Anna's father is a carpenter at the Midland Division of Crucible Steel Co. Anna is a graduate of Lincoln High School and the St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing. She was head nurse in the gynecology department at the University of Cleveland Hospital for 3½ years before resigning to enlist in the Army.

SHE TOOK BASIC training at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio and was stationed at El Paso where she worked in the William Beaumont General Hospital. She took jungle training for ambush and warfare at Ft. Bliss.

Trial Planned For Motorist

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today set a hearing Monday at 9 a.m. for William K. Lafferty, 53, of Charles Town, W. Va., who was arrested early today on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Lafferty was cited at 3:04 a.m. on W. 6th St. by Patrolman Leonard Richard, police said. He asked the court for a continuance to enable him to secure counsel. The judge then set the new hearing date and fixed a $500 appearance bond.

The judge also granted a continuance until Monday at 2:30 p.m. in the case of Jerry L. McDole of 1701 Alpha St., charged with operating an auto without an emergency brake. McDole was arrested at 9:45 p.m. Thursday on Mulberry St., police said.

The judge decreed fines of $15 and costs each for two young men who pleaded guilty to charges of speeding 65 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. They were cited by the Ohio Highway Patrol.

They are Theodore P. Dervelle, 22, of Toronto RD 2, cited Thursday at 11:11 p.m., and Robert W. Carroll, 19, of 425 Morton St., cited Tuesday at 10:07 p. m.

McKeever Dies After Long Coma

MONTEBELLO, Calif. (AP) — Mike McKeever, former football star at University of Southern California, died Thursday night in Montebello Convalescent Hospital.

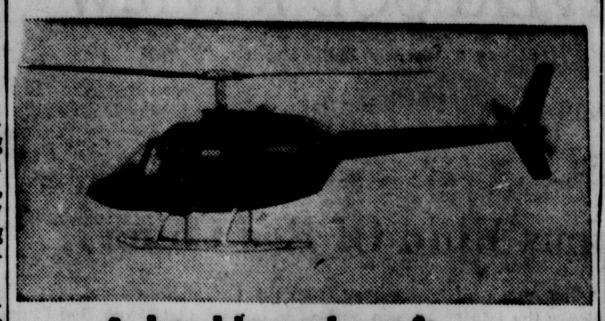

McKeever, 27, had lain unconscious and in critical condition since he was injured in an automobile accident Dec. 3, 1965.

Mike's twin, Marlin, was a star end of the Los Angeles Rams pro football team. Survivors included Mike's widow, Judy.

Both McKeevers, after their junior year at USC were designated All America in 1959. Marlin was a first team linesman; Mike, a guard, was picked for the third team.

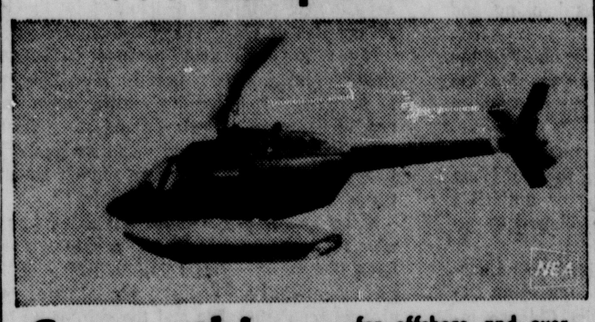

It's steam, not smoke, that rises from an erupting volcano. Volcanic ash causes the black color of the vapor and sometimes falls with the condensed steam in the form of "mud rain."

Seaworthiness for offshore and over-water operations for both commercial and military needs has been developed. The flotation attachment is triggered in-flight from within the helicopter, using electric solenoid to force air or nitrogen into the floats, which pop out of a tape and snap cover on the skid gear. Landings can be made on hard surfaces as well as on water even after inflation, according to Bell Helicopter, developers of the device.

Iron objects sunk at sea eventually corrode to nothingness. If sea animals have secreted a sturdy lime shell around the object, however, archeologists can make an exact copy of the vanished original by pouring plaster in the mold.

You And The Law

"Put a Tiger in Your Tank." "Progress Is Our Most Important Product." "The Pause that Refreshes." "The Extra-Strength Pain Reliever."

What are they talking about? Probably you know. There are products associated with each of these advertising slogans. If you can identify them, you are in a category with the great majority of Americans who can recognize any of perhaps a thousand familiar slogans and trademarks.

If millions of people recognize slogans and trademarks and associate them with products — and perhaps with desirable characteristics of those products — then slogans and trademarks must be very valuable. They are, indeed. Billions of dollars are invested in them. Because they are so valuable and so much is invested in them, laws protect them against theft.

ANYONE WHO is considering choosing a name for his business, or designing a trademark or advertising slogan for a business should be aware of the law of trademarks and the law of fair and unfair competition.

Suppose, for example, that in your community a man named Findlay has had a restaurant for years and has built a good reputation for it. It is known simply as Findlay's Restaurant. Your name is Findlay. Can you open a restaurant and call it Findlay's Restaurant? Probably not.

The first Findlay has spent years of labor and thousands of dollars building that name into a business asset. You cannot appropriate the name for your business just because your name is Findlay.

If this seems unfair, remember that nearly any business name could be appropriated by a group of partners simply by finding a man with the right name to go into business with them. If you could find a couple of fellows named Coca and Cola you could go into the soft drink business with a fair guarantee of success. But you can't do it. The law protects the business which has built a name. You have to build your own name.

Some Plants Harmful If Eaten

Don't stop growing flowers just because you have heard or read something about many of them being poisonous.

Some common plants are poisonous, if chewed, but the chances of you or someone else in the family being harmed are relatively rare. The best line to follow is to see that children do not put leaves, stems or fruit of plants in their mouths. By all means, never store plant bulbs where children can reach them.

A noted pharmacologist says that more than 100 plants containing poison are grown in the average American garden. He counted 54 harmful plants in an issue of a standard seed catalog.

Some examples are: There is enough poison in a 10-cent packet of castorbean seeds to kill five children. One tulip bulb contains enough poison to kill a man.

Sweetpeas contain a poison that causes a form of paralysis. It is seldom fatal, but might keep a victim bedridden for months.

Narcissus — any part; four o'clock — root and seed; ivy-leaves; potato - seeds and sprout; lily of the valley - any part, and iris - underground stem.

Again, keep gardening, but don't let the children chew on plants of any kind, and if you have such a habit — stop it!

Mysterious Mind Of Red China

The aura of mystery surrounding much of the activity by Red China also cloaks the latest attempts at breaking British authority in the colony of Hong Kong.

Communist China is doing very well financially under the present system of British rule.

The British colony still is China's most important outlet for trade with the West. Large quantities of Communist Chinese products reach western markets via Hong Kong.

Around 30 per cent of Red China's exports to Hong Kong are re-exported to such countries as Cambodia, Indonesia, Japan, Thailand and even Nationalist China.

Putting it on a dollar basis, Red China last year earned about $400 million from its net visible trade with Hong Kong and up to $300 million from other sources such as banking and shipping enterprises.

Hong Kong supplies Peking with one half the foreign currency it needs each year for the grain and heavy machinery it must purchase abroad.

United States officials quickly point out that while America purchases about a third of Hong Kong's exports yearly, no goods or materials originating on the mainland are allowed to enter his country.

The United States has maintained an embargo on all trade with mainland China since December 1950 following Communist Chinese intervention in the Korean War.

But the fact remains that Hong Kong uses money from the United States and other Western nations to buy products from Red China.

It would seem that China would be content to leave things alone. The British aren't going to give up easily; even if Red China succeeded in gaining control of Hong Kong it would lose the advantage of U.S. trade as well as other nations of the West that could bring on total collapse of the colony.

The reckless, unfathomable nature of Red China was never more evident than in its handling of the British Hong Kong situation.

Look Better Longer

How can girls be prettier? How can young men and women be luckier in love? Don't smoke, says a new pamphlet distributed by the Heart Association of Western Pennsylvania.

Non - smokers avoid stained teeth, yellow fingers and smoker's breath, thus "are nicer to be near." And besides cutting down on the risk of heart attack, cancer and other diseases, skipping the cigs can add up to savings of $125 to $145 a year, leaving more money for dates, travel and other youth essentials.

Many people are so hard put to explain just why they do smoke. Young people no longer have the excuse of wanting to look older and sophisticated. True youthful sophisticates recognize tobacco's hazards and the grip of its habit, and know they have a lot better chance of looking older by living longer.

Riots: An Editor's Conscience

Editor's note: The following article was published July 22 in the Daily News, Inglewood, Calif. It was written by Amon E. Gross, acting publisher.

We believe that all of us share a sense of unease about the racial situation in this country.

From Fresno to Newark, N.J., from Durham, N.C., to Minneapolis, Minn., the pillage, the looting and the demonstrations of black power spread.

We recall the terror and violence of the Watts explosion in August, 1965.

"Police brutality" is the battle cry of the looters and the rioters in this era of disregard for all laws.

There is little doubt that the politicians, the racial extremists and possibly some police officers must bear at least a portion of the blame for the Negro civil insurrections.

However, those who would break the law for their own ends must remember one thing. You cannot raise one hand to condemn brutality, while you burn and rob and murder with the other.

This is a sickening war that has no victors — only survivors. Force cannot change the heart or the mind of man.

We can never all of us be equal either in status or possessions. We are inexorably bound by our own limitations. The color TV in the store window does not belong to me because I do not own it. The world owes me nothing that I do not earn.

We believe firmly in the individuality of man. We believe in his inherent right to freedom and to all the good things he can acquire through his own labor or good luck.

We also believe in our right to peacefully co-exist even with those who hate and despise us.

We believe in any citizen's right to conduct his business in safety and in that same safety to walk down the streets of any town in the United States.

We cannot have a total breakdown of law and order. We cannot live under the fear of total violence.

There are many minority groups whose grievances are deep-seated and of long standing. There are millions of slum children.

There are the Puerto Ricans and the Mexicans in the ghettos of the large cities. There are the American Indians.

There are those who exist in the industrial wastelands, in the poverty stricken Appalachias of America.

We do not believe that any of them are entitled to rob, riot or pillage to improve their status or position.

We believe that the due and orderly process of law must be maintained.

Purely Personal Observations

Of all the things I'd like to be, the first five are: Confidential consultant, guinea pig for a travel agency, professional hand-holder, remittance man and owner of an eight-stool bar in an affluent neighborhood.

For my money, which is about to be upped painfully, by more than 6 per cent, I would prefer to call in some consultants from Israel to see what we can do about a war in Southeast Asia that is costing us billions with no end in sight.

Summer weather like home cooking seems better in retrospect than it was at the time. Nevertheless, this has been a highly unsatisfactory summer, weather-wise, and I look forward to no improvement.

One folkway in this era of female jobholders is shwoing off to the other girls the trappings of connubiality — first the ring, then the wedding gifts, then in due time the first-born.

The idea of paper clothing isn't startling to me. I remember paper shoes we bought for our growing boys on ration stamps during World War II. One pair disintegrated in 10 days.

In that excellent TV documentary, "How Israel Won the War," all the people interviewed, both Israelis and Arabs, spoke English, even the Israeli pilots who have had no education beyond high school. Hi, stupes.

On the other hand, if you take the word of travelers who have been to France recently, De Gaulle's rude behavior in Canada was no worse than the rude behavior of many Frenchmen in France.

The most neglected subject in U.S. education is the Constitution of the United States, the foundation of citizenship. Even well-educated people often know no more about its provisions than a pig knows about Christmas.

I now know of two other people, both fellow employes, who say they refrain from smoking during working hours, so they can enjoy it to the fullest extent after their evening meal and from then on until bedtime.

The loudest racket I've ever heard was made in the narrow canyons of Italian cities by motorcycles ridden at high speed late at night by sadists who never go to sleep themselves and want everybody else to stay awake.

Aside from the tragic loss of life, Detroit has had the quickest kind of slum clearance there is — overnight action.

VICTOR RIESEL

Government Of The People

If ever the word gladiator befitted anyone, it does justice and full flavor to Everett Dirksen. He fights eloquently. Yet he is tough. But during the toughest of his battles, on the labor front for example, I have seen him and powerful labor leaders talk to each other with animated respect.

Victor Riesel

In recent years he has campaigned against labor's increasing influence, and for an educational system in which students and educators could join in prayer if they wished. Now he feels strongly about the "one man, one vote" issue. I asked him why. Here is his reply:

WASHINGTON — The Preamble to the Constitution of the United States begins with the words: "We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union" and for other purposes, "do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America." I wonder whether we can still honestly say, "We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union"?

In 1964 the United States Supreme Court handed down its decision in the case of Reynolds vs. Simms. It dealt with the composition and apportionment of state legislatures. The decision was promptly tagged as "the one-man, one-vote" rule. Strangely enough the real significance of the decision became somewhat sidetracked.

The real issue was and is whether under the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution states can be deprived of the power and the right to determine the composition of at least one branch of its legislature so that fair representation is provided to all area political subdivisions and interests in the state.

This court decision says in effect that, notwithstanding the provisions of the Tenth Amendment to the Constitution which reserves to the states and to the people the powers not expressly delegated by the federal government, the states must and shall comply with the cause in the Fourteenth Amendment which assures equal protection of the laws, and that in respect to apportionment of state legislatures this means that the basis for apportionment must be population and pollution alone.

ONE EFFECT of the high court decision is that the one-man, one-vote principle is now sought to be applied to political subdivisions of the states. That is to say, that it should be applied to county boards, school boards, park boards and other elective bodies without regard to the many diverse factors which must be considered to achieve the objective of fair representation.

The mischief inherent in the court decision is bound to go on and on and sooner or later it must have attention by the Congress and the people.

A resolution providing for a constitutional amendment to deal with this problem was submitted to the United States Senate and voted upon on April 20, 1966, and commanded a substantial majority of the votes of the Senate. In fact, the vote was 55 to 38. This, however, failed short by seven votes of the required two-thirds of the Senators who might be present and voting.

While the attempt to obtain Congressional approval of a constitutional amendment was underway, a parallel endeavor to have the necessry states petition the Congress for a Constitutional Convention for the purpose of submitting such an amendment was also underway. In fact, 32 of the necessary 34 states have already filed such applications. This right of the states to require the convening of a convention for the purpose of submitting amendments to the Constitution is guaranteed by Article V. This effort came under immediate attack.

In large part the arguments advanced against calling a constitutional convention were rather stuffy and invalid. It was said that it had never been done! As if there is no first for everything. It was said that it would open up a Pandora's Box. One bewildered person said that it would open up a Pandora's box that would let out all of the Trojan horses. The very mixture of the metaphor indicates the bewilderment of the spokesman. It was said that it could wreck the Constitution. To that one might reply by saying that so could the court.

EVERY FANTASTIC CONTENTION has been dreamed up to fortify the argument that the people cannot be entrusted with their own business. The very purpose of the second part of Article V of the Constitution was to assure the people that if a hostile Congress refused to submit amendments to the states, the people throught their legislatures could petition Congress to do so and it was made mandatory. The Article states that the Congress "shall" call a convention on petition of the necessary number of states.

Alexander Hamilton, one of the framers, gave particular attention to this Article and pointed out that it was "perempory" and that it left no discreion in the Congress with respect to calling a convention.

Whose government is this anyway? If it is not the government of, for, and by people, it is one of the single phenomena of our public life that candidates supplicate the people for their votes and, when elected to office, all too often promptly manifest an eloquent distrust of the people. Whenever the time comes that the people cannot be trusted with their own affairs it will be time to fold un the Republic and give the key back to the Indians.

THE VERY PEOPLE who framed the Constitution had no such timidity about going back to the people. The Constitution was ratified by the required number of states on July 2, 1788, within 11 months of its ratification 10 amendments were proposed, and within 26 months these were ratified and became a part of the Constitution. These were known as the Bill of Rights. What a lesson this should be to any self-appointed defenders of the faith who really have no faith in the people.

Twenty-five times the Constitution has been amended. These amendments include the Bill of Rights, the abolition of slavery, votes for women, prohibition, the repeal of prohibition, presidential succession, the poll tax and others.

When one watches the march of federalism, whether by court decree or executive ukase, one becomes acutely aware that the effort for a more perfect union has been stalemated and that retrogression has set in. If this trend continues, state lines will fade only to be recorded in the dusty files of Rand McNally.

It is high time to find out from the people whether they approve of these encorachments on their powers. The most satisfactory way to ascertain the peoples' will is through a constitutional convention. We can then determine whether we can still honestly say: "We the people of the United States in order to form a more perfect union . . . . do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

DAVID LAWRENCE

Court Justice

Senator Sam J. Erwin, Jr., a former associate justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court, has made a significant statement to the Senate Judiciary Committee concerning President Johnson's appointment of Thurgood Marshall to be a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Mr. Ervin, in his lengthy pronouncement, does not make a single reference to the fact that Mr. Marshall is a Negro. His point is rather that, if President Johnson felt that he had to choose someone of a particular race or religion, he should not have added another "judicial activist" to the high court.

The North Carolina Democrat declares that the Supreme Court, as now constituted, "has a solicitude for persons charged with crime which blinds it to the truth that society and the victim of crime are as much entitled to justice as the accused."

Senator Ervin mentions that his is not a lone voice on this subject, but that Supreme Court justices, judges of federal courts, state judges, lawyers and writers on legal subjects have charged on many occasions that during recent years "a majority of the Supreme Court has repeatedly rendered decisions incompatible with the language and history of the Constitution."

MR. ERVIN calls attention, for instance, to a resolution adopted by a conference of state chief justices which pleaded for the exercise of judicial self-restraint and criticized certain decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States as "inconsistent with the powers allotted or reserved by the Constitution to the states." The North Carolina senator adds:

"Self-restraint is the capacity and the willingness of the qualified occupant of a judicial office to lay aside his personal notions of what constitutional provision ought to say and to base his interpretation of its meaning solely upon its language and history. In performing his task, he does not recklessly cast into the judicial garbage can the sound precedents of his wise predecessors. . . .

"One does not come into possession of self-restraint, however, by occupying executive or legislative offices, or by rendering aid to a political party, or by maintaining a friendly relationship with a president, or by adhering to a particular religion, or by belonging to a particular race. And, unhappily, some men of brilliant intellect and good intentions seem incapable of acquiring it or unwilling to exercise it."

What Senator Ervin is implying, in effect, is that he does not object to the nomination of Thurgood Marshall because of his race, but rather that other Negro lawyers might well have been considered who are not among the "judicial activists." He explains:

"This is no time to add another judicial activist to the Supreme Court. The court, as now constituted, has already taken us a long way down the road which George Washington told us not to travel. As a consequence, words of the Constitution no longer mean what they have always meant, history and precedents are disregarded, and decisions on crucial constitutional questions are based on personal notions which a majority of the justices happen to share from time to time. . . .

"IT IS CLEARLY a disservice to the Constitution and the country to appoint a judicial activist to the Supreme Court at any time . . .

"Judge Marshall is by practice and philosophy a legal and judicial activist, and if he is elevated to the Supreme Court, he will join other activist justices in rendering decisions which will substantially impair, if not destroy, the right of Americans for years to come to have the government of the United States and the several states conducted in accordance with the Constitution.

"It is not strange that Judge Marshall should be a legal and judicial activist. Indeed, it would be little short of miraculous if he were not. His activities as a practicing lawyer were calculated to make any man a constitutional iconoclast."

Unfortunately, the senate committee which considered the question of confirmation did not in its hearings present to the country the names of some eminent Negro lawyers whose qualifications for the high court are entirely different from those of Mr. Marshall.

Rice is the chief food of about half the people in the world. Most of whom live in Asia where rice is even more important than wheat is to the people of Europe and the United States. Many Asians eat rice three times a day, and often have little else to eat. In the U.S., the average is only about six pounds of rice a year for every person.

The famous Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C., was established when James Smithson, an Englishman who had never visited the U.S., left $550,000 to our nation in 1829 to establish an institution for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." Congress accepted the gift in trust, and established the Smithsonian on Aug. 10, 1846.

The first large German city to be occupied by American Forces during World War II was Aachen, onetime historic home city and capital of Charlemagne. This city was distinguished, too, by the fact that 28 Holy Roman Emperors were crowned there.

Court Justice

Senator Sam J. Erwin, Jr., a former associate justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court, has made a significant statement to the Senate Judiciary Committee concerning President Johnson's appointment of Thurgood Marshall to be a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Mr. Ervin, in his lengthy pronouncement, does not make a single reference to the fact that Mr. Marshall is a Negro. His point is rather that, if President Johnson felt that he had to choose someone of a particular race or religion, he should not have added another "judicial activist" to the high court.

The North Carolina Democrat declares that the Supreme Court, as now constituted, "has a solicitude for persons charged with crime which blinds it to the truth that society and the victim of crime are as much entitled to justice as the accused."

Senator Ervin mentions that his is not a lone voice on this subject, but that Supreme Court justices, judges of federal courts, state judges, lawyers and writers on legal subjects have charged on many occasions that during recent years "a majority of the Supreme Court has repeatedly rendered decisions incompatible with the language and history of the Constitution."

MR. ERVIN calls attention, for instance, to a resolution adopted by a conference of state chief justices which pleaded for the exercise of judicial self-restraint and criticized certain decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States as "inconsistent with the powers allotted or reserved by the Constitution to the states." The North Carolina senator adds:

"Self-restraint is the capacity and the willingness of the qualified occupant of a judicial office to lay aside his personal notions of what constitutional provision ought to say and to base his interpretation of its meaning solely upon its language and history. In performing his task, he does not recklessly cast into the judicial garbage can the sound precedents of his wise predecessors. . . .

"One does not come into possession of self-restraint, however, by occupying executive or legislative offices, or by rendering aid to a political party, or by maintaining a friendly relationship with a president, or by adhering to a particular religion, or by belonging to a particular race. And, unhappily, some men of brilliant intellect and good intentions seem incapable of acquiring it or unwilling to exercise it."

What Senator Ervin is implying, in effect, is that he does not object to the nomination of Thurgood Marshall because of his race, but rather that other Negro lawyers might well have been considered who are not among the "judicial activists." He explains:

"This is no time to add another judicial activist to the Supreme Court. The court, as now constituted, has already taken us a long way down the road which George Washington told us not to travel. As a consequence, words of the Constitution no longer mean what they have always meant, history and precedents are disregarded, and decisions on crucial constitutional questions are based on personal notions which a majority of the justices happen to share from time to time. . . .

"IT IS CLEARLY a disservice to the Constitution and the country to appoint a judicial activist to the Supreme Court at any time . . . "Judge Marshall is by practice and philosophy a legal and judicial activist, and if he is elevated to the Supreme Court, he will join other activist justices in rendering decisions which will substantially impair, if not destroy, the right of Americans for years to come to have the government of the United States and the several states conducted in accordance with the Constitution.

"It is not strange that Judge Marshall should be a legal and judicial activist. Indeed, it would be little short of miraculous if he were not. His activities as a practicing lawyer were calculated to make any man a constitutional iconoclast."

Unfortunately, the senate committee which considered the question of confirmation did not in its hearings present to the country the names of some eminent Negro lawyers whose qualifications for the high court are entirely different from those of Mr. Marshall.

Rice is the chief food of about half the people in the world. Most of whom live in Asia where rice is even more important than wheat is to the people of Europe and the United States. Many Asians eat rice three times a day, and often have little else to eat. In the U.S., the average is only about six pounds of rice a year for every person.

The famous Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C., was established when James Smithson, an Englishman who had never visited the U.S., left $550,000 to our nation in 1829 to establish an institution for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." Congress accepted the gift in trust, and established the Smithsonian on Aug. 10, 1846.

The first large German city to be occupied by American Forces during World War II was Aachen, onetime historic home city and capital of Charlemagne. This city was distinguished, too, by the fact that 28 Holy Roman Emperors were crowned there.

DISLIKE FOR COFFEE

Q. I have heard that an early sign of pregnancy is the development of a dislike for coffee. Is this true?

A. It may be true. Several years ago an obstetrician questioned several hundred pregnant women and found that more than half had developed a dislike for the odor or taste of coffee early in pregnancy. "Instant" coffees were better tolerated than boiled or percolated coffee.

MIGRAINE

Q. What is the difference between migraine and sick-headache?

A. There's no difference. "Sick-headache" is an older term for the more specific word "migraine." In such cases the headache is dull, throbbing or piercing in type, and is often restricted to one-half of the head. The pain frequently starts over one eye and radiates backward, although it may start at the back of the head and proceed forward. Migraine is often associated with nausea and other abdominal symptoms — hence the term "sick-headache."

Vietnam

strike at the MIG field of Hoa Lac, 15 miles west of Hanoi. It was a night strike and it was not known if any MIGs were caught on the ground.

Navy planes from the carrier Oriskany bored into the heaviest Communist defenses to hit the rail bridge at Hai Duong, midway between Hanoi and its port city of Haiphong.

About half the day's strikes were against targets from Hanoi north. The remaining attacks raked rail, road and river traffic from the capital south to the 17th parallel frontier dividing Vietnam.

In this area the cruiser Boston moved inshore to fire eight-inch guns at supply traffic around the city of Vinh. The Navy said she blew up 11 river barges and damaged seven more.

Along the demilitarized zone straddling the 17th parallel, a Communist machine gunner caught a U.S. Coast Guard cutter close inshore and raked it with fire. Two Coast Guardsmen were wounded but damage to the 82-foot boat was not revealed.

American Marines just below the demilitarized zone came under ground and mortar attacks early this morning from North Vietnamese regulars operating from inside the DMZ. U.S. headquarters said eight Marines were killed and 22 wounded and eight North Vietnamese bodies were found.

The Communists apparently pulled back after about four hours of probing attacks which were met by ground fire and air strikes guided by flareships.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command said Marine artillery killed 26 of the enemy in the same general area Wednesday after an air observer spotted Red forces moving on the ground. No U.S. casualties were reported in that action.

Eight-engine U.S. B52 bombers returned to the demilitarized zone for three raids today against suspected North Vietnamese fortifications and gun positions.

A North Vietnamese report said U.S. bombing raids on Hanoi between Aug. 11 and Aug. 23 killed 76 civilians and injured 151, the East German news agency ADN reported Thursday.

ADN's Hanoi correspondent said North Vietnam's "commission for the investigation of American war crimes in Vietnam" presented "clear evidence that the raids were chiefly conducted against the most densely populated parts of the city."

ADN also said the provincial capital of Lang Son, just south of the Chinese border, was the target of 85 missions Aug. 13, with 22 civilians killed and 51 injured.

A civilian ticket in the election race declared today that enough U.S. troops are in South Vietnam and no more should be sent.

"There are enough troops here, but we must make better use of them, particularly the South Vietnamese troops," Dr. Phan Quang Dan told a news conference for American newsmen.

Dan, a vice presidential candidate, spoke on behalf of his running mate, presidential candidate Phan Khac Suu, the speaker of the Constituent Assembly who has wide support. He is not flient in English. Suu nodded in agreement as Dan answered questions.

Kiwanians At Lisbon 'Attend' Convention

LISBON — Local Kiwanians at their luncheon Thursday in the VFW McKinley Room "attended" the Kiwanis International convention held at Houston in June. Ralph Guappone was program chairman.

Journey to an Earthbound Moon

The pilot at left peers through a porthole and sees the moon looming amid a star-studded night in space. Countdown begins for a lunar landing, all while sitting in the safety of a converted airplane hangar at Bethpage, N.Y. There Grumman Aircraft Co. has developed a mock flight for training purposes, complete with appropriate craft attitude and space scenes projected on the space module window by television cameras.

An image of a star-filled night sky is created by televising a moving, spangled black globe. Besides causing pilot reaction to visual approaches, the system also makes demanding tests on equipment aboard the space craft.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I effect a glass-smooth finish when patching plaster walls?

A.—After allowing your fresh patch to set until the plaster begins to stiffen, dip your putty knife or trowel into water and drag the wet tool over the surface of the partially hardened plaster. This will leave it with a smooth, glazed surface which will need little or no sanding.

Q.—How can I keep an interior brick wall clean and prevent stains from soaking in?

A.—By application of a thin coat of clear penetrating wood sealer, mixed half - and - half with turpentine. Make certain that your bricks are clean and dry first.

Q.—How can I renovate a dull patent leather bag or other patent leather article?

Q.—How can I soften the leather in a pair of inexpensive shoes?

next week. But that is for the leadership to decide."

Gov. Shafer originally set $287 million as his tax needs last June. The administration since has jumped that to approximately $285 million because of an additional $8 million in appropriations and a $13 million loss of revenue under the so-called Rockwell amendment.

The amendment, designed to encourage domestic corporations to retain their corporate headquarters in Pennsylvania, would give the in-state firms the same tax calculation advantage given their out-of-state competitors.

The administration initially proposed to make the amendment effective, Jan. 1, 1969, but the legislature wants it to apply immediately.

The 1 per cent tax on insurance death benefits would raise the largest amount of money, $38 million, among the latest bills to be introduced by Anderson.

The other measures in the package propose:

—A 3 per cent tax on the trade-in of automobiles, appliances, etc, $14.2 million

—Extension of the sales tax to include television cable hookups, $1.1 million, to be paid by the subscriber.

—Reduction from 50 to 10 cents of the sales tax exemption on restaurant food, $14.2 million.

—A 1 per cent tax on domestic insurance premiums, to be paid by the company, $5 million.

Anderson said he still considered a proposed 1-to-3 cent tax on soda pop dead. The measure, which encountered substantial opposition shortly after it was introduced, had a $25 million estimate.

Golfer Sam Snead, a native of Hot Springs, W. Va., reached his 55th birthday last May 27.

strike at the MIG field of Hoa Lac, 15 miles west of Hanoi. It was a night strike and it was not known if any MIGs were caught on the ground.

Navy planes from the carrier Oriskany bored into the heaviest Communist defenses to hit the rail bridge at Hai Duong, midway between Hanoi and its port city of Haiphong.

About half the day's strikes were against targets from Hanoi north. The remaining attacks raked rail, road and river traffic from the capital south to the 17th parallel frontier dividing Vietnam.

In this area the cruiser Boston moved inshore to fire eight-inch guns at supply traffic around the city of Vinh. The Navy said she blew up 11 river barges and damaged seven more.

Along the demilitarized zone straddling the 17th parallel, a Communist machine gunner caught a U.S. Coast Guard cutter close inshore and raked it with fire. Two Coast Guardsmen were wounded but damage to the 82-foot boat was not revealed.

American Marines just below the demilitarized zone came under ground and mortar attacks early this morning from North Vietnamese regulars operating from inside the DMZ. U.S. headquarters said eight Marines were killed and 22 wounded and eight North Vietnamese bodies were found.

The Communists apparently pulled back after about four hours of probing attacks which were met by ground fire and air strikes guided by flareships.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command said Marine artillery killed 26 of the enemy in the same general area Wednesday after an air observer spotted Red forces moving on the ground. No U.S. casualties were reported in that action.

Eight-engine U.S. B52 bombers returned to the demilitarized zone for three raids today against suspected North Vietnamese fortifications and gun positions.

A North Vietnamese report said U.S. bombing raids on Hanoi between Aug. 11 and Aug. 23 killed 76 civilians and injured 151, the East German news agency ADN reported Thursday.

ADN's Hanoi correspondent said North Vietnam's "commission for the investigation of American war crimes in Vietnam" presented "clear evidence that the raids were chiefly conducted against the most densely populated parts of the city."

ADN also said the provincial capital of Lang Son, just south of the Chinese border, was the target of 85 missions Aug. 13, with 22 civilians killed and 51 injured.

Five Vietnamese civilians died in two terrorist incidents believed part of the Viet Cong's campagn to wreck the Sept. 3 presidential election.

A civilian ticket in the election race declared today that enough U.S. troops are in South Vietnam and no more should be sent.

"There are enough troops here, but we must make better use of them, particularly the South Vietnamese troops," Dr. Phan Quang Dan told a news conference for American newsmen.

Dan, a vice presidential candidate, spoke on behalf of his running mate, presidential candidate Phan Khac Suu, the speaker of the Constituent Assembly who has wide support. He is not flient in English. Suu nodded in agreement as Dan answered questions.

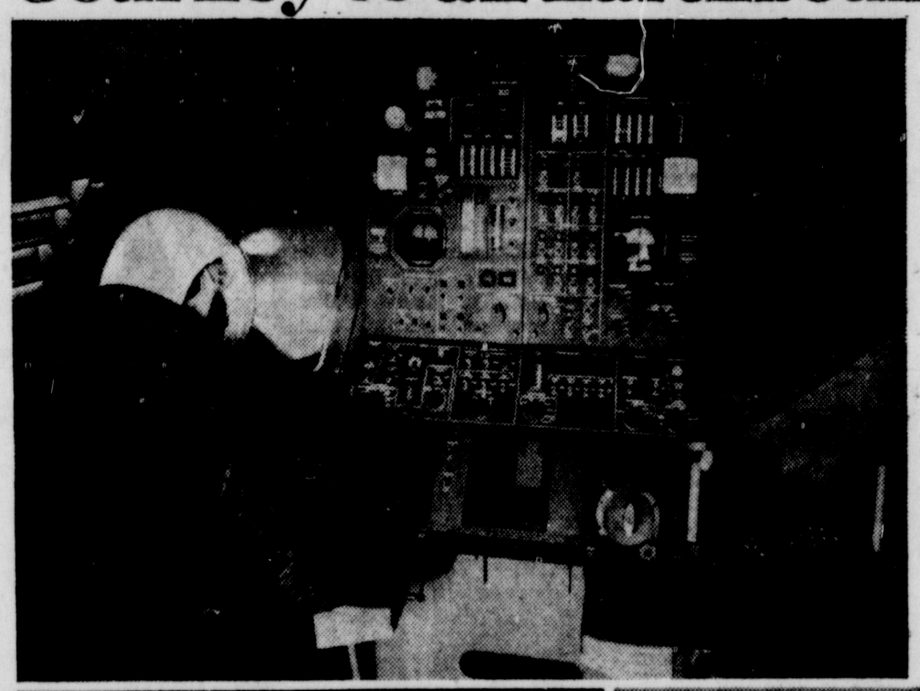

Kiwanians At Lisbon 'Attend' Convention

LISBON — Local Kiwanians at their luncheon Thursday in the VFW McKinley Room "attended" the Kiwanis International convention held at Houston in June. Ralph Guappone was program chairman.

Journey to an Earthbound Moon

The pilot at left peers through a porthole and sees the moon looming amid a star-studded night in space. Countdown begins for a lunar landing, all while sitting in the safety of a converted airplane hangar at Bethpage, N.Y. There Grumman Aircraft Co. has developed a mock flight for training purposes, complete with appropriate craft attitude and space scenes projected on the space module window by television cameras.

An image of a star-filled night sky is created by televising a moving, spangled black globe. Besides causing pilot reaction to visual approaches, the system also makes demanding tests on equipment aboard the space craft.

New Meeting Scheduled On Mosquitoes

SALEM — A detachment of Egypt Rd. and Pine Lake Rd. mosquitoes "buzzed" a two-county delegation investigating their habitat Thursday afternoon.

Braving the confrontation were county Commissioners James W. Boyd, Charles J. Gause and R. Max Gard of Columbiana County and George J. Bindas, Thomas Barrett and John Palermo of Mahoning County; Samuel Gould, Mahoning County engineer and two assistants; William Coleman, representing Columbiana County Engineer John Ursu, and Joseph Kornbau, Perry Township trustee who guided the group to the trouble spots.

A delegation of residents northeast of Salem brought the mosquito problem to the attention of Columbiana commissioners a month ago. A state mosquito specialist subsequently conducted a survey and recommended draining a marsh which, he said, is responsible for most of the insects.

The outcome of yesterday's meeting was a decision for another meeting which, officials hope, will include someone from the Ohio Health Department, county health departments of both counties, and the prosecuting attorneys. This meeting may have to wait until mid - September when Ursu returns from vacation.

Facts and Fallacies about Jewelry

by W. D. ORR

FALLACY:

Simulated and cultured pearls are much the same.

FACT:

Simulated pearls are man made, usually being a glass bead coated with a pearl solution. Cultured pearls are produced by inserting a mother-of-pearl bead in the actual pearl oyster, which then builds up the cultured pearl just as it does a natural pearl. The popular cultured pearls are obviously more valuable than man-made simulated pearls.

The annual picnic meeting of the Lutheran Christian Women's organization of the Ohio View Evangelical Lutheran church in Industry was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. John Madish of Avondale Dr.

A nominating committee was appointed during the brief business session conducted by Mrs. Jack M. Peck, president.

Appointed were Mrs. Paul Brucker, chairman, Mrs. Joseph Fiediga and Mrs. Charles Newcomb. The committee will present a slate, including committee chairmen, at the next meeting. Officers will be elected to two-year terms.

Mrs. Newcomb, secretary, read a thank-you note from the pastor's wife, Mrs. Oscar L. Arnal, for the stork shower the group held for her last month. An invitation also was read to attend the Thil Woman's Club 13th annual antique show and sale Sept. 6 and 7 at 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at Livingston Hall, Thiel College, Greenville.

The LCW voted to donate the free-will offerings toward new choral robes for the church choir. Mrs. Peck reported on the recent meeting of the Worship Committee, choir members and the LCW members with the robes' representative.

The robes will be shipped in about five weeks, she said. Mrs. Homer Paul is robes chairman.

Mrs. William Stiblo took up the free-will offering and the thank-offring collection and said a dedication prayer.

Mrs. Peck announced that she and Mrs. Paul will represent the local unit during the annual synod LCW convention today and Saturday at Thiel College.

The September Altar Care committee includes Mrs. Irene Rose, chairman, Mrs. George Madish, Mrs. William Seiler and Mrs. Chris Stall. Rev. Arnal gave the invocation and benediction.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—What can I do about the picture nails, screws, and hooks in my walls when I'm repapering a room?

Remove those holders and replace them with toothpicks, allowing the points to protrude from the wall. Then when the new paper is smoothed over them, they will come through, and there will be no need to rip the paper or remeasure the walls to find the proper locations for your pictures and mirrors.

A.—Chop the parsley very fine, place it in a cloth, squeeze the cloth tightly, hold it under the cold - water faucet for a half - minute, then squeeze again until all the water is out.

Q.—What is the best way to deal with stains from office carbon paper?

A.—Sponge with carbon tetrachloride. Then, to remove any remaining traces of the dyestuff, flush out with a solution of water, detergent, and a small amount of ammonia.

Q.—How can I remedy small splits or "checks" that sometime appear in old or weathered plywood panels?

A.—Rub wood filler into the cracks with burlap or other coarse cloth, working across the grain. Then, when dry and sanded, you'll have a smooth, solid base for a new coat of paint.

Q.—How can I quickly clean the bath tub, wash bowl, or other porcelain articles?

A.—By using half of a lemon rind.

Q.—How can I pack watches, jewelry, and other such delicate items for safe mailing?

A.—One good idea is to pack them into a rubber sponge that has been split almost in half lengthwise.

Q.—How can I avoid having the white scales on brown or black material caused by starch?

A.—Prepare the starch that is used for these brown or black materials with carefully strained coffee, instead of water.

In Support Of Contract Demands

UAW Rolls Up Margins For Authorizing Strike

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers are rolling up overwhelming majorities to authorize a strike against General Motors, Ford or Chrysler in support of new contract demands.

Ballots received from Chrysler UAW members had 36,492 in favor of authorization and 1,532 against. At Ford the margin is 32,976 to 966.

The UAW has disclosed no figures on General Motors voting, but usually reliable sources report the margin there also is 90-plus per cent in favor of authorizing a strike, if negotiators deem one necessary.

Local unions with 375,000 members at GM, 152,000 at Ford and 95,000 at Chrysler are under orders to complete balloting today and to get results to UAW headquarters tonight.

A heavy vote for authorization would not mean necessarily there will be a strike.

The UAW, however, has summoned local union leaders to seven cities Saturday and Sunday "to acquaint them with the strike assistance program of the international union," and forecasts of a strike have come this week from both industry and union executives.

Robert J. Eggert, marketing manager of Ford's Lincoln-Mercury division, said in Madison, Wis., "The unions are asking for a large wage increase and don't seem to want to compromise."

Then Eggert added: "If the (expected) strike lasts more than three weeks it would begin to show up in the economic indicators, and if it developed into an industrywide strike I would expect the government to step in."

Robert Johnston, UAW regional director for Illinois and Iowa, told a seminar of union representatives in Ottawa, Ill., that "all signs point to a strike and if it is a strike, it will probably be a long one."

Among other things, the UAW is demanding a guaranteed annual income, a substantial wage increase for all with additional for skilled tradesmen, equal pay for Canadian auto workers who now average about 40 cents an hour less than their American counterparts, higher pensions, earlier retirement and other fringe benefits.

A General Motors spokesman estimated this week it would take $4 per hour per worker each year to meet all union wage and benefit demands.

The companies estimate wages and fringes now add up to about $4.70 hourly for each worker. The Bureau of Labor Statistics figures the average hourly straight-time pay, without fringes or benefits, is $3.41 in the auto industry as a whole.

Unauthorized Strike Hits Paper At Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — This city's morning newspaper, the Journal Herald, didn't publish today. A spokesman for the paper said an unauthorized work stoppage by pressmen caused the shutdown.

"The dispute centers on overtime pay," said R. C. Snyder, vice president and general manager of Dayton Newspapers, Inc., which publishes the Journal Herald and the afternoon Dayton Daily News.

Snyder said he didn't know if the situation would affect publication of today's Daily News. Separate chapels of the union deal with the jointly published newspapers.

Sugar Theft Uncovers Man Operating Still

CLEVELAND (AP) — An investigation of the theft of 1,700 pounds of sugar over a year's time has led to the arrest of 49-year-old Thedford Kennedy for operation of a still in the basement of his East Side home.

Detectives said they had been investigating the theft from the plant of Strong-Cobb-Arner, Inc. They said they went to Kennedy's home Wednesday with a search warrant and found 200 pounds of sugar, the still, 30 gallons of mash and seven gallons of liquor in the basement.

Ohio Airman Killed

Thieu Seeks Presidency

Ky Believes His Ticket Will Sweep Viet Voting

HOA HAO, Vietnam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said today he believes his military presidential ticket will get more votes than all the civilian tickets combined.

The military is running Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu for president and Ky for vice president in the election Sept 3 against 10 civilian tickets.

Ky spoke to newsmen while standing on the deck of a Vietnamese navy river patrol boat cruising through An Giang Province in the Mekong delta. The premier was campaigning among some of his staunchest supporters, the Hoa Hao religious sect.

In the town of Hoa Hao, seat of the sect's estimated 700,000 members, Ky told their national convention:

"Maybe I am still not a good politician, maybe I talk too much and too directly because of my young age, maybe I deserve criticism... but I think that nobody can question my attachment to the people."

Ky is thought to have solid control of the 400,000 Hoa Hao votes.

Ky told the newsmen in An Giang, he would be satisfied if his ticket got 35 to 50 per cent of the vote but added that he expects more.

Meanwhile, one of the civilian candidates declared in Saigon that enough U.S. troops are fighting the war and no more should be sent. He said better use should be made of South Vietnamese troops.

The statement was made at a news conference called by Dr. Phan Khac Suu, speaker of South Vietnam's Constituent Assembly and one of the few presidential candidates with a widespread following, and his running mate, Dr. Phan Quang Dan.

The news conference was called specifically for the foreign press. English - speaking Dan fieled the questions, with Suu nodding agreement at his side.

"There are enough troop here, but we must make better use of them, particularly the South Vietnamese troops," Dan said.

"Too many American and allied troops have overpowered the South Vietnamese army. They are tempted to just sit on the sidewalk and watch you fight the war."

There are some 457,000 American troops in South Vietnam and the number is expected to reach half a million within a few months.

Noting that there are about a million South Vietnamese and allied soldiers in the country, Dan said: "There is no need to escalate the shooting war. Let's escalate everything else, the social war, and let the Vietnamese assume the main burden as they must."

Dan also warned of an "atmosphere of suspicion" that the military candidates--Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu for president and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky for vice president—would rig the elections.

Dan said, however, that so far the election campaign has been the freest ever held in Soith Vietnam.

Saigon officials have announced that more than 600 persons from 41 nations will be on hand to observe the election Sept. 3 in which the voters will choose a Senate as well as a president and vice president.

There are 528 foreign news correspondents accredited to South Vietnam, and 80 others plan to be on hand for the balloting.

President Johnsin is sending 20 prominent Americans here next week as observers and 48 are coming from other countries.

Industry Area News

Mrs. Pat Nuzzo

The annual picnic meeting of the Lutheran Christian Women's organization of the Ohio View Evangelical Lutheran church in Industry was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. John Madish of Avondale Dr.

A nominating committee was appointed during the brief business session conducted by Mrs. Jack M. Peck, president.

Appointed were Mrs. Paul Brucker, chairman, Mrs. Joseph Fiediga and Mrs. Charles Newcomb. The committee will present a slate, including committee chairmen, at the next meeting. Officers will be elected to two-year terms.

Mrs. Newcomb, secretary, read a thank-you note from the pastor's wife, Mrs. Oscar L. Arnal, for the stork shower the group held for her last month. An invitation also was read to attend the Thil Woman's Club 13th annual antique show and sale Sept. 6 and 7 at 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at Livingston Hall, Thiel College, Greenville.

The LCW voted to donate the free-will offerings toward new choral robes for the church choir. Mrs. Peck reported on the recent meeting of the Worship Committee, choir members and the LCW members with the robes' representative.

The robes will be shipped in about five weeks, she said. Mrs. Homer Paul is robes chairman.

Mrs. William Stiblo took up the free-will offering and the thank-offring collection and said a dedication prayer.

Mrs. Peck announced that she and Mrs. Paul will represent the local unit during the annual synod LCW convention today and Saturday at Thiel College.

The September Altar Care committee includes Mrs. Irene Rose, chairman, Mrs. George Madish, Mrs. William Seiler and Mrs. Chris Stall. Rev. Arnal gave the invocation and benediction.

Mrs. Helen Graham was cohostess with Mrs. Madish during the picnic held on the Madish lawn. Games were played, with prizes awarded Mrs. Newcomb, Mrs. C. Lloyd Deffenbaugh and Mrs. Paul.

The next meeting will be Sept. 19 at 8:15 p.m. at the church Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. John Romisher will lead devotions and Mrs. Peck, in charge of the program, will present the church's former pastor, the Rev. James N. Servey of the Zion First Lutheran Church at Ambridge. His subject will be "Duties of an Army Chaplain."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—What can I do about the picture nails, screws, and hooks in my walls when I'm repapering a room?

Remove those holders and replace them with toothpicks, allowing the points to protrude from the wall. Then when the new paper is smoothed over them, they will come through, and there will be no need to rip the paper or remeasure the walls to find the proper locations for your pictures and mirrors.

A.—Chop the parsley very fine, place it in a cloth, squeeze the cloth tightly, hold it under the cold - water faucet for a half - minute, then squeeze again until all the water is out.

Q.—What is the best way to deal with stains from office carbon paper?

A.—Sponge with carbon tetrachloride. Then, to remove any remaining traces of the dyestuff, flush out with a solution of water, detergent, and a small amount of ammonia.

Q.—How can I remedy small splits or "checks" that sometime appear in old or weathered plywood panels?

A.—Rub wood filler into the cracks with burlap or other coarse cloth, working across the grain. Then, when dry and sanded, you'll have a smooth, solid base for a new coat of paint.

Q.—How can I quickly clean the bath tub, wash bowl, or other porcelain articles?

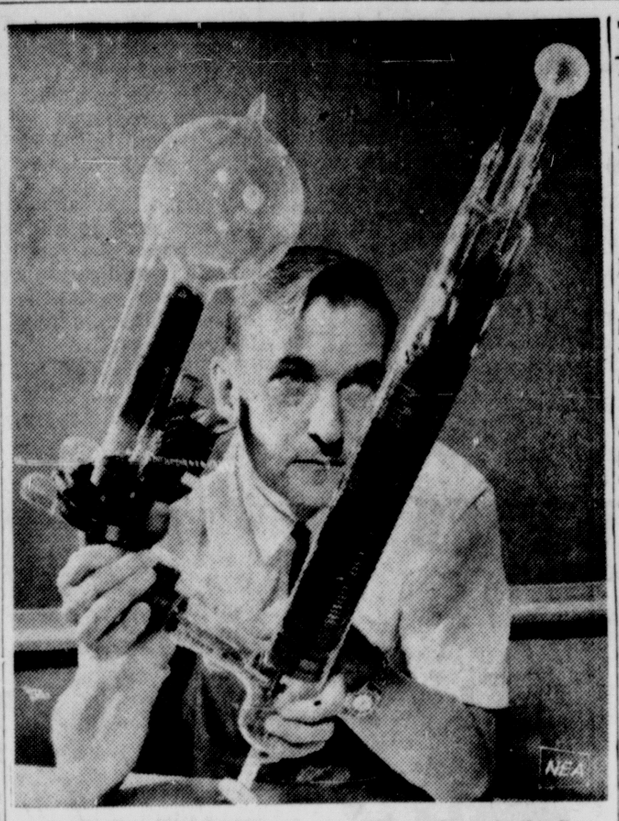

A.—By using half of a lemon rind.

Q.—How can I pack watches, jewelry, and other such delicate items for safe mailing?

A.—One good idea is to pack them into a rubber sponge that has been split almost in half lengthwise.

Q.—How can I avoid having the white scales on brown or black material caused by starch?

In Support Of Contract Demands

UAW Rolls Up Margins For Authorizing Strike

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers are rolling up overwhelming majorities to authorize a strike against General Motors, Ford or Chrysler in support of new contract demands.

Ballots received from Chrysler UAW members had 36,492 in favor of authorization and 1,532 against. At Ford the margin is 32,976 to 966.

The UAW has disclosed no figures on General Motors voting, but usually reliable sources report the margin there also is 90-plus per cent in favor of authorizing a strike, if negotiators deem one necessary.

Local unions with 375,000 members at GM, 152,000 at Ford and 95,000 at Chrysler are under orders to complete balloting today and to get results to UAW headquarters tonight.

A heavy vote for authorization would not mean necessarily there will be a strike.

The UAW, however, has summoned local union leaders to seven cities Saturday and Sunday "to acquaint them with the strike assistance program of the international union," and forecasts of a strike have come this week from both industry and union executives.

Robert J. Eggert, marketing manager of Ford's Lincoln-Mercury division, said in Madison, Wis., "The unions are asking for a large wage increase and don't seem to want to compromise."

Then Eggert added: "If the (expected) strike lasts more than three weeks it would begin to show up in the economic indicators, and if it developed into an industrywide strike I would expect the government to step in."

Robert Johnston, UAW regional director for Illinois and Iowa, told a seminar of union representatives in Ottawa, Ill., that "all signs point to a strike and if it is a strike, it will probably be a long one."

Among other things, the UAW is demanding a guaranteed annual income, a substantial wage increase for all with additional for skilled tradesmen, equal pay for Canadian auto workers who now average about 40 cents an hour less than their American counterparts, higher pensions, earlier retirement and other fringe benefits.

A General Motors spokesman estimated this week it would take $4 per hour per worker each year to meet all union wage and benefit demands.

The companies estimate wages and fringes now add up to about $4.70 hourly for each worker. The Bureau of Labor Statistics figures the average hourly straight-time pay, without fringes or benefits, is $3.41 in the auto industry as a whole.

Unauthorized Strike Hits Paper At Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — This city's morning newspaper, the Journal Herald, didn't publish today. A spokesman for the paper said an unauthorized work stoppage by pressmen caused the shutdown.

"The dispute centers on overtime pay," said R. C. Snyder, vice president and general manager of Dayton Newspapers, Inc., which publishes the Journal Herald and the afternoon Dayton Daily News.

Snyder said he didn't know if the situation would affect publication of today's Daily News. Separate chapels of the union deal with the jointly published newspapers.

Sugar Theft Uncovers Man Operating Still

CLEVELAND (AP) — An investigation of the theft of 1,700 pounds of sugar over a year's time has led to the arrest of 49-year-old Thedford Kennedy for operation of a still in the basement of his East Side home.

Detectives said they had been investigating the theft from the plant of Strong-Cobb-Arner, Inc. They said they went to Kennedy's home Wednesday with a search warrant and found 200 pounds of sugar, the still, 30 gallons of mash and seven gallons of liquor in the basement.

Ohio Airman Killed

Thieu Seeks Presidency

Ky Believes His Ticket Will Sweep Viet Voting

HOA HAO, Vietnam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said today he believes his military presidential ticket will get more votes than all the civilian tickets combined.

The military is running Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu for president and Ky for vice president in the election Sept 3 against 10 civilian tickets.

Ky spoke to newsmen while standing on the deck of a Vietnamese navy river patrol boat cruising through An Giang Province in the Mekong delta. The premier was campaigning among some of his staunchest supporters, the Hoa Hao religious sect.

In the town of Hoa Hao, seat of the sect's estimated 700,000 members, Ky told their national convention:

"Maybe I am still not a good politician, maybe I talk too much and too directly because of my young age, maybe I deserve criticism... but I think that nobody can question my attachment to the people."

Ky is thought to have solid control of the 400,000 Hoa Hao votes.

Ky told the newsmen in An Giang, he would be satisfied if his ticket got 35 to 50 per cent of the vote but added that he expects more.

Meanwhile, one of the civilian candidates declared in Saigon that enough U.S. troops are fighting the war and no more should be sent. He said better use should be made of South Vietnamese troops.

The statement was made at a news conference called by Dr. Phan Khac Suu, speaker of South Vietnam's Constituent Assembly and one of the few presidential candidates with a widespread following, and his running mate, Dr. Phan Quang Dan.

The news conference was called specifically for the foreign press. English - speaking Dan fieled the questions, with Suu nodding agreement at his side.

"There are enough troop here, but we must make better use of them, particularly the South Vietnamese troops," Dan said.

DEAR FOLKS: A nice gentleman from one of the largest manufacturers of washing machines sent me some very expert advice on laundering clothes.

Here's what he says:

"We read with interest your most recent article concerning the graying of clothes. We can only add the following to your excellent findings.

"Water turbidity, caused by the presence of fine particles of matter such as sand, clay, or vegetable matter suspended in the water, sometimes causes a gray appearance to the clothes and can be removed by bleaching.

"Hard water can also cause grayness. A water softener can correct this condition.

"Also, too little detergent may cause gray clothes from insufficient soil removal, or from the removed soil being redeposited on the clothes.

"If soil is allowed to settle back on the clothes after it has been suspended by detergent and water action, the soil becomes redeposited and is almost impossible to remove. A sufficient amount of detergent must be used in relation to the amount of soil present and the clothes should not be allowed to soak in the detergent solution for an extended period.

"Neither should they be agitated in the washer for an excessively long period of time, since the detergent cannot suspend the soil indefinitely."

ROBERT M. GROSS.

Ah, how nice of you to write, Sir. Thank you no end.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I believe every young mother who has a kindergarten-age child would like to hear my idea:

A short time before your child starts to school, find out who a few of the other children are that are starting with him. They will usually be in your own neighborhood.

Give a LITTLE party — just something easy — so that he can meet and get acquainted with the other children.

I did this and my child was happy to start to school. He didn't feel he was among strangers and looked forward to seeing his new friends again.

Letter Of Laughter

DEAR HELOISE: In the last 100 years, we have progressed from washing clothes in a tub by hand, and hanging them outdoors. . .to automatic washers and dryers.

From non-fast color cottons to fast color cottons and one-story homes.

Now we have the miracle fabrics, hand-wash only, drip-drys, guaranteed to bleed and modern homes without basements. Result, no place to drip.

This is progress?

YOUR LOVE.

DEAR HELOISE: For my new king-size pillows, I let the hems out of the regular pillowcases I had on hand. Bought some print material and added to the end. I doubled this hem and attached it with rickrack, cording, bias tape, etc.

Very attractive, so economical and saved me the price of new kingsize pillowcases.

MRS. LOUIS BODIN

DEAR HELOISE: This salad is pretty for any special occasion.

Put your gelatin salad in one of your fancy glass bowls. Set a pretty glass or sugar bowl in the center of the liquid gelatin. Weight it down by putting sev eral spoons in it.

When the salad has set an you are ready to serve, remove the spoons and fill the center glass with salad dressing.

EDYTH MOES.

Thanks, Edyth, for writing. Your idea is great.

And did you know you could also use a little cold water in the glass to weight it down? Then just pour it out when you're ready to serve.

HELOISE.

Letters We'd Like To Get

By HAL BOYLE

"Recently my associates and I acquired and modernized the famous resort, Glumville-by-the-Sea. In going over the records we noted that you and your wife were the first honeymooners to register at the opening of the resort just 25 years ago this month. To celebrate this historic anniversary we'd like you to be our guests for two weeks. Everything will be on us, naturally. Just bring along your wife and a bathing suit. If you don't have the same wife, bring any wife of your choice."

"You may have thought it was a joke to send to our art gallery the pictures which your daughter painted in kindergarten. However, the child has genius in her fingertips. She is what we class as a postcubist, preimpressionist, transcendental original modern primitive of the first water. Artists of that type are, as you may conjecture, extremely rare. We sold her first 12 paintings for $6,000. Have you any more? We strongly recommend that you keep that kid chained in kindergarten for at least five more years."

"As the fund to build a concrete wishing well on the campus of our beloved Alma Mater has already been oversubscribed, I am returning unc ashed your check for $1.35. But it is heartwarming, indeed, to list you among the hundreds of loyal alumni who responded so faithfully to our appeal. As a token of gratitude we are enclosing you free tickets to all our home football games this year."

"As one father to another, I know that my daughter must have talked your son into the elopement. Now that it's done, however, why don't we make the best of it? I'd consider it a privilege if you let me pay the bills for their last year in college, and also take your boy into my firm when he graduates. Incidentally, if you're not completely happy in your own job, I have a $25,000 executive post empty in my organization which I'd be glad to offer—."

"By the way, Joe, remember Daphne, that gal in our high school class who jilted you and later married the guy we voted most likely to succeed? Yesterday I saw her peddling can openers door to door trying to raise enough dough to bail her husband out of jail, where he's locked up as a chronic drunk. Two of their three kids are in reform school, and the third one just got a dishonorable discharge from—."

"It appears that my dumb nephew got the sales tags mixed up and the coat your wife bought is made of chinchilla not rabbit fur. Of course, legally she is entitled to keep it, but if you are open to a reasonable offer, I'll be glad to—."

Phone Executive Warns On Shots At Aerial Cables

A rash of shooting incidents involving aerial cables that have resulted in disrupted telephone service has brought a warning from Robert Sauer, Ohio Bell commercial manager here.

Sauer said anyone caught shooting at aerial cables could receive a $500 fine and a year in jail under Ohio law. He urged parents "to make certain their youngsters use guns they may have in a safe, orderly manner."

Sauer said potshots with firearms at aerial cables in the area have caused several interruptions to telephone service in the past month. He said he feels juveniles were responsible.

He pointed out the danger of a service interruption should someone on the line need help in an emergency situation and the telephone was out of order.

Improved Tactics And Electronics

Plane Loss Rate In Viet Under Korea And War II

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say the rate of U.S. aircraft losses in Vietnam is lower than those of Korea and World War II. They credit improved flying tactics and new electronic countermeasures.

Military spokesmen contend recent fighter and bomber losses around Hanoi are not out of line with the number of raids being flown there.

Between Sunday and Thursday, the United States lost 12 planes in operations over North Vietnam—a near record for a single week.

But officers point out that during this period U.S. pilots have staged more than 800 missions involving perhaps as many as 3,200 separate flights against targets heavily shielded by North Vietnam's air defenses.

The Pentagon does not disclose numbers of individual flights, or sorties, flown over the North.

The military rule of thumb is that each mission involves 3.5 to 4 planes, on the average.

Communist guns, surface-to-air missiles and MIG fighters so far this year have knocked down U.S. planes at the rate of 1.6 per thousand sorties.

This compares with 2.2 per thousand in 1966, 3.2 in 1965 when the air campaign was launched, 3.5 during Korea and 9 per thousand during World War II.

To date the North Vietnamese have downed 659 American planes which cost this country an estimated $1.3 billion.

The number of U.S. raids on the North and the number of antiaircraft weapons deployed in North Vietnam each have quadrupled since 1965.

Gen. John P. McConnel, Air Force Chief of Staff, says the Hanoi- Haiphong area presents "the greatest concentration of antiaircraft weapons that has ever been known in the history of defense in any town or any area in the world."

In 1965 the North Vietnamese had about 2,100 antiaircraft guns, plus 26 to 28 battalions armed with 6 to 8 missiles each.

Latest intelligence credits the enemy with 8,000 weapons, supplied by the Soviet Union and Red China. The number of missile units remains about the same—26 to 28 battalions, rotated among more than 150 missile firing sites in North Vietnam.

The surface-to-air missiles have hit 75 American planes in 3,500 attempts. But the long, slender missiles force U.S. pilots into evasive maneuvers and down into intense flak.

North Vietnam's MIG fleet, regarded as a minimal threat, has grown only slightly since American raids on three of the country's major fields last spring.

Hippies Throw Money Away–At Stock Exchange

NEW YORK (AP) — Hippies can hardly be regarded as big spenders—they eschew work and begging is their thing—but Thursday they were throwing money away in, of all places, the New York Stock Exchange.

Startled clerks, runners and stockbrokers looked up at the visitor's gallery shortly before noon as a shower of dollar bills came floating to the floor. They cheered and scrambled when the bills landed.

"We just want to make a loving gesture to these people," said one of the 15 hippies. "They don't know what money is. They deal in stock certificates."

"I think they're nuts," said a woman tourist from Warren, Ohio.

The hippies also tore several $1 bills to shreds and burned a $5 bill.

One of the hippies said $1,000 was throws away, but observers could count only 20 or 30 bills sailing down.

After a few minutes, security guards hustled the hippies out, to cheers and applause from the floor.

Here's what he says:

"We read with interest your most recent article concerning the graying of clothes. We can only add the following to your excellent findings.

"Water turbidity, caused by the presence of fine particles of matter such as sand, clay, or vegetable matter suspended in the water, sometimes causes a gray appearance to the clothes and can be removed by bleaching.

"Hard water can also cause grayness. A water softener can correct this condition.

"Also, too little detergent may cause gray clothes from insufficient soil removal, or from the removed soil being redeposited on the clothes.

"If soil is allowed to settle back on the clothes after it has been suspended by detergent and water action, the soil becomes redeposited and is almost impossible to remove. A sufficient amount of detergent must be used in relation to the amount of soil present and the clothes should not be allowed to soak in the detergent solution for an extended period.

"Neither should they be agitated in the washer for an excessively long period of time, since the detergent cannot suspend the soil indefinitely."

DEAR HELOISE: I believe every young mother who has a kindergarten-age child would like to hear my idea:

A short time before your child starts to school, find out who a few of the other children are that are starting with him. They will usually be in your own neighborhood.

Give a LITTLE party — just something easy — so that he can meet and get acquainted with the other children.

I did this and my child was happy to start to school. He didn't feel he was among strangers and looked forward to seeing his new friends again.

Letter Of Laughter

DEAR HELOISE: In the last 100 years, we have progressed from washing clothes in a tub by hand, and hanging them outdoors. . .to automatic washers and dryers.

From non-fast color cottons to fast color cottons and one-story homes.

Now we have the miracle fabrics, hand-wash only, drip-drys, guaranteed to bleed and modern homes without basements. Result, no place to drip.

This is progress?

YOUR LOVE.

DEAR HELOISE: For my new king-size pillows, I let the hems out of the regular pillowcases I had on hand. Bought some print material and added to the end. I doubled this hem and attached it with rickrack, cording, bias tape, etc.

Very attractive, so economical and saved me the price of new kingsize pillowcases.

MRS. LOUIS BODIN

DEAR HELOISE: This salad is pretty for any special occasion.

Put your gelatin salad in one of your fancy glass bowls. Set a pretty glass or sugar bowl in the center of the liquid gelatin. Weight it down by putting several spoons in it.

When the salad has set and you are ready to serve, remove the spoons and fill the center glass with salad dressing.

EDYTH MOES.

Thanks, Edyth, for writing. Your idea is great.

And did you know you could also use a little cold water in the glass to weight it down? Then just pour it out when you're ready to serve.

Letters We'd Like To Get

By HAL BOYLE

"Recently my associates and I acquired and modernized the famous resort, Glumville-by-the-Sea. In going over the records we noted that you and your wife were the first honeymooners to register at the opening of the resort just 25 years ago this month. To celebrate this historic anniversary we'd like you to be our guests for two weeks. Everything will be on us, naturally. Just bring along your wife and a bathing suit. If you don't have the same wife, bring any wife of your choice."

"You may have thought it was a joke to send to our art gallery the pictures which your daughter painted in kindergarten. However, the child has genius in her fingertips. She is what we class as a postcubist, preimpressionist, transcendental original modern primitive of the first water. Artists of that type are, as you may conjecture, extremely rare. We sold her first 12 paintings for $6,000. Have you any more? We strongly recommend that you keep that kid chained in kindergarten for at least five more years."

"As the fund to build a concrete wishing well on the campus of our beloved Alma Mater has already been oversubscribed, I am returning uncashed your check for $1.35. But it is heartwarming, indeed, to list you among the hundreds of loyal alumni who responded so faithfully to our appeal. As a token of gratitude we are enclosing you free tickets to all our home football games this year."

"As one father to another, I know that my daughter must have talked your son into the elopement. Now that it's done, however, why don't we make the best of it? I'd consider it a privilege if you let me pay the bills for their last year in college, and also take your boy into my firm when he graduates. Incidentally, if you're not completely happy in your own job, I have a $25,000 executive post empty in my organization which I'd be glad to offer—."

"By the way, Joe, remember Daphne, that gal in our high school class who jilted you and later married the guy we voted most likely to succeed? Yesterday I saw her peddling can openers door to door trying to raise enough dough to bail her husband out of jail, where he's locked up as a chronic drunk. Two of their three kids are in reform school, and the third one just got a dishonorable discharge from—."

"It appears that my dumb nephew got the sales tags mixed up and the coat your wife bought is made of chinchilla not rabbit fur. Of course, legally she is entitled to keep it, but if you are open to a reasonable offer, I'll be glad to—."

Phone Executive Warns On Shots At Aerial Cables

A rash of shooting incidents involving aerial cables that have resulted in disrupted telephone service has brought a warning from Robert Sauer, Ohio Bell commercial manager here.

Sauer said anyone caught shooting at aerial cables could receive a $500 fine and a year in jail under Ohio law. He urged parents "to make certain their youngsters use guns they may have in a safe, orderly manner."

Sauer said potshots with firearms at aerial cables in the area have caused several interruptions to telephone service in the past month. He said he feels juveniles were responsible.

He pointed out the danger of a service interruption should someone on the line need help in an emergency situation and the telephone was out of order.

Plane Loss Rate In Viet Under Korea And War II

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say the rate of U.S. aircraft losses in Vietnam is lower than those of Korea and World War II. They credit improved flying tactics and new electronic countermeasures.

Military spokesmen contend recent fighter and bomber losses around Hanoi are not out of line with the number of raids being flown there.

Between Sunday and Thursday, the United States lost 12 planes in operations over North Vietnam—a near record for a single week.

But officers point out that during this period U.S. pilots have staged more than 800 missions involving perhaps as many as 3,200 separate flights against targets heavily shielded by North Vietnam's air defenses.

The Pentagon does not disclose numbers of individual flights, or sorties, flown over the North.

The military rule of thumb is that each mission involves 3.5 to 4 planes, on the average.

Communist guns, surface-to-air missiles and MIG fighters so far this year have knocked down U.S. planes at the rate of 1.6 per thousand sorties.

This compares with 2.2 per thousand in 1966, 3.2 in 1965 when the air campaign was launched, 3.5 during Korea and 9 per thousand during World War II.

To date the North Vietnamese have downed 659 American planes which cost this country an estimated $1.3 billion.

The number of U.S. raids on the North and the number of antiaircraft weapons deployed in North Vietnam each have quadrupled since 1965.

Gen. John P. McConnel, Air Force Chief of Staff, says the Hanoi- Haiphong area presents "the greatest concentration of antiaircraft weapons that has ever been known in the history of defense in any town or any area in the world."

In 1965 the North Vietnamese had about 2,100 antiaircraft guns, plus 26 to 28 battalions armed with 6 to 8 missiles each.

Latest intelligence credits the enemy with 8,000 weapons, supplied by the Soviet Union and Red China. The number of missile units remains about the same—26 to 28 battalions, rotated among more than 150 missile firing sites in North Vietnam.

The surface-to-air missiles have hit 75 American planes in 3,500 attempts. But the long, slender missiles force U.S. pilots into evasive maneuvers and down into intense flak.

North Vietnam's MIG fleet, regarded as a minimal threat, has grown only slightly since American raids on three of the country's major fields last spring.

Hippies Throw Money Away–At Stock Exchange

NEW YORK (AP) — Hippies can hardly be regarded as big spenders—they eschew work and begging is their thing—but Thursday they were throwing money away in, of all places, the New York Stock Exchange.

Startled clerks, runners and stockbrokers looked up at the visitor's gallery shortly before noon as a shower of dollar bills came floating to the floor. They cheered and scrambled when the bills landed.

"We just want to make a loving gesture to these people," said one of the 15 hippies. "They don't know what money is. They deal in stock certificates."

"I think they're nuts," said a woman tourist from Warren, Ohio.

The hippies also tore several $1 bills to shreds and burned a $5 bill.

One of the hippies said $1,000 was throws away, but observers could count only 20 or 30 bills sailing down.

Damage In Alaska Flood Placed At $178 Million

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has officially estimated damage from last week's flood at a little over $178 million, with about $153 million of that total in the Fairbanks area.

The reckoning came Thursday as residents raced to clean up, dry out and rebuild before the onslaught of freezing temperatures in mid-September.

Already more than $6 million in contracts and purchases to rush repairs has been let by Army engineers.

Last week this city of 30,000 wore a dirty brown blanket of water up to ten feet deep, spilled out of the flooding Chena River. Half the population had fled for their lives and seven were dead.

Today most of Fairbanks looks like a giant backyard, where residents are drying rugs, mattresses, furniture and wearing apparel on clotheslines, fences, posts and rooftops.

Lloyd Teel stood outside his home in the Aurora subdivision and held his hand four feet up the muddy wall from where his feet sloshed in the muck.

"I'm gonna rebuild," Teel said. "And this time the floors are gonna be up here where my hand is, and I'm gonna have walls two feet thick, reinforced with steel."

He was one of thousands who have been returning to the sodden ruins of homes and business this week while the devastating floodwaters ebbed away.

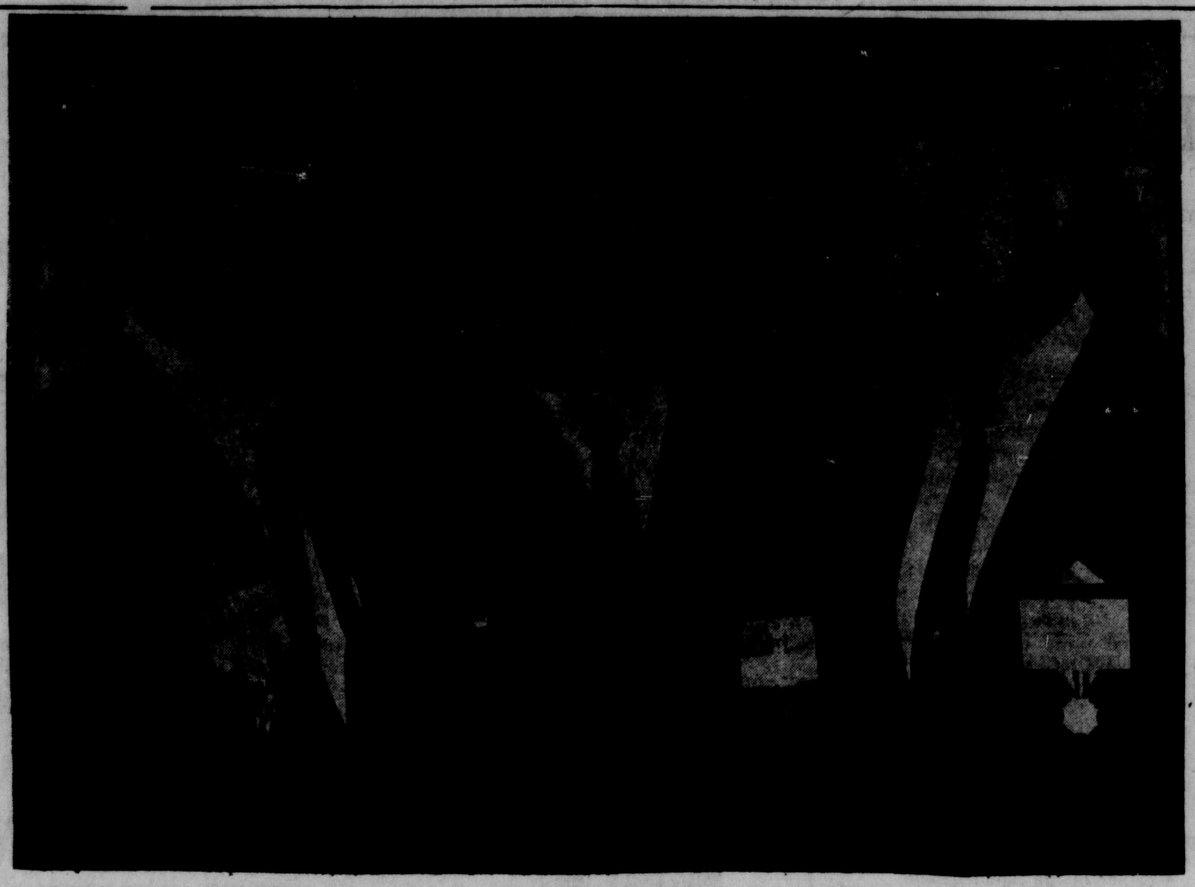

A man in the Westgate district, his basement still flooded, was in despair.

"I'd be better off to leave," said Pete Dunn. "I have $10,000 worth of equity, but I also have $10,000 worth of damage. I figure I'll fix the thing up and move on up a hill."

Many residents, with furnishings and clothing lost during the week-long nightmare, flocked around stores which offered water-soaked merchandise at bargain prices. One shop was selling shirts for 25 cents each and you could buy a pair of work pants for $2.

As the people began the huge clean-up, many found their houses and shops almost a total loss.

Only a scant five per cent or so were reported to have flood insurance.

Final plans to attend a ball game Sept. 9 at Pittsburgh were made during a meeting of the Senior Citizens Group Thursday at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church parish hall. William Osborn, president, conducted the meeting.

Mrs. Isabelle Calhoun was "queen for a day."

The choir will sing at the County Fair Sunday at Lisbon at 10:45 a. m. Arrangements also were made to sponsor a crafts booth at the Canfield Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Woessner were honored in recognition of their 64th wedding anniversary. About 125 were present.

Undernourished, Physicians Say

Mississippi Report Hits Charge Negroes Starving

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Many Negroes in the Mississippi Delta are undernourished, but "not starving," a team of physicians drafted by Gov. Paul B. Johnson said in a report on file today with a U.S. Senate subcommittee on employment and poverty.

The report was an answer to charges of widespread starvation leveled by several congressmen and a team of six out-of-state physicians operating under a Ford Foundation grant.

The report, not released in Mississippi, was obtained by The Associated Press through Washington sources.

The five Mississippi doctors reporting for the governor were selected from a list of specialists at the University of Mississippi State Medical Association. Their backgrounds include extensive medical missionary and government work. The Mississippi team visited Washington, Bolivar, Humphreys and Leflore counties.

"It has been recently alleged that in Mississippi people are starving to death," the physicians' report said. "In all places visited it was specifically requested that we be shown the worst conditions known to exist in the area and the most destitute persons living there.

"Some of these same places and persons had recently been visited by individuals making the charge that people were starving. In no case could any condition approaching death from starvation be found.

"It is true, however, that in many localities sanitary conditions are below the acceptable minimum and there are varying degrees of undernutrition, malnutrition and anemia as there are in other parts of the nation."

The physicians recommended a long-range, well-financed study to determine how many persons in Mississippi live in poverty.

Dances Changed To Saturdays At Chester Park

Hi-Teen dances at Chester City Park will be held on Saturday nights instead of Friday after tonight's events.

The decision was made Thursday night during a meeting of the park's commission. Football season was termed the primary reason for the change.

In other action, the playground equipment was ordered stored for the winter.

The commission voted to install a new heating system in the youth center at the park at a cost of $900. Ways to raise funds for the project were discussed and Mayor Burton Ward pledged his assistance. A special meeting was called for Sept. 1 to consider the matter further.

The board voted to hold meetings on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month during the winter.

Car Runs Into Truck; Driver Faces Charge

An East Liverpool area man was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance Thursday night after his auto struck a pickup truck on County Rd. 435.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Daniel A. Heffner, 17, of East Liverpool RD 2 had backed out of a driveway and was headed south when his 1967 pickup was hit from behind by Raymond W. Rambo, 30, of RD 3.

Rambo told officers he had rounded a curve and was unable to see the truck in the highway. Both drivers complained of injury, but were not treated.

The accident occurred at 10:45.

2 Local Reservists Due Home Saturday

Two East Liverpool residents are due to return home Saturday after undergoing the annual two-week summer training with the 6th Engineer Battalion, Co. B, Marine Corps Reserve of Youngstown.

Small Coal Mine Operators Win Legal Fight Over UMW

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Small-mine operators in the East Tennessee coalfields won a major victory Thursday in their prolonged legal fight to prove the United Mine Workers of America conspired with larger companies to run them out of business.

A U.S. District Court jury ruled that the UMW had violated the Sherman Antitrust Act by attempting to force smaller operators out of contention in the rich Tennessee Valley Authority coal market.

The jury fixed damages at $1 million, which under antitrust procedures will be trebled. If the judgment is upheld, the union will have to pay $3 million.

Lawyers for the union said "other procedures" remained to be followed in district courts before thought is given to an appeal.

The decision was a climax to a five-year-old fierce, often bloody, battle in the East Tennessee coalfields.

The plaintiffs, Tennessee Consolidated Coal Co., and its subsidiary, Grundy Mining Co., both of Tracy City, Tenn., had claimed damages totaling $3,350,000 in a suit filed in 1964.

After a three-week trial, the jury deliberated 11 hours before ruling that the union "did engage in a conspiracy to unreasonably restrain trade."

The UMW was charged in the suit with making loans totaling $25 million over several years to West Kentucky Coal Co., for the purpose of helping the Kentucky firm monopolize TVA coal contracts.

West Kentucky Coal Co., was listed originally as a codefendant but was dropped later by agreement of the other parties to the suit.

The plaintiffs also charged that a strike against small operators in East Tennessee which began on Christmas Eve 1962 was part of the conspiracy.

The strike has never been settled and has been marked with violence which left several persons dead and facilities dynamited.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor called S. Sgt. Jimmy G. Stewart "one of those rare individuals who willingly laid down his life that his friends might live."

The tribute came Thursday as Resor presented a posthumous Medal of Honor to the family of the 23-year-old 1st Calvary Division trooper. On hand to accept the award, the nation's highest for gallantry, were the soldier's wife, Gertrude R. Stewart of Columbus, Ga., and their two sons.

Resor said Stewart's six-man squad was attacked by a reinforced North Vietnamese company on May 18, 1966. All but Stewart were seriously wounded.

Stewart refused to withdraw, said Resor, and fought singlehandedly for four hours "like a man possessed." The enemy was repulsed, but Stewart was killed. The Army said his body was surrounded by eight enemy dead.

All of Stewart's squad mates survived.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government purchasers are growing increasingly aware of Pike's pique—not the mountain peak in Colorado but the mounting ire of Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y.

Pike, long a critic of what he believes are wasteful government purchasing practices, added a new charge Thursday. He said the government, working through a middle-man, paid $312.50 for a plastic generator knob that Pike claims the manufacturer sells wholesale for $1.62. The government bought 130 knobs for $33,398.75. Pike says they should have paid $210.60.

Undernourished, Physicians Say

Mississippi Report Hits Charge Negroes Starving

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Many Negroes in the Mississippi Delta are undernourished, but "not starving," a team of physicians drafted by Gov. Paul B. Johnson said in a report on file today with a U.S. Senate subcommittee on employment and poverty.

The report was an answer to charges of widespread starvation leveled by several congressmen and a team of six out-of-state physicians operating under a Ford Foundation grant.

The report, not released in Mississippi, was obtained by The Associated Press through Washington sources.

The five Mississippi doctors reporting for the governor were selected from a list of specialists at the University of Mississippi State Medical Association. Their backgrounds include extensive medical missionary and government work. The Mississippi team visited Washington, Bolivar, Humphreys and Leflore counties.

"It has been recently alleged that in Mississippi people are starving to death," the physicians' report said. "In all places visited it was specifically requested that we be shown the worst conditions known to exist in the area and the most destitute persons living there.

"Some of these same places and persons had recently been visited by individuals making the charge that people were starving. In no case could any condition approaching death from starvation be found.

"It is true, however, that in many localities sanitary conditions are below the acceptable minimum and there are varying degrees of undernutrition, malnutrition and anemia as there are in other parts of the nation."

The physicians recommended a long-range, well-financed study to determine how many persons in Mississippi live in poverty.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor called S. Sgt. Jimmy G. Stewart "one of those rare individuals who willingly laid down his life that his friends might live."

The tribute came Thursday as Resor presented a posthumous Medal of Honor to the family of the 23-year-old 1st Calvary Division trooper. On hand to accept the award, the nation's highest for gallantry, were the soldier's wife, Gertrude R. Stewart of Columbus, Ga., and their two sons.

Resor said Stewart's six-man squad was attacked by a reinforced North Vietnamese company on May 18, 1966. All but Stewart were seriously wounded.

Stewart refused to withdraw, said Resor, and fought singlehandedly for four hours "like a man possessed." The enemy was repulsed, but Stewart was killed. The Army said his body was surrounded by eight enemy dead.

All of Stewart's squad mates survived.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government purchasers are growing increasingly aware of Pike's pique—not the mountain peak in Colorado but the mounting ire of Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y.

Pike, long a critic of what he believes are wasteful government purchasing practices, added a new charge Thursday. He said the government, working through a middle-man, paid $312.50 for a plastic generator knob that Pike claims the manufacturer sells wholesale for $1.62. The government bought 130 knobs for $33,398.75. Pike says they should have paid $210.60.

The commission voted to install a new heating system in the youth center at the park at a cost of $900. Ways to raise funds for the project were discussed and Mayor Burton Ward pledged his assistance. A special meeting was called for Sept. 1 to consider the matter further.

The board voted to hold meetings on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month during the winter.

Car Runs Into Truck; Driver Faces Charge

An East Liverpool area man was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance Thursday night after his auto struck a pickup truck on County Rd. 435.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Daniel A. Heffner, 17, of East Liverpool RD 2 had backed out of a driveway and was headed south when his 1967 pickup was hit from behind by Raymond W. Rambo, 30, of RD 3.

Rambo told officers he had rounded a curve and was unable to see the truck in the highway. Both drivers complained of injury, but were not treated.

The accident occurred at 10:45.

Small Coal Mine Operators Win Legal Fight Over UMW

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Small-mine operators in the East Tennessee coalfields won a major victory Thursday in their prolonged legal fight to prove the United Mine Workers of America conspired with larger companies to run them out of business.

A U.S. District Court jury ruled that the UMW had violated the Sherman Antitrust Act by attempting to force smaller operators out of contention in the rich Tennessee Valley Authority coal market.

The jury fixed damages at $1 million, which under antitrust procedures will be trebled. If the judgment is upheld, the union will have to pay $3 million.

Lawyers for the union said "other procedures" remained to be followed in district courts before thought is given to an appeal.

The decision was a climax to a five-year-old fierce, often bloody, battle in the East Tennessee coalfields.

The plaintiffs, Tennessee Consolidated Coal Co., and its subsidiary, Grundy Mining Co., both of Tracy City, Tenn., had claimed damages totaling $3,350,000 in a suit filed in 1964.

After a three-week trial, the jury deliberated 11 hours before ruling that the union "did engage in a conspiracy to unreasonably restrain trade."

The UMW was charged in the suit with making loans totaling $25 million over several years to West Kentucky Coal Co., for the purpose of helping the Kentucky firm monopolize TVA coal contracts.

West Kentucky Coal Co., was listed originally as a codefendant but was dropped later by agreement of the other parties to the suit.

The plaintiffs also charged that a strike against small operators in East Tennessee which began on Christmas Eve 1962 was part of the conspiracy.

The strike has never been settled and has been marked with violence which left several persons dead and facilities dynamited.

Only Sporadic Outbursts

Hough Cool This Summer Like Cleveland's Weather

By THOMAS R. CASTOR

CLEVELAND (AP) — The streets of Hough, heated last summer by racial violence, have been as cool this summer as Cleveland's weather — and the weather has been cool most of the time.

Sporadic outbursts of window-smashing, looting and arson have occurred, but the disturbances have been small and nothing like those in Detroit, Newark, Milwaukee or Cincinnati.

And nothing like the rioting here last week of July, 1966, when violence claimed four Negro lives and arsonists and looters caused a half million dollars worth of property loss.

Some of the buildings destroyed were squalid Negro dwellings, but some were supermarkets, drug stores and dry cleaning shops where Negroes worked or traded.

A year later, there are still a lot of burned out buildings in Hough, and miserable housing conditions still abound. And Negroes walk a little farther now to buy food, fill prescriptions or have their clothes cleaned. An indoor roller skating rink that was a popular recreation spot is gone—leveled by fire.

But there hasn't been any new rioting.

"We're not going to riot because we're going to elect a Negro mayor," said the Rev. Jonathan Ealy, president of the United Pastors Association.

The hopes of many of Cleveland's 270,000 Negroes are riding Stokes, who seeks to become the first Negro mayor of a major U. S. city. He came within 2,143 votes of it two years ago.

His candidacy is something the Negro can see, feel and be a part of, like Operation Breadbasket, the work of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who has been in and out of Cleveland all summer.

Millions of dollars worth of programs have been announced to improve housing conditions, get more jobs for Negroes and increase welfare payments for those who don't have any bootstraps for pulling themselves up.

Some of the programs already have been inaugurated, but they move slowly and the results are hard to see.

Not so the results of the massive campaign to register Negro voters. During the last three days of voter registration this week, long lines of Negroes crowded the Cuyahoga County Board of Elections to register, some for the first time in their lives.

"The only thing we have going for us now," said the Rev. Mr. Ealy, "is the fact that we are trying to elect Mrs. Stokes. (Operation Breadbasket helps economically.

"These are the two areas of nonviolence that hold the hope of the black people."

Stokes has a lot of white people to enlist in his ranks, because Negroes account for only about one-third of the population and registration was just as heavy in exclusively white areas.

Housing in Hough and other Negro areas of the east side has been the target of numerous government and private programs.

— Several industries have pledged $150,000 at the Cleveland Revolving Fund, which will make low-cost housing loans.

—Five Cleveland banks have pledged more than $500,000 for a similar program.

—Warner & Swasey Co. is rehabilitating one 13-suite apartment house at a cost of more than $114,000, and will sell it at cost to a housing corporation formed by two Negro churches.

—Federally funded rehabilitation projects like HOPE, Inc. (Housing Our People Economically) also are in the apartment renovation business. Hope has rehabilitated 62 units and the Cleveland Development Foundation is spending $1 million to remodel 102 suits.

—A federal housing administration project announced Wednesday will rehabilitate 120 houses in a two-block area at a cost of $125,400.

But the initial effect is only a dent in the problem.

Warner & Swasey has completed only nine of the suites in its rehabilitation project. Seven families have moved in so far, including 10 adults and 29 children. All are on the rent-supplement program.

One tenant is a 32-year-old father of four who brought his wife and four children to Cleveland from a small Ohio farm community in 1961. They lived in Hough's substandard housing until last July.

"It was like stepping out of hell and walking into heaven," he said the housing project where he lives now.

He pays $90 a month for the three-room apartment and rent supplements take care of the remainder of the $130 monthly charge.

"You can tell the world, it's wonderful what they're doing," he said.

Whether it's his fault or not, the Negro has the highest unemployment rate of any group in Cleveland, about 15 per cent.

Although there are a multitude of job training programs, most of them federally financed, it has been questioned whether they really retrain the unemployed or underemployed.

Some leaders, like the Rev. Paul Younger, the white director of the Protestant Ministry to Poverty, don't think so.

"I think we bought a lot of fire insurance," he said. "The type of work you end up doing is the same type of slave-work you watched your parents do, and the youths just won't buy that kind of status."

Dr. King's operation Breadbasket did obtain the promise of more jobs for Negroes from Sealtest Dairies after a boycott of Sealtest products and picketing of stores that refused to take the dairy's products off their shelves.

"he programs (jobs and welfare) are just skimming the surface," said Younger. "They aren't touching the man in the street to give any real hope of change. We are still keeping him at the same status—at the bottom."

Record Crowd Of 191,000 Ushers In Ohio State Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A record crowd of 191,000 Thursday ushered in the 114th annual Ohio State Fair. Naturally, there was plenty of gazing—subjects ranging from pretty girls to a docile Jersey cow designed to serve as a walking science laboratory.

First, the beauty. A tall slim "farmerette", 17-year-old Marcia Cessna of Springfield, competed with 137 other contestants to win the 1967 Future Farmers of America State Fair Queen title.

Miss Cessna now goes to the Queen of Queens Contest, Sept. 2, to compete for the title of Miss Ohio State Fair.

Now the science. The quiet Jersey milker didn't act any different than other bovine at the fair. But there's a difference. She has a porthole in her side that an attending scientist screws on and off like the lid of a jar.

But the seemingly freak show is strictly scientific. The cow's attendants explained that the plug, by collecting food samples shows how the digestive system of a cow works.

Several incidents marred the early hours of the fair. An hour after the gates opened, 12-year-old Jeff Conway of suburban Grandview suffered a broken ankle when hit by a shuttle bus.

Thursday was All-Ohio Youth Day. Thousands of those passing through the turnstiles were children. The first person to go through the gates was Michael Kendrick, 11, Columbus.

Singer Pat Boone was the top-billed performer for opening day's grandstand shows. He returns today, and Andy Williams and Sonny and Cher take over for Saturday and Sunday.

Today is Canton day at the fair.

Senator Says New Cigarette Filter Found Unsatisfactory

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tobacco-state senator says two major cigarette companies tested and found unsatisfactory cigarette filters developed by Robert L. Strickman.

One of the firms may take another look at the Strickman filter, now sponsored by Columbia University.

But that plan was left indefinite after Columbia President Gryason Kirk told senators Thursday the school has decided not to license any cigarette maker to use the filter until an extensive testing program is conducted "and the results prove entirely satisfactory."

The Senate inquiry into progress toward a safer cigarette is to conclude today with testimony from U.S. Surgeon General William Stewart and Dr. E. Culver Hammond of the American Cancer Society.

Strickman was to have testified Thursday, but Kirk said he was ill and hospitalized. The inventor has said he offered a half-interest in the filter to Columbia after failing to get into the offices of cigarette companies in an effort to sell it.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., denied that, and said he wants to discuss the question with Strickman.

Morton said Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. of Louisville, Ky., tested the filter in Strickman's presence. "They didn't think according to their test that it was worth much," he said.

Brown & Williamson said its tests were conducted in May, 1966.

Later, a Morton assistant said the senator had learned that P. Lorillard Co., a New York-based cigarette and tobacco firm, also tested and rejected a Strickman filter.

Hough Cool This Summer Like Cleveland's Weather

By THOMAS R. CASTOR

CLEVELAND (AP) — The streets of Hough, heated last summer by racial violence, have been as cool this summer as Cleveland's weather — and the weather has been cool most of the time.

Sporadic outbursts of window-smashing, looting and arson have occurred, but the disturbances have been small and nothing like those in Detroit, Newark, Milwaukee or Cincinnati.

But there hasn't been any new rioting.

"We're not going to riot because we're going to elect a Negro mayor," said the Rev. Jonathan Ealy, president of the United Pastors Association.

The hopes of many of Cleveland's 276,000 Negroes are riding Stokes, who seeks to become the first Negro mayor of a major U. S. city. He came within 2,143 votes of it two years ago.

His candidacy is something the Negro can see, feel and be a part of, like Operation Breadbasket, the work of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who has been in and out of Cleveland all summer.

Millions of dollars worth of programs have been announced to improve housing conditions, get more jobs for Negroes and increase welfare payments for those who don't have any bootstraps for pulling themselves up.

Some of the programs already have been inaugurated, but they move slowly and the results are hard to see.

Not so the results of the massive campaign to register Negro voters. During the last three days of voter registration this week, long lines of Negroes crowded the Cuyahoga County Board of Elections to register, some for the first time in their lives.

"The only thing we have going for us now," said the Rev. Mr. Ealy, "is the fact that we are trying to elect Mrs. Stokes. (Operation Breadbasket helps economically.

"These are the two areas of nonviolence that hold the hope of the black people."

Stokes has a lot of white people to enlist in his ranks, because Negroes account for only about one-third of the population and registration was just as heavy in exclusively white areas.

Housing in Hough and other Negro areas of the east side has been the target of numerous government and private programs.

— Several industries have pledged $150,000 at the Cleveland Revolving Fund, which will make low-cost housing loans.

—Five Cleveland banks have pledged more than $500,000 for a similar program.

—Warner & Swasey Co. is rehabilitating one 13-suite apartment house at a cost of more than $114,000, and will sell it at cost to a housing corporation formed by two Negro churches.

—Federally funded rehabilitation projects like HOPE, Inc. (Housing Our People Economically) also are in the apartment renovation business. Hope has rehabilitated 62 units and the Cleveland Development Foundation is spending $1 million to remodel 192 suits.

—A federal housing administration project announced Wednesday will rehabilitate 120 houses in a two-block area at a cost of $125,400.

But the initial effect is only a dent in the problem.

Warner & Swasey has completed only nine of the suites in its rehabilitation project. Seven families have moved in so far, including 10 adults and 29 children. All are on the rent-supplement program.

One tenant is a 32-year-old father of four who brought his wife and four children to Cleveland from a small Ohio farm community in 1961. They lived in Hough's substandard housing until last July.

"It was like stepping out of hell and walking into heaven," he said the housing project where he lives now.

He pays $90 a month for the three-room apartment and rent supplements take care of the remainder of the $130 monthly charge.

"You can tell the world, it's wonderful what they're doing," he said.

Whether it's his fault or not, the Negro has the highest unemployment rate of any group in Cleveland, about 15 per cent.

Although there are a multitude of job training programs, most of them federally financed, it has been questioned whether they really retrain the unemployed or underemployed.

Some leaders, like the Rev. Paul Younger, the white director of the Protestant Ministry to Poverty, don't think so.

"I think we bought a lot of fire insurance," he said. "The type of work you end up doing is the same type of slave-work you watched your parents do, and the youths just won't buy that kind of status."

Dr. King's operation Breadbasket did obtain the promise of more jobs for Negroes from Sealtest Dairies after a boycott of Sealtest products and picketing of stores that refused to take the dairy's products off their shelves.

"he programs (jobs and welfare) are just skimming the surface," said Younger. "They aren't touching the man in the street to give any real hope of change. We are still keeping him at the same status—at the bottom."

Record Crowd Of 191,000 Ushers In Ohio State Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A record crowd of 191,000 Thursday ushered in the 114th annual Ohio State Fair. Naturally, there was plenty of gazing—subjects ranging from pretty girls to a docile Jersey cow designed to serve as a walking science laboratory.

First, the beauty. A tall slim "farmerette", 17-year-old Marcia Cessna of Springfield, competed with 137 other contestants to win the 1967 Future Farmers of America State Fair Queen title.

Miss Cessna now goes to the Queen of Queens Contest, Sept. 2, to compete for the title of Miss Ohio State Fair.

Now the science. The quiet Jersey milker didn't act any different than other bovine at the fair. But there's a difference. She has a porthole in her side that an attending scientist screws on and off like the lid of a jar.

But the seemingly freak show is strictly scientific. The cow's attendants explained that the plug, by collecting food samples shows how the digestive system of a cow works.

Several incidents marred the early hours of the fair. An hour after the gates opened, 12-year-old Jeff Conway of suburban Grandview suffered a broken ankle when hit by a shuttle bus.

Thursday was All-Ohio Youth Day. Thousands of those passing through the turnstiles were children. The first person to go through the gates was Michael Kendrick, 11, Columbus.

Singer Pat Boone was the top-billed performer for opening day's grandstand shows. He returns today, and Andy Williams and Sonny and Cher take over for Saturday and Sunday.

Today is Canton day at the fair.

Greek King, Queen Make New York Stop

NEW YORK (AP)—King Constantine of Greece and his Danish-born queen, Anne-Marie, are stopping in New York en route to Canada for a state visit.

The royal couple will have luncheon with Secretary General U Thant at the United Nations today and dinner tonight with Mayor and Mrs. John V. Lindsay at Gracie Mansion, the mayor's official residence.

As the king and queen arrived by plane Thursday, a group of demonstrators was outside the U.N. headquarters. The demonstrators, who said they represented the American Committee for Democracy and Freedom in Greece, said they would maintain their vigil through the luncheon and be outside Gracie Mansion tonight.

Senator Says New Cigarette Filter Found Unsatisfactory

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tobacco-state senator says two major cigarette companies tested and found unsatisfactory cigarette filters developed by Robert L. Strickman.

One of the firms may take another look at the Strickman filter, now sponsored by Columbia University.

But that plan was left indefinite after Columbia President Gryason Kirk told senators Thursday the school has decided not to license any cigarette maker to use the filter until an extensive testing program is conducted "and the results prove entirely satisfactory."

The Senate inquiry into progress toward a safer cigarette is to conclude today with testimony from U.S. Surgeon General William Stewart and Dr. E. Culver Hammond of the American Cancer Society.

Strickman was to have testified Thursday, but Kirk said he was ill and hospitalized. The inventor has said he offered a half-interest in the filter to Columbia after failing to get into the offices of cigarette companies in an effort to sell it.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., denied that, and said he wants to discuss the question with Strickman.

Morton said Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. of Louisville, Ky., tested the filter in Strickman's presence. "They didn't think according to their test that it was worth much," he said.

Brown & Williamson said its tests were conducted in May, 1966.

Later, a Morton assistant said the senator had learned that P. Lorillard Co., a New York-based cigarette and tobacco firm, also tested and rejected a Strickman filter.

Ware To Seek His Freedom Through Writ

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — George Washington Ware, Black Power disciple of Stokely Carmichael, says he will seek freedom from jail through a writ of habeas corpus.

Ware said Thursday the "ridiculous" nature of the sedition charges against him made it "a little funny" that he and his friends should work to raise $5,000 bail when "the prevailing opinion is that I was jailed without due process of law."

The State Department Thursday said it was revoking Ware's passport on grounds he made an unauthorized trip to Cuba.

A letter dated Aug. 23 was delivered to Ware in his cell Thursday, notifying him of the invalidation of his passport.

Ware said "I will contest this action. It is certainly not clear where the State Department has authority to restrict the travel of it's citizens.

A State Department spokesman said a similar letter was dispatched to Carmichael's Bronx, N.Y., address on Aug. 3, but Carmichael was reported earlier to have gone from Cuba to North Vietnam.

Both Carmichael and Ware were in Cuba for the recent Latin-American solidarity conference sponsored by Fidel Castro's Communist regime.

day as leaders sought to clear the decks for a possible recess this weekend until a cleanup session now planned for sometime in January.

Major proposals included an omnibus judges bill which would add 18 common pleas judges in 13 counties. Cuyahoga County would get four new judges, Franklin three, and one each would be added in Butler, Lorain, Lucas, Mahoning, Montgomery, Muskingum. Richland, Summit, Warren, Wayne, and Wood counties.

The House-passed bill now returns to that chamber for consideration of a Senate amendment which added Wood County to the list.

Using a so-called "jitney" calendar which enables the legislature to get around time-consuming parliamentary rules, the Senate held its second floor session of the day late Thursday and raced through 19 bills and a resolution.

Senators adopted 31-0 a resolution establishing a 25-member crime commission which will make a study of the criminal element in Ohio and report to the next legislature.

Senators approved a bill increasing the monetary jurisdiction of municipal courts from $3,000 to $5,000.

Other bills approved would provide for licensing and inspection of meat and slaughter houses, tighten regulations and increase fees for bakeries, allow members of municipal transit boards to serve on county transit boards, strengthen authority for watershed districts to carry out flood control programs, and make minor service veterans eligible to apply for GI loans.

The Senate agreed to House amendments and completed passage of an omnibus bill revising Ohio banking laws. Key provisions permit cumulative voting in elections for directors when specified in bank bylaws and require that trusts created after Jan. 1 must include written authorization for banks to vote shares of their own stock held in trust.

Action was completed in the Senate on bills requiring the listing of Social Security numbers on driver's licenses, increasing the fee for duplicate fishing licenses from 25 to 35 cents, permitting the Agriculture Department to conduct programs to control blackbirds, and requiring re-examination of drivers charged with seven or more points under the state's point penalty system.

If Non-Nuclear Nations Sign Treaty

U.S., Soviet Sift Plan For No Atomic Blackmail

By LEWIS GULICK

The United States and Soviet Union are considering assuring non-nuclear nations that signing a nonproliferation treaty will not leave them exposed to atomic blackmail.

The questions of a nuclear defense shield for those countries renouncing atomic weapons is a major issue connected with—but not settled by—the proposed treaty to ban the spread of nuclear arms.

U.S. strategists figure nuclear blackmail and other problems posed by atomic have-not countries will be tougher to work out in completing the proposed treaty than the differences remaining with the Soviets.

The United States and Soviet Union submitted their long-awaited joint draft of the treaty Thursday at the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference. They left the treaty's inspection clause blank for the time being, mainly because of Moscow's differences with Western Europe over procedures to check for treaty violations.

President Johnson said in a White House statement that U.S.-Soviet submission of the proposed pact "brings us to the final and the most critical stage" of the long effort since World War II to curb the spread of nuclear arsenals.

U.S. officials voiced hope the 17-nation Geneva group—which is to debate the U.S.-Soviet draft and put it into final form—will make enough progress over the next couple of months to present it at the U.N. General Assembly's annual disarmament debate this fall.

At that rate of progress, the finished treaty could be ready for signing sometime next year. U.S. officials predicted more than 80 countries would sign, as they did the 1963 limited test ban treaty. Under the nonproliferation treaty, the nuclear power would agree never to give their weapons to others. The non-nuclear signers would pledge not to obtain them.

Nondissemination of nuclear weapons was the policy of both Washington and Moscow even before they presented the treaty. But for most of the nonatomic nations, permanently yielding their rights to acquire nuclear explosives is more difficult.

Communist China and France have indicated they will not sign the treaty.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I seal or fill in wide spaces between plank floorboards?

A.—No method is perfect for both winter and summer seasons, since these spaces vary in width as they contract and expand with changing temperatures. However, for cracks up to ¼-inch wide, papier-mache can be used. Boil strips of newspaper for an hour, then squeeze into a pulp, and force into the joints. When dry and hard, it can be sanded and stained.

Q.—How can I reopen a shellac jar after it has been used and resealed?

A.—It will be much easier to open if you'll turn the jar upside down and apply grain alcohol along the inside edge of the metal cover. The alcohol will dissolve the shellac so that the top will turn.

Q.—How can I blacken a pair of brown shoes?

A.—First rub the shoes with sandpaper to remove all surface dirt, then rub liquid ammonia into them with a flannel cloth, and finally apply black India ink with a brush. Let dry, then polish as usual.

Q.—Please suggest a good homemade solution for cleaning painted walls?

A.—Combine two ounces of borax, one teaspoon of ammonia, and two quarts of water. You'll need no soap. Apply this with a soft cloth. Many other such housecleaning tips are included in my new book.

WORKING MAN'S ANGLE of a familiar stunt—the car-to-airplane transfer — shows clearly the narrow margin left for error in the maneuver, a favorite at county fairs and air shows. The stunt will be performed at the National Air Races in Cleveland Sept. 2, 3 and 4, a revival of what was once one of the top air races in the country.

School Planned For Bad Drivers

MELBOURNE (AP) — In the past 11 years 27,512 people died in Australian road accidents, a figure equal to the population of Darwin, Australia's 20th city.

In the same period 670,111 were injured.

By the end of the year, the Royal Automobile Club of Victoria hopes to have set up a school for bad drivers, and it wants the state government to make it mandatory for courts to order convicted drivers sent to the school.

Some of the other suggestions for controlling the road toll are:

Three-year probation plates for newly licensed drivers, which they could lose if convicted of a driving offense.

Compulsory driver education in secondary schools.

Woman In Collision Still In Fair Condition

Mrs. Mildred Ashbridge of 623½ Park Ave., East Palestine, injured in a two-car accident Thursday morning, remains "fair" today at Salem City Hospital.

She was the driver of a car involved in a collision at the intersection of County Rd. 517 and Upper Elkton Rd. with a 1960 pickup truck operated by Edgar B. Holloway, 45, of Columbiana RD 2.

Ware To Seek His Freedom Through Writ

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — George Washington Ware, Black Power disciple of Stokely Carmichael, says he will seek freedom from jail through a writ of habeas corpus.

Ware said Thursday the "ridiculous" nature of the sedition charges against him made it "a little funny" that he and his friends should work to raise $5,000 bail when "the prevailing opinion is that I was jailed without due process of law."

The State Department Thursday said it was revoking Ware's passport on grounds he made an unauthorized trip to Cuba.

A letter dated Aug. 23 was delivered to Ware in his cell Thursday, notifying him of the invalidation of his passport.

Ware said "I will contest this action. It is certainly not clear where the State Department has authority to restrict the travel of it's citizens.

A State Department spokesman said a similar letter was dispatched to Carmichael's Bronx, N.Y., address on Aug. 3, but Carmichael was reported earlier to have gone from Cuba to North Vietnam.

Both Carmichael and Ware were in Cuba for the recent Latin-American solidarity conference sponsored by Fidel Castro's Communist regime.

Ohio

day as leaders sought to clear the decks for a possible recess this weekend until a cleanup session now planned for sometime in January.

Major proposals included an omnibus judges bill which would add 18 common pleas judges in 13 counties. Cuyahoga County would get four new judges, Franklin three, and one each would be added in Butler, Lorain, Lucas, Mahoning, Montgomery, Muskingum, Richland, Summit, Warren, Wayne, and Wood counties.

The House-passed bill now returns to that chamber for consideration of a Senate amendment which added Wood County to the list.

Using a so-called "jitney" calendar which enables the legislature to get around time-consuming parliamentary rules, the Senate held its second floor session of the day late Thursday and raced through 19 bills and a resolution.

Senators adopted 31-0 a resolution establishing a 25-member crime commission which will make a study of the criminal element in Ohio and report to the next legislature.

Senators approved a bill increasing the monetary jurisdiction of municipal courts from $3,000 to $5,000.

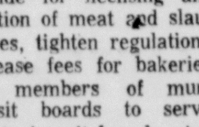

Other bills approved would provide for licensing and inspection of meat and slaughter houses, tighten regulations and increase fees for bakeries, allow members of municipal transit boards to serve on county transit boards, strengthen authority for watershed districts to carry out flood control programs, and make minor service veterans eligible to apply for GI loans.

The Senate agreed to House amendments and completed passage of an omnibus bill revising Ohio banking laws. Key provisions permit cumulative voting in elections for directors when specified in bank bylaws and require that trusts created after Jan. 1 must include written authorization for banks to vote shares of their own stock held in trust.

Action was completed in the Senate on bills requiring the listing of Social Security numbers on driver's licenses, increasing the fee for duplicate fishing licenses from 25 to 35 cents, permitting the Agriculture Department to conduct programs to control blackbirds, and requiring re-examination of drivers charged with seven or more points under the state's point penalty system.

The verse, "Mary Had a Little Lamb," were the first sounds ever recorded on a phonograph.

If Non-Nuclear Nations Sign Treaty

By LEWIS GULICK

The United States and Soviet Union are considering assuring non-nuclear nations that signing a nonproliferation treaty will not leave them exposed to atomic blackmail.

The questions of a nuclear defense shield for those countries renouncing atomic weapons is a major issue connected with—but not settled by—the proposed treaty to ban the spread of nuclear arms.

U.S. strategists figure nuclear blackmail and other problems posed by atomic have-not countries will be tougher to work out in completing the proposed treaty than the differences remaining with the Soviets.

The United States and Soviet Union submitted their long-awaited joint draft of the treaty Thursday at the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference. They left the treaty's inspection clause blank for the time being, mainly because of Moscow's differences with Western Europe over procedures to check for treaty violations.

President Johnson said in a White House statement that U.S.-Soviet submission of the proposed pact "brings us to the final and the most critical stage" of the long effort since World War II to curb the spread of nuclear arsenals.

U.S. officials voiced hope the 17-nation Geneva group—which is to debate the U.S.-Soviet draft and put it into final form—will make enough progress over the next couple of months to present it at the U.N. General Assembly's annual disarmament debate this fall.

At that rate of progress, the finished treaty could be ready for signing sometime next year. U.S. officials predicted more than 80 countries would sign, as they did the 1963 limited test ban treaty. Under the nonproliferation treaty, the nuclear power would agree never to give their weapons to others. The non-nuclear signers would pledge not to obtain them.

Nondissemination of nuclear weapons was the policy of both Washington and Moscow even before they presented the treaty. But for most of the nonatomic nations, permanently yielding their rights to acquire nuclear explosives is more difficult.

Communist China and France have indicated they will not sign the treaty.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I seal or fill in wide spaces between plank floorboards?

A.—No method is perfect for both winter and summer seasons, since these spaces vary in width as they contract and expand with changing temperatures. However, for cracks up to ¼-inch wide, papier-mache can be used. Boil strips of newspaper for an hour, then squeeze into a pulp, and force into the joints. When dry and hard, it can be sanded and stained.

Q.—How can I reopen a shellac jar after it has been used and resealed?

A.—It will be much easier to open if you'll turn the jar upside down and apply grain alcohol along the inside edge of the metal cover. The alcohol will dissolve the shellac so that the top will turn.

Q.—How can I blacken a pair of brown shoes?

A.—First rub the shoes with sandpaper to remove all surface dirt, then rub liquid ammonia into them with a flannel cloth, and finally apply black India ink with a brush. Let dry, then polish as usual.

Q.—Please suggest a good homemade solution for cleaning painted walls?

A.—Combine two ounces of borax, one teaspoon of ammonia, and two quarts of water. You'll need no soap. Apply this with a soft cloth. Many other such housecleaning tips are included in my new book.

School Planned For Bad Drivers

MELBOURNE (AP) — In the past 11 years 27,512 people died in Australian road accidents, a figure equal to the population of Darwin, Australia's 20th city.

In the same period 670,111 were injured.

By the end of the year, the Royal Automobile Club of Victoria hopes to have set up a school for bad drivers, and it wants the state government to make it mandatory for courts to order convicted drivers sent to the school.

Some of the other suggestions for controlling the road toll are:

Three-year probation plates for newly licensed drivers, which they could lose if convicted of a driving offense.

Compulsory driver education in secondary schools.

More police patrols, particularly at night.

Overhaul of traffic offenses, including a reappraisal of penalties.

Elimination of level crossings on railway lines.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: When does "minding one's own business" cease to be a virtue and begin to be an act of cowardice?

This morning I heard a youngster crying in front of my house. I looked out to see a little neighbor child surrounded by four jeering children. The boy was wearing a diaper over his trousers and had a cardboard sign around his neck which read, "I am 7 years old and I still wet my bed."

I was furious and went outside and began to remove the sign and the diaper. My husband stopped me and said, "It's none of your business."

I know the child's mother. She is a divorcee and as nutty as a fruitcake. Her oldest boy plays center field with his ghumb in his mouth. A middle child, a girl, has a nervous eye tic and stutters. Now this little fellow is being tortured because he wets the bed.

Should I try to help these kids by talking to them? Or should I plead with the deranged mother to get some help for herself and her children? — NO NAME PLEASE.

Dear N.N.P.: Pleading with deranged people is useless. Your best bet is to have a talk with the teachers in whose classes these unfortunate children will be next fall. Surely they will recognize evidence of a tragic home life.

Your information and interest should encourage the teachers to investigate and see that the appropriate steps are taken to save these kids.

Lost Again

Dear Ann: Our daughter wants to go steady. I see nothing wrong with it since the boy is a very nice lad and comes from a good family.

My husband is against it. He says it's ridiculous to allow a 13-year-old girl to accept a boy's friendship ring and go only with him.

I understand from friends that going steady does not mean what it did in our day. They claim it's the "in" thing and that most kids outgrow it.

We have been having some fairly heated discussions on this subject since my husband and I are divided. The lineup is now 2 against 2. Our 17-year-old son sides with his father. What do you say?—PARK RIDGE.

Dear Park: I just tipped the balance. It's 3-2, and I'm with your husband and your son. Not only am I against 13-year-olds going steady, I'm against 13-year-old going. Period.

What's your big hurry to get this little chick grown up? I don't know what your friends mean when they say going steady doesn't mean what it did in our day. The basic idea is the same — "everybody else, hands off."

This is a poor approach even for 16 and 17-year-olds. If you came to me for support, Madame, you rattled the wrong cage.

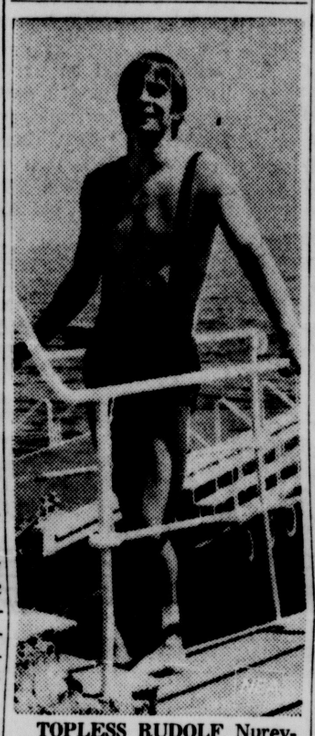

Confidentially

Hate the Stuff: Leave it alone, Stupid. Of course he wants you to drink with him. What does he have to lose? He's already a drunk. Furthermore, booze is one of the best known devices to break down a girl's resistance.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Talented Actor, Writer

Carl Reiner's Optimism

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Watching a baseball game to me is like going to church," said Carl Reiner. "There is time to think and ruminate.

"I'd rather have been a baseball pitcher than anything."

Young Carl, alas, had a big failing as a player. He could throw a fast ball, a slow ball, a curve or a fadeaway. The one thing he couldn't throw across the plate was a strike.

So, after finishing high school at 16 and working briefly as a shipping clerk and machinist's helper, he turned to acting.

Reiner, one of the best-liked men in show business, quickly became a master at pitching funny lines. Now he has matured into a quadruple-threat man in the entertainment field as actor, writer, director and producer.

Carl, who made his mark as a "top banana," or supporting comedian for Sid Caesar for eight years, widened his fame by originating and producing the "Dick Van Dyke Show," a popular television series.

His latest film opus, "Enter Laughing," introducing Reni Santoni to stardom, is based on a semiautobiographical novel that Reiner wrote in 1958. Carl directed the film and also served as cowriter and coproducer with his long-time friend, Joseph Stein, author of the Broadway hit, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Reiner, who still says his vocation is acting, regards writing, directing and producing as his hobbies. But he enjoys them all.

"The thing I get the most satisfaction from is anything that I start as a blank page in a typewriter, and then follow all the way through, whether it's a book, a play or a film," he said.

"There's something wonderful about catching a fish, cleaning it, cooking it and serving it, and then having someone say, 'Very good.' "

The tall, hazel-eyed actor picked up the rudiments of comedy writing by working with the gag men on the old Sid Caesar shows.

"But I had been such a poor student in school that I hesitated at trying anything at all serious. I felt I didn't know enough words to become a real writer.

"My wife got me over that hurdle. She convinced me that it wasn't important whether I knew a lot of long words, only whether I knew the right words."

Carl is convinced now that empathy, the feeling for people, is more valuable to a writer than a big vocabulary.

Reiner feels he is normally neurotic: "If you're not neurotic to some extent, you can't function in this society." But he believes his most valuable personality trait is an inborn, unquenchable optimism.

"Life is supposed to be fun," he said. "The human being isn't supposed to be genuinely happy very often, but if your problems don't let you have fun and moments of joy, then you haven't had much of a life."

County Schools Can Lose $338,000 If Bill Fails

By WILLIAM V. MERRIMAN
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Columbiana County schools stand to lose $338,000 in state aid if the $300 million tax - education bill does not pass the Ohio General Assembly as an emergency measure.

The bill, now in a conference committee working to bring versions passed by both houses into line, cannot take effect until late November unless the House agrees to reinsert the emergency section it pulled from the measure Thursday.

House Republican leadership was forced to send the bill back to the Senate late Thursday as a regular measure after it failed to gain the necessary two-thirds vote to pass as an emergency.

Figures released by the Ohio Department of Education indicate Columbiana County schools' $1.35 million annual increase will shrink by $338,000 if machinery to distribute the additional funds is not slipped into gear by return of the emergency.

Department of Education calculations show the $184-million hike the bill provides for secondary and elementary education will be equivalent to a state average of 3.6 mills in local real property taxes.

East Liverpool, 7.0; East Palestine, 7.9; Salem, 2.7; Wellsville, 10.5; Columbiana, 2.9; Leetonia, 5.9; Lisbon, 8.0; Beaver Local, 8.6; Fairfield - Waterford, 2.3; Southern, 7.4, and United, 3.8.

Local Marine 'Good' After Viet Injuries

An East Liverpool Marine injured in Vietnam on Aug. 19 was reported in "good" condition today.

He is Cpl. R. Scott Musuraca, 22, who suffered fragmentary wounds of the right arm and leg when the government vehicle in which he was riding touched off an enemy land mine near Phu Bai.

Musuraca, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Musuraca of 2601 St. Clair Ave., is being treated at the 3rd Medical Battalion Hospital. He is a weather observer.

Mrs. Musuraca said as of this morning their only communication relative to the injury has been the official telegram they received.

Cpl. Musuraca was graduated from East Liverpool High School in 1963 and will have served two years in the Marines in September.

Hancock Wreck Hurts Pennsylvania Woman

A Pennsylvania woman is in Weirton General Hospital today, the aftermath of an accident on Route 66 in Hancock County late Thursday night.

Mrs. Helen Valek, 47, of 21 Weavertown Rd., Canonsburg, is in "fair" condition with a neck injury. She was a passenger in a car driven by Julia Smith, 51, of Eighty Four, Pa., RD 1.

Damage to the vehicle was $350.

Sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Smith told them a car stopped in front of her and she struck it in the rear. The driver got out, she said, asked for information and then left the scene.

The Smith woman was not injured.

Chinese Terrorists Boast

Radio Figure Dies After Reds Made Torch Of Him

By FORREST EDWARDS

HONG KONG (AP) — Hong Kong Chinese radio comedian Lam Bun died today, a day after Communist terrorists turned him into a human torch, and a terrorist group boasted it had executed him for ridiculing Red rioters and agitators.

Lam's murder was a warning to "others committing similar crimes," said Hong Kong Communist newspapers, quoting the "underground traitor-executing onslaught headquarters."

Lam's brother was reported near death. The two men were riding in a car Thursday when terrorists, pretending to be highway workers, waved their car to a halt, threw in a bomb, then doused the brothers with gasoline and set them afire.

Lam, who conducted a radio program of biting satire, was the third terrorist fatality this week in the British colony on Red China's southern coast. A bomb killed two Chinese children Sunday.

The government has offered separate rewards of $9,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the terrorists involved in either case. Lam's radio station added an $18,000 reward for his killers.

Lam's wife and three small children were taken to a hideout under police guard.

At the border, British Gurkha troops used tear gas for the second straight day to drive back Chinese mobs at the Man Kam To crossing point. The mobs tried twice to remove a wire barrier on the Hong Kong side. Then about 100 Red Chinese troops moved to the border to keep the groups in check.

However, loudspeakers along the 17-mile border carried a warning from Red Chinese soldiers that Chinese peasants must be allowed to continue crossing freely or "action will be taken." They did not say what action.

The loudspeaker announcement said British authorities must "clear away all obstructions on the Hong Kong side and protect the peasants who cross to work in their fields." It was made in the name of the "Shum Chun Peoples Liberation Army unit."

Chinese peasants have crossed the border freely for years to work in fields on either side. Hong Kong authorities erected barbed wire barricades two weeks ago after a series of attacks across the border by Chinese mobs.

The official border crossing point at Lowu station remained open and British authorities made their own loudspeaker announcement: "The bridge at Lowu is open as always for farmers and workers to cross and work in peace."

Peasants crossing the bridge Thursday suddenly turned on guards at the Hong Kong immigration post, and a group later burned the post roof with gasoline bombs. But the Gurkhas drove back both attacks with tear gas and smoke bombs.

2 Minor Mishaps Investigated By Wellsville Police

No one was injured in two minor traffic mishaps investigated Thursday by Wellsville police.

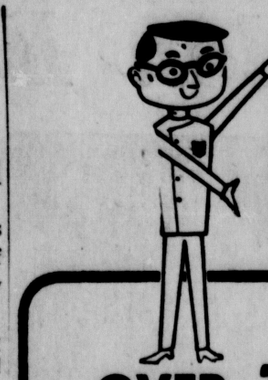

The first occurred on Route 7 just inside the city limits when cars driven by Mary Katherine Kuhar, 20, of Hammondsville RD 1 and William J. Williams, 77, of Toronto collided as the Williams car attempted a left turn into a restaurant. There no citations issued.

Later, Stephen W. Ferrall, 16, of 1608 Chester St., Wellsville, told police a truck driven by Willy Perry, 53, of 1413 Center St., Wellsville, backed into his car in an alley.

Perry claimed he stopped his vehicle to turn into a service station, heard a horn blow and felt the crash.

Damage was minor in the 9 p.m. accident.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: When does "minding one's own business" cease to be a virtue and begin to be an act of cowardice?

This morning I heard a youngster crying in front of my house. I looked out to see a little neighbor child surrounded by four jeering children. The boy was wearing a diaper over his trousers and had a cardboard sign around his neck which read, "I am 7 years old and I still wet my bed."

I was furious and went outside and began to remove the sign and the diaper. My husband stopped me and said, "It's none of your business."

I know the child's mother. She is a divorcee and as nutty as a fruitcake. Her oldest boy plays center field with his ghumb in his mouth. A middle child, a girl, has a nervous eye tic and stutters. Now this little fellow is being tortured because he wets the bed.

Should I try to help these kids by talking to them? Or should I plead with the deranged mother to get some help for herself and her children? — NO NAME PLEASE.

Dear N.N.P.: Pleading with deranged people is useless. Your best bet is to have a talk with the teachers in whose classes these unfortunate children will be next fall. Surely they will recognize evidence of a tragic home life.

Your information and interest should encourage the teachers to investigate and see that the appropriate steps are taken to save these kids.

Lost Again

Dear Ann: Our daughter wants to go steady. I see nothing wrong with it since the boy is a very nice lad and comes from a good family.

My husband is against it. He says it's ridiculous to allow a 13-year-old girl to accept a boy's friendship ring and go only with him.

I understand from friends that going steady does not mean what it did in our day. They claim it's the "in" thing and that most kids outgrow it.

We have been having some fairly heated discussions on this subject since my husband and I are divided. The lineup is now 2 against 2. Our 17-year-old son sides with his father. What do you say?—PARK RIDGE.

Dear Park: I just tipped the balance. It's 3-2, and I'm with your husband and your son. Not only am I against 13-year-olds going steady, I'm against 13-year-old going. Period.

What's your big hurry to get this little chick grown up? I don't know what your friends mean when they say going steady doesn't mean what it did in our day. The basic idea is the same — "everybody else, hands off."

This is a poor approach even for 16 and 17-year-olds. If you came to me for support, Madame, you rattled the wrong cage.

Confidentially

Hate the Stuff: Leave it alone, Stupid. Of course he wants you to drink with him. What does he have to lose? He's already a drunk. Furthermore, booze is one of the best known devices to break down a girl's resistance.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Chinese Terrorists Boast

By FORREST EDWARDS

HONG KONG (AP) — Hong Kong Chinese radio comedian Lam Bun died today, a day after Communist terrorists turned him into a human torch, and a terrorist group boasted it had executed him for ridiculing Red rioters and agitators.

Lam's murder was a warning to "others committing similar crimes," said Hong Kong Communist newspapers, quoting the "underground traitor-executing onslaught headquarters."

Lam's brother was reported near death. The two men were riding in a car Thursday when terrorists, pretending to be highway workers, waved their car to a halt, threw in a bomb, then doused the brothers with gasoline and set them afire.

Lam, who conducted a radio program of biting satire, was the third terrorist fatality this week in the British colony on Red China's southern coast. A bomb killed two Chinese children Sunday.

The government has offered separate rewards of $9,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the terrorists involved in either case. Lam's radio station added an $18,000 reward for his killers.

Lam's wife and three small children were taken to a hideout under police guard.

At the border, British Gurkha troops used tear gas for the second straight day to drive back Chinese mobs at the Man Kam To crossing point. The mobs tried twice to remove a wire barrier on the Hong Kong side. Then about 100 Red Chinese troops moved to the border to keep the groups in check.

However, loudspeakers along the 17-mile border carried a warning from Red Chinese soldiers that Chinese peasants must be allowed to continue crossing freely or "action will be taken." They did not say what action.

The loudspeaker announcement said British authorities must "clear away all obstructions on the Hong Kong side and protect the peasants who cross to work in their fields." It was made in the name of the "Shum Chun Peoples Liberation Army unit."

Chinese peasants have crossed the border freely for years to work in fields on either side. Hong Kong authorities erected barbed wire barricades two weeks ago after a series of attacks across the border by Chinese mobs.

The official border crossing point at Lowu station remained open and British authorities made their own loudspeaker announcement: "The bridge at Lowu is open as always for farmers and workers to cross and work in peace."

Peasants crossing the bridge Thursday suddenly turned on guards at the Hong Kong immigration post, and a group later burned the post roof with gasoline bombs. But the Gurkhas drove back both attacks with tear gas and smoke bombs.

Talented Actor, Writer

Carl Reiner's Optimism

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Watching a baseball game to me is like going to church," said Carl Reiner. "There is time to think and ruminate.

"I'd rather have been a baseball pitcher than anything."

Young Carl, alas, had a big failing as a player. He could throw a fast ball, a slow ball, a curve or a fadeaway. The one thing he couldn't throw across the plate was a strike.

So, after finishing high school at 16 and working briefly as a shipping clerk and machinist's helper, he turned to acting.

Reiner, one of the best-liked men in show business, quickly became a master at pitching funny lines. Now he has matured into a quadruple-threat man in the entertainment field as actor, writer, director and producer.

Carl, who made his mark as a "top banana," or supporting comedian for Sid Caesar for eight years, widened his fame by originating and producing the "Dick Van Dyke Show," a popular television series.

His latest film opus, "Enter Laughing," introducing Reni Santoni to stardom, is based on a semiautobiographical novel that Reiner wrote in 1958. Carl directed the film and also served as cowriter and coproducer with his long-time friend, Joseph Stein, author of the Broadway hit, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Reiner, who still says his vocation is acting, regards writing, directing and producing as his hobbies. But he enjoys them all.

"The thing I get the most satisfaction from is anything that I start as a blank page in a typewriter, and then follow all the way through, whether it's a book, a play or a film," he said.

"There's something wonderful about catching a fish, cleaning it, cooking it and serving it, and then having someone say, 'Very good.' "

The tall, hazel-eyed actor picked up the rudiments of comedy writing by working with the gag men on the old Sid Caesar shows.

"But I had been such a poor student in school that I hesitated at trying anything at all serious. I felt I didn't know enough words to become a real writer.

"My wife got me over that hurdle. She convinced me that it wasn't important whether I knew a lot of long words, only whether I knew the right words."

Carl is convinced now that empathy, the feeling for people, is more valuable to a writer than a big vocabulary.

Reiner feels he is normally neurotic: "If you're not neurotic to some extent, you can't function in this society." But he believes his most valuable personality trait is an inborn, unquenchable optimism.

"Life is supposed to be fun," he said. "The human being isn't supposed to be genuinely happy very often, but if your problems don't let you have fun and moments of joy, then you haven't had much of a life."

County Schools Can Lose $338,000 If Bill Fails

By WILLIAM V. MERRIMAN
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Columbiana County schools stand to lose $338,000 in state aid if the $300 million tax - education bill does not pass the Ohio General Assembly as an emergency measure.

The bill, now in a conference committee working to bring versions passed by both houses into line, cannot take effect until late November unless the House agrees to reinsert the emergency section it pulled from the measure Thursday.

House Republican leadership was forced to send the bill back to the Senate late Thursday as a regular measure after it failed to gain the necessary two-thirds vote to pass as an emergency.

Figures released by the Ohio Department of Education indicate Columbiana County schools' $1.35 million annual increase will shrink by $338,000 if machinery to distribute the additional funds is not slipped into gear by return of the emergency.

Department of Education calculations show the $184-million hike the bill provides for secondary and elementary education will be equivalent to a state average of 3.6 mills in local real property taxes.

East Liverpool, 7.0; East Palestine, 7.9; Salem, 2.7; Wellsville, 10.5; Columbiana, 2.9; Leetonia, 5.9; Lisbon, 8.0; Beaver Local, 8.6; Fairfield - Waterford, 2.3; Southern, 7.4, and United, 3.8.

Local Marine 'Good' After Viet Injuries

An East Liverpool Marine injured in Vietnam on Aug. 19 was reported in "good" condition today.

He is Cpl. R. Scott Musuraca, 22, who suffered fragmentary wounds of the right arm and leg when the government vehicle in which he was riding touched off an enemy land mine near Phu Bai.

Musuraca, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Musuraca of 2601 St. Clair Ave., is being treated at the 3rd Medical Battalion Hospital. He is a weather observer.

Mrs. Musuraca said as of this morning their only communication relative to the injury has been the official telegram they received.

Cpl. Musuraca was graduated from East Liverpool High School in 1963 and will have served two years in the Marines in September.

Hancock Wreck Hurts Pennsylvania Woman

A Pennsylvania woman is in Weirton General Hospital today, the aftermath of an accident on Route 66 in Hancock County late Thursday night.

Mrs. Helen Valek, 47, of 21 Weavertown Rd., Canonsburg, is in "fair" condition with a neck injury. She was a passenger in a car driven by Julia Smith, 51, of Eighty Four, Pa., RD 1.

Damage to the vehicle was $350.

Sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Smith told them a car stopped in front of her and she struck it in the rear. The driver got out, she said, asked for information and then left the scene.

The Smith woman was not injured.

Oak Glen Expects Improvement From 2-8 Mark

I FORMATION? The Oak Glen probable starting backfield stacks up with Quarterback Craig Whittington in front, slotback Bob Miller next, halfback Alan Six third and fullback Harold Marshall top.

Will Pass A Lot, Says Bear Coach

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

"We could go anything from 0-10 to 10-0," says Oak Glen High School football coach Bob Starkey, but he indicates he is expecting to improve on last season's 2-8 mark.

Starkey has 14 returning lettermen to help build the Golden Bears back to the pinnacle they enjoyed in 1965, an 8-2 mark and the OVAC AAA championship.

The team's attack is built around quarterback Craig Whittington, a 138-pound junior letterman, who completed 41 of 136 passes for 517 yards and four TD's last season. "We'll throw more than any team in the Ohio Valley", Starkey says. Whittington is backed by Steve Logston, a 131-pound senior who hit 2 of 4 for 20 yards in brief appearances last year.

THE RECEIVING corps on Oak Glen's slot - T offense is headed by Bob Miller, a 143-pound senior who was the leading receiver last year with 11 grabs for 141 yards and two TD's. He will play the slotback position. Last year's second best receiver, Alan Six, is also back, and he will be at halfback. Six grabbed nine passes for 137 yards in 1966. Six was also the leading rusher on last year's team, gaining 459 yards. He averaged 4.6 yards a carry and scored six times. Miller also ran well last season, gaining six yards a carry and 259 yards total.

Among the 10 lettermen graduated from last year's club are Dick Lugano, who gained 260 yards on a 3.4 yards-per-carry average and who grabbed 7 passes for 48 yards. Also missing are Richard Everly, who ran for 153 yards with a 3.7 yard average, and John Zielinsky, who caught 7 passes for 110 yards.

Rounding out this season's starting backfield will be Harold Marshall, a 162-pound senior, at fullback. He lettered last year while gaining 44 yards for a 3.1 yard average. He will be backed by Carl Sayre, a 168-pound junior letterman. Reserve halfbacks will be 133-pound junior Gary Martin and 179-pound sophomore Steve Staley.

STARKEY welcomed 73 boys at the beginning of practice, but is down to 57 and may go lower. He calls his biggest problem the replacement of Jim Stauffer, who played center and defensive tackle last year. Starkey plans to use the best 11 on offense and on defense, meaning some boys will play two both ways and some only one way.

Defensive alignments will be a wide tackle six and an open-hole 5-4.

Co-captains of the Golden Bears are Rich Gogol, 166, the center, and Dan Crago, 169, the right end. Crago will handle the punting. He averaged 30.7 on 40 kicks last year.

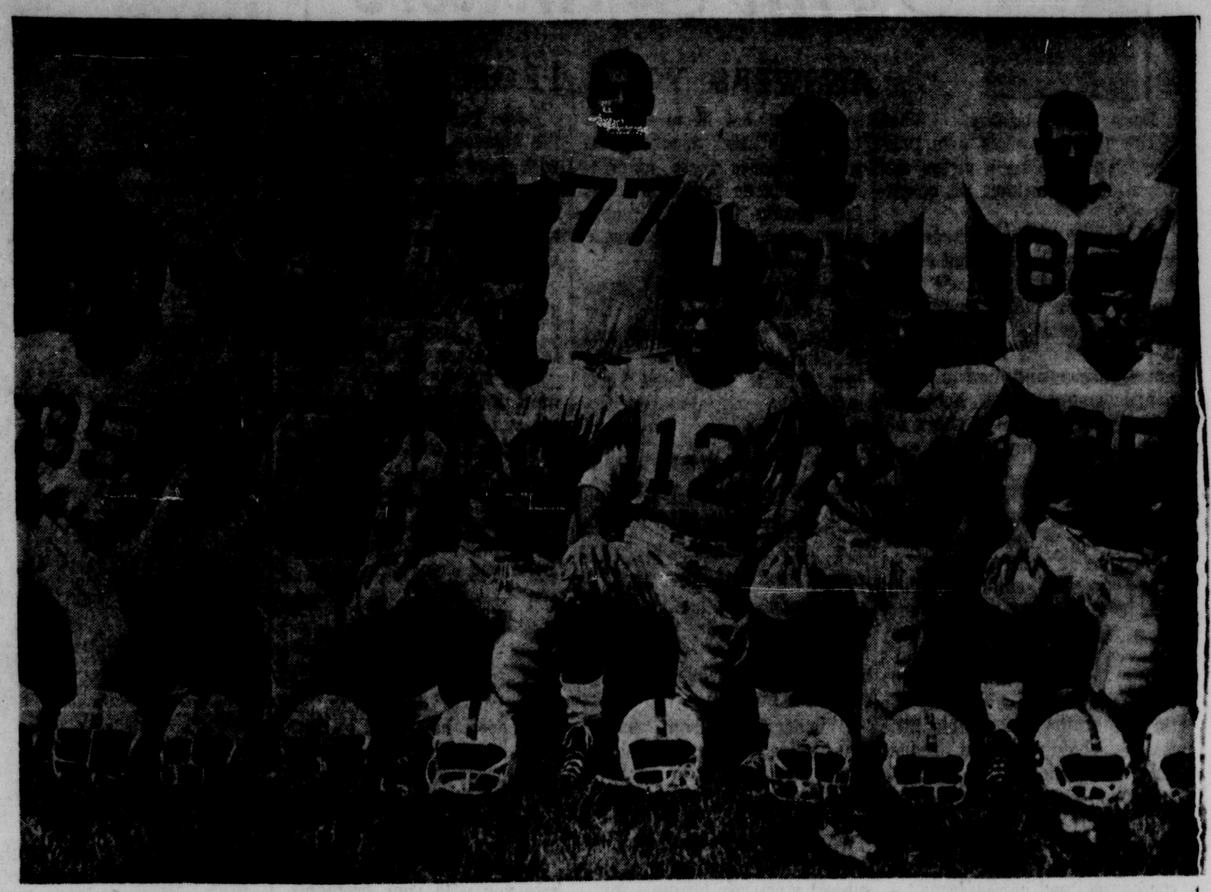

The split end will be senior Earl Jackson, 154, and a third letterman at end is Bob Coleman, a 158-pound junior. There are three senior lettermen at the tackles, John Ludovici, 219; Glen Greathouse, 179; and Kit Carson, 211. Rich Bryer, 179, and Dan Staley, 156, are senior lettermen at tackles, but juniors Gerald Gray, 165, and Tom McGeehan, 164, are being considered as starters right now.

OAK GLEN has the advantage of seven home games, but Starkey calls the schedule "real tough". All schools are AAA except Weirton Madonna, but Starkey thinks the Blue Dons and Wheeling Central will be the toughest games on the schedule. The latter is the defending state Catholic champ and have a quarterback reported to be the best in the East.

Starkey realizes that his team is small, but says that the overall team speed is satisfactory. He is looking for quite an improvement over last season, the worst in the five - year history of the school and Starkey's stay there. The schedule follows:

Aug. 31—Weirton Madonna
Sept. 15—At Wellsburgx
Sept. 22—Follansbeex
Sept. 29—At Tridelphiax
Oct. 6—Wheeling Centralx
Oct. 13—Philip Barbour
Oct. 20—Salem
Oct. 28—At Allegheny, Md.
Nov. 3—Weirtonx
Nov. 10—Beaver Local

Japanese, Chicagoans In Finals

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—The Japanese ate rice, drank green tea and played it cozy. The kids from the South Side of Chicago ate steak and said, "we'll lick 'em, no doubt about it.'

This was how it was after West Tokyo, Japan, beat Pennsylvania's Newton - Eegmont. and North Roseland of Chicago dumped Linares, Mexico, Thursday to enter the 21st annual Little League World Series championship game Saturday at 2 p.m.

The Tokyo team scored three runs in the first inning on three walks, a wild pitch and a single off N-E's 151-pound Neil Powers, who hit a home run for his team's only score in the 4-1 game Thursday.

Chicago topped Linares 4-3 in a seven-inning overtime game.

Shoots 66s At Westchester

Player, Rudolph, Colbert Share Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Colbert, a bright-eyed young Kansan, took a long, hard look at his position in the $250,000 Westchester Classic Golf Tournament, gulped once and admitted: "I feel a little uncomfortable."

Mason Rudolph squinted through his thick glasses, added up his scorecard again and said: "I feel like I ought to play a couple of more holes. I'm not used to stopping at 66."

The 26-year-old Colbert, who went to Kansas State on a football scholarship and abandoned it for golf, cut out a careful 66, six-under-par, for a share of the first round lead Thursday with Rudolph and South African Gary Player.

They had a one-stroke lead on U. S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus, Bob Charles of New Zealand and John Schlee, all at 57.

Locked at 68, just two strokes back, were Lee Trevino, a club pro from El Paso, Tex., steady Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky., who went 84 holes before getting a bogey, Dave Hill and 55-year-old Sam Snead.

As usual, however, most of the gallery of 17,031 charged and screamed after Arnold Palmer, the all-time leading money winner. And their biggest cheer came when the muscular slammer from Latrobe, Pa., saved an indifferent round with a birdie-eagle finish that got him home with a 69.

In all, 68 of the field of 154 matched or bettered the par 72 at the compact, 6,573-yard Westchester Country Club course, even though a number of them including Nicklaus—complained that the grass in the fairways is too long.

Rudolph had five birdies, a bogey and an eagle, reaching the par five fifth in two and running in a 35-foot putt.

Player confined his six birdies to a string of eight holes and didn't have a bogey.

Colbert, a pro for only two years, also had six birdies—two on putts of more than 25 feet—and didn't have a bogey. He just missed on three more birdies, with putts spinning out of the cup on the fifth, sixth and seventh holes.

Oak Glen Expects Improvement From 2-8 Mark

I FORMATION? The Oak Glen probable starting backfield stacks up with Quarterback Craig Whittington in front, slotback Bob Miller next, halfback Alan Six third and fullback Harold Marshall top.

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

"We could go anything from 0-10 to 10-0," says Oak Glen High School football coach Bob Starkey, but he indicates he is expecting to improve on last season's 2-8 mark.

Starkey has 14 returning lettermen to help build the Golden Bears back to the pinnacle they enjoyed in 1965, an 8-2 mark and the OVAC AAA championship.

The team's attack is built around quarterback Craig Whittington, a 138-pound junior letterman, who completed 41 of 136 passes for 517 yards and four TD's last season. "We'll throw more than any team in the Ohio Valley", Starkey says. Whittington is backed by Steve Logston, a 131-pound senior who hit 2 of 4 for 20 yards in brief appearances last year.

THE RECEIVING corps on Oak Glen's slot - T offense is headed by Bob Miller, a 143-pound senior who was the leading receiver last year with 11 grabs for 141 yards and two TD's. He will play the slotback position. Last year's second best receiver, Alan Six, is also back, and he will be at halfback. Six grabbed nine passes for 137 yards in 1966. Six was also the leading rusher on last year's team, gaining 459 yards. He averaged 4.6 yards a carry and scored six times. Miller also ran well last season, gaining six yards a carry and 259 yards total.

Among the 10 lettermen graduated from last year's club are Dick Lugano, who gained 260 yards on a 3.4 yards-per-carry average and who grabbed 7 passes for 48 yards. Also missing are Richard Everly, who ran for 153 yards with a 3.7 yard average, and John Zielinsky, who caught 7 passes for 110 yards.

Rounding out this season's starting backfield will be Harold Marshall, a 162-pound senior, at fullback. He lettered last year while gaining 44 yards for a 3.1 yard average. He will be backed by Carl Sayre, a 168-pound junior letterman. Reserve halfbacks will be 133-pound junior Gary Martin and 179-pound sophomore Steve Staley.

STARKEY welcomed 73 boys at the beginning of practice, but is down to 57 and may go lower. He calls his biggest problem the replacement of Jim Stauffer, who played center and defensive tackle last year. Starkey plans to use the best 11 on offense and on defense, meaning some boys will play two both ways and some only one way.

Defensive alignments will be a wide tackle six and an open-hole 5-4.

Co-captains of the Golden Bears are Rich Gogol, 166, the center, and Dan Crago, 169, the right end. Crago will handle the punting. He averaged 30.7 on 40 kicks last year.

The split end will be senior Earl Jackson, 154, and a third letterman at end is Bob Coleman, a 158-pound junior. There are three senior lettermen at the tackles, John Ludovici, 219; Glen Greathouse, 179; and Kit Carson, 211. Rich Bryer, 179, and Dan Staley, 156, are senior lettermen at tackles, but juniors Gerald Gray, 165, and Tom McGeehan, 164, are being considered as starters right now.

OAK GLEN has the advantage of seven home games, but Starkey calls the schedule "real tough". All schools are AAA except Weirton Madonna, but Starkey thinks the Blue Dons and Wheeling Central will be the toughest games on the schedule. The latter is the defending state Catholic champ and have a quarterback reported to be the best in the East.

Starkey realizes that his team is small, but says that the overall team speed is satisfactory. He is looking for quite an improvement over last season, the worst in the five - year history of the school and Starkey's stay there. The schedule follows:

Aug. 31—Weirton Madonna
Sept. 15—At Wellsburgx
Sept. 22—Follansbeex
Sept. 29—At Tridelphiax
Oct. 6—Wheeling Centralx
Oct. 13—Philip Barbour

Player, Rudolph, Colbert Share Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Colbert, a bright-eyed young Kansan, took a long, hard look at his position in the $250,000 Westchester Classic Golf Tournament, gulped once and admitted. "I feel a little uncomfortable."

Mason Rudolph squinted through his thick glasses, added up his scorecard again and said: "I feel like I ought to play a couple of more holes. I'm not used to stopping at 66."

The 26-year-old Colbert, who went to Kansas State on a football scholarship and abandoned it for golf, cut out a careful 66, six-under-par, for a share of the first round lead Thursday with Rudolph and South African Gary Player.

They had a one-stroke lead on U. S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus, Bob Charles of New Zealand and John Schlee, all at 57.

Locked at 68, just two strokes back, were Lee Trevino, a club pro from El Paso, Tex., steady Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky., who went 84 holes before getting a bogey, Dave Hill and 55-year-old Sam Snead.

As usual, however, most of the gallery of 17,031 charged and screamed after Arnold Palmer, the all-time leading money winner. And their biggest cheer came when the muscular slammer from Latrobe, Pa., saved an indifferent round with a birdie-eagle finish that got him home with a 69.

In all, 68 of the field of 154 matched or bettered the par 72 at the compact, 6,573-yard Westchester Country Club course, even though a number of them including Nicklaus—complained that the grass in the fairways is too long.

Rudolph had five birdies, a bogey and an eagle, reaching the par five fifth in two and running in a 35-foot putt.

Player confined his six birdies to a string of eight holes and didn't have a bogey.

Colbert, a pro for only two years, also had six birdies—two on putts of more than 25 feet—and didn't have a bogey. He just missed on three more birdies, with putts spinning out of the cup on the fifth, sixth and seventh holes.

JIM COLBERT
Unknown Leader.

Sox Meet Sox In 5-Game Set

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Stanky doesn't need Hubert H. Humphrey. And he can get along without Bill Monbouquette, too.

The Chicago White Sox manager held forth at great length after his club was blanked on five hits by Monbouquette Thursday and lost to the New York Yankees 5-0. The defeat dropped the Sox into a virtual tie with Boston for the American League lead

Earlier this month, Stanky barred the clubhouse door in Bloomington, Minn., after a game with the Twins, thereby unwittingly keeping out the vice president, who, though a Twins' fan, wanted to pay his respects.

Stanky sent a telegram of apology, but when asked about the incident Thursday, said, "Humphrey can't hit. What do I want with him?"

The White Sox couldn't do much hitting either against Monbouquette, who, after being released by Detroit in May, spent three weeks frustratingly trying to catch on with every major league team before the Yankees took a chance that has been paying off handsomely ever since.

Monbouquette has pitched well in relief, but in making his first start against Chicago, he was superb. The league leaders managed only five hits and only one of them went out of the infield.

In othr American League games, the Red Sox beat Washington 7-5, Minnesota took Detroit 4-2 and Cleveland edged California 2-1. Baltimore and Kansas City were not scheduled.

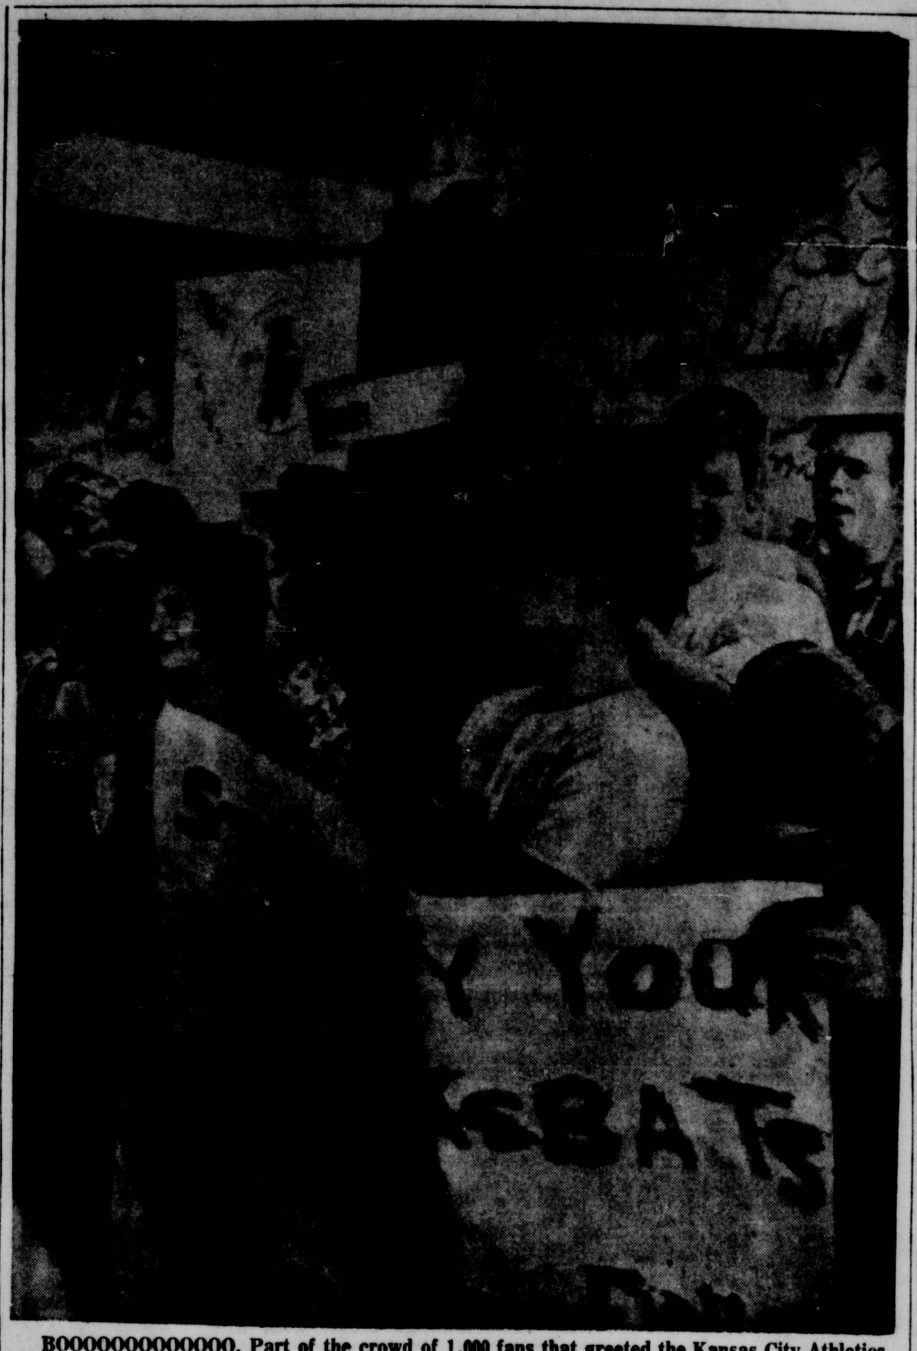

Charley Smith, the man who came when Roger Maris went to St. Louis, blasted two two-run homers for the Yankees.

Elston Howard hit his first homer in a Boston uniform, a three-run shot in the seventh inning that led the Sox to within a point of the league lead. Chicago's percentage is .561 to Boston's .560.

Jerry Adairand Jim Landis also homered for the Red Sox who won 10 out of 12 in their current home stand. The Senators scored three times in the ninth before John Wyatt came in to get the final out.

Harmon Killebrew's 34th homer broke a tie in the eighth inning and the Twins scored again in the ninth on Ted Uhlaender's run-scoring single to cement the victory and sole possession of third place, half a game behind Chicago and Boston. The Tigers are in fourth, 1½ games out.

Chuck Hinton hit a homer in the fourth inning for the decisive Cleveland run and Sam McDowell protected it, giving up just six hits to the Angels and striking out nine.

Eckert Promises Action In A's-Finley Squabble

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert, promising "appropriate action at a later date," has stepped into the squabble between the Kansas City Athletics and their volatile owner, Charles O. Finley.

Eckert acknowledged Thursday that he had received a request from the Major League Players Association that he hold a hearing on the dispute which has resulted in the firing of Alvin Dark as Athletics' manager and the release of first baseman Ken Harrelson.

Eckert said, "I am gathering appropriate data on the subject and will take further appropriate action a later date."

The letter was sent by Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association.

The Athletics, in the meantime, returned home to Kansas City Thursday and were met at the airport by about 1,000 fans, many carrying signs criticizing Finley and backing the players.

The confrontation arose last week when Finley suspended pitcher Lew Krausse for a drinking incident on a plane. The players released a statement criticizing Finley and, in the aftermath, Dark was fired and Harrelson was released.

Krausse was later reinstated and Finley's demand that the players retract their statement was refused.

Reds' Shoddy Fielding Helps Dodgers 4-3 Win

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Billy McCool hesitated and the Cincinnati Reds were lost.

McCool, working in relief in the 10th inning against Los Angeles Thursday night, waited a moment too long before deciding what to do with Jim Lefebvre's sacrifice bunt and the Reds wound up on the short end of a 4-3 score.

Gary Nolan was working on a three-hitter and leading 3-0 going into the ninth inning against the Dodgers. But three straight hits by Lefebvre, Al Ferrara and Wes Parker followed by two errors tied the score for Los Angeles.

An inning later, Lou Johnson opened with a double. Lefebvre bunted and McCool fielded the ball, looked towards third, hesitated, and threw to first. But Lefebvre beat the play.

In the only other National League games played Thursday, Houston edged Atlanta 5-4 in 10 innings and St. Louis blanked San Francisco 2-0. Pittsburgh's game at Philadelphia was rained out.

The Reds nicked Dodger starter Don Sutton for a pair of first inning runs and added another in the third. With Nolan breezing, the margin looked safe, and until the ninth, it was.

But Lefebvre opened with a single and Ferrara doubled. Parker's hit brought one run across and Lee Mays high throw on the relay allowed another to score. Then Tony Perez booted a grounder as Parker carried the tying run across.

Doug Rader drove in three runs with three hits and a sacrifice fly for Houston but the hero was Sonny Jackson, whose 10th-inning single scored Ron Brand with the winning run.

Brand had been hit by a Jay Ritchie pitch with two out and raced to third on Julio Gotay's double. Ramon Hernandez relieved for the Braves and Jackson singled the winning run home.

Hughes, 13-4, hurled a four-hitter and was never in trouble against the Giants.

Rich Allen Cuts Hand, To Miss Rest Of Year

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies' slugging third baseman Rich Allen will be out of action the rest of the season, after accidentally cutting two tendons on his right hand and wrist Thursday night.

The all-star slugger was pushing his car at home here when he accidentally shoved the hand through a headlight, cutting the two tendons and severing a nerve.

He was admitted to the operating room at Temple University Hospital, where two orthopedic surgeons and a neurosurgeon worked on the hand over a period of nearly five hours.

The doctors said Allen's hand would be in a cast at least six weeks and that if the healing was normal, he will not have any difficulty in grasping a bat or ball.

A team spokesman said one of the two tendons controlled the little finger and the other, part of the ring finger. He said the ulnar nerve was cut one inch below the wrist.

This means, he said, that Allen now has no sensation in the little finger and only partial sensation in his ring finger. He said the nerve also controls the fine motion of that side of the hand.

The accident happened about 8 p.m. after the battery of his car had run down and he was trying to push it toward a hill to get it rolling.

Allen reportedly makes $75,000 a year. At the time of the accident he was hitting .307 with 23 home runs and 77 runs batted in to his credit.

Shirley Smith Top Golfer At Field Day

Shirley Smith took top honors as the Beaver Creek Ladies Par 3 Golf League finished its season with a field day at the club Wednesday.

Shirley fired a 35-7-28 to record the best gross and net scores and also had the lowest number of putts.

Alice Danser had the most birdies but also received the booby prize. Evelyn Smith shared longest putt honors with Helen Butler and closest chip laurels with Lois Moore. Pat Lockhart and Glenda Stimms were cited for the longest drive.

The group followed the day's play with a picnic. The annual banquet will be held Wednesday at 6:30 at Heritage House.

CENEVIVA DORSEY

Ceneviva, Dorsey Star In Softball

Two former area athletes are starring for the Titanium Metals Slow Pitch softball team of Toronto, known as TMCA.

Eugene (Bud) Ceneviva of Wellsville is the team's third baseman. In 49 games this year he is hitting .433, has scored 36 runs, batted in 40 and slugged two homers. Bert Dorsey of East Liverpool joined the team late, but has taken over as the regular catcher and in 23 games has batted .556, including seven home runs. He has batted in 22 runs, scored 19 and the majority of his hits are going for extra bases.

TMCA has posted an outstanding record over the past two years. In 1966 the team went 56-7, while it is 27-6 so far this season. Last weekend the team traveled to Hamilton to play in the state ASA Slow Pitch Softball Tournament. They won two of four games and finished sixth in the 16-team field, which included the defending world champions from Springfield.

Any softball team interested in playing TCMA may contact Larry Thompson at Titanium Metals or Bud Ceneviva at Wellsville 532-4067.

Vulcans Financially Solvent

NEW YORK (AP) — Akron will remain in the Continental Football League, Commissioner Sol Rosen said yesterday following a special meeting called to investigate the financial solvency of the Vulcans' franchise.

"Frank Hurn, owner of the Akron Vulcans, has satisfied the Continental Football League owners "that he has obtained adequate financial support for the 1967 Eastern Division season," said Rosen.

A league spokesman said the Vulcans had unpaid financial commitments totaling $50,000 which included league assessments and expenses incurred in operating the new club during its three-game pre-season schedule.

Hurn fired General Manager Tobin Rote and Coach Doak Walker earlier this week and Assistant Coach Lou Rymkus was named to fill both positions.

Sox Meet Sox In 5-Game Set

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Stanky doesn't need Hubert H. Humphrey. And he can get along without Bill Monbouquette, too.

The Chicago White Sox manager held forth at great length after his club was blanked on five hits by Monbouquette Thursday and lost to the New York Yankees 5-0. The defeat dropped the Sox into a virtual tie with Boston for the American League lead.

Earlier this month, Stanky barred the clubhouse door in Bloomington, Minn., after a game with the Twins, thereby unwittingly keeping out the vice president, who, though a Twins' fan, wanted to pay his respects.

Stanky sent a telegram of apology, but when asked about the incident Thursday, said, "Humphrey can't hit. What do I want with him?"

The White Sox couldn't do much hitting either against Monbouquette, who, after being released by Detroit in May, spent three weeks frustratingly trying to catch on with every major league team before the Yankees took a chance that has been paying off handsomely ever since.

Monbouquette has pitched well in relief, but in making his first start against Chicago, he was superb. The league leaders managed only five hits and only one of them went out of the infield.

In othr American League games, the Red Sox beat Washington 7-5, Minnesota took Detroit 4-2 and Cleveland edged California 2-1. Baltimore and Kansas City were not scheduled.

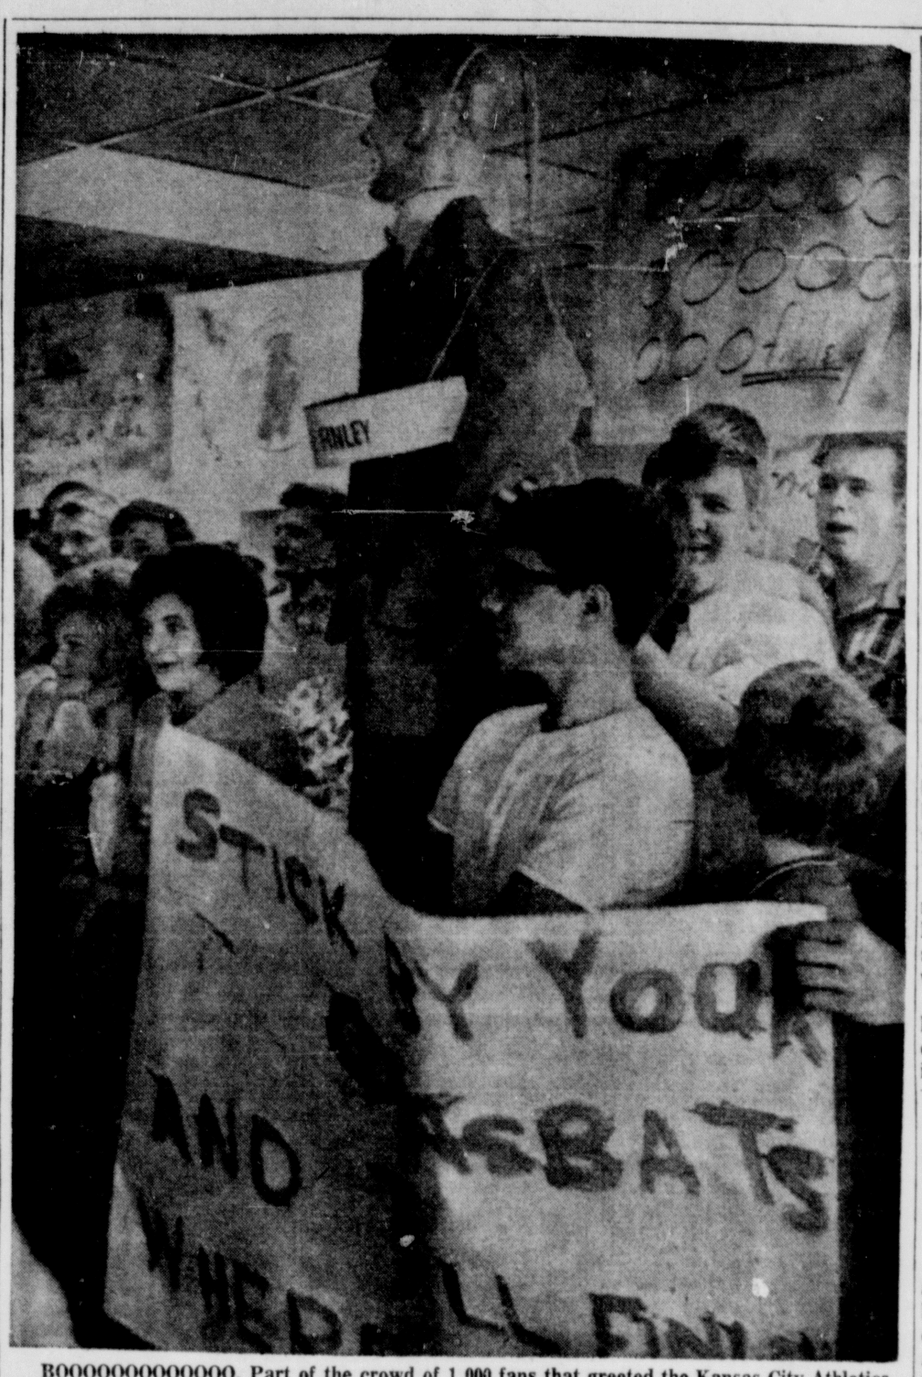

Charley Smith, the man who came when Roger Maris went to St. Louis, blasted two two-run homers for the Yankees.

Elston Howard hit his first homer in a Boston uniform, a three-run shot in the seventh inning that led the Sox to within a point of the league lead. Chicago's percentage is .561 to Boston's .560.

Jerry Adairand Jim Landis also homered for the Red Sox who won 10 out of 12 in their current home stand. The Senators scored three times in the ninth before John Wyatt came in to get the final out.

Harmon Killebrew's 34th homer broke a tie in the eighth inning and the Twins scored again in the ninth on Ted Uhlaender's run-scoring single to cement the victory and sole possession of third place, half a game behind Chicago and Boston. The Tigers are in fourth, 1½ games out.

Chuck Hinton hit a homer in the fourth inning for the decisive Cleveland run and Sam McDowell protected it, giving up just six hits to the Angels and striking out nine.

Eckert Promises Action In A's-Finley Squabble

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert, promising "appropriate action at a later date," has stepped into the squabble between the Kansas City Athletics and their volatile owner, Charles O. Finley.

Eckert acknowledged Thursday that he had received a request from the Major League Players Association that he hold a hearing on the dispute which has resulted in the firing of Alvin Dark as Athletics' manager and the release of first baseman Ken Harrelson.

Eckert said, "I am gathering appropriate data on the subject and will take further appropriate action a later date."

The letter was sent by Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association.

The Athletics, in the meantime, returned home to Kansas City Thursday and were met at the airport by about 1,000 fans, many carrying signs criticizing Finley and backing the players.

The confrontation arose last week when Finley suspended pitcher Lew Krausse for a drinking incident on a plane. The players released a statement criticizing Finley and, in the aftermath, Dark was fired and Harrelson was released.

Krausse was later reinstated and Finley's demand that the players retract their statement was refused.

Reds' Shoddy Fielding Helps Dodgers 4-3 Win

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Billy McCool hesitated and the Cincinnati Reds were lost.

McCool, working in relief in the 10th inning against Los Angeles Thursday night, waited a moment too long before deciding what to do with Jim Lefebvre's sacrifice bunt and the Reds wound up on the short end of a 4-3 score.

Gary Nolan was working on a three-hitter and leading 3-0 going into the ninth inning against the Dodgers. But three straight hits by Lefebvre, Al Ferrara and Wes Parker followed by two errors tied the score for Los Angeles.

An inning later, Lou Johnson opened with a double. Lefebvre bunted and McCool fielded the ball, looked towards third, hesitated, and threw to first. But Lefebvre beat the play.

In the only other National League games played Thursday, Houston edged Atlanta 5-4 in 10 innings and St. Louis blanked San Francisco 2-0. Pittsburgh's game at Philadelphia was rained out.

The Reds nicked Dodger starter Don Sutton for a pair of first inning runs and added another in the third. With Nolan breezing, the margin looked safe, and until the ninth, it was.

But Lefebvre opened with a single and Ferrara doubled. Parker's hit brought one run across and Lee Mays high throw on the relay allowed another to score. Then Tony Perez booted a grounder as Parker carried the tying run across.

Doug Rader drove in three runs with three hits and a sacrifice fly for Houston but the hero was Sonny Jackson, whose 10th-inning single scored Ron Brand with the winning run.

Brand had been hit by a Jay Ritchie pitch with two out and raced to third on Julio Gotay's double. Ramon Hernandez relieved for the Braves and Jackson singled the winning run home.

Bob Tolan and winning pitcher Dick Hughes stroked ninth-inning singles that drove in the winning runs for St. Louis against San Francisco and beat Gaylord Perry.

Tim McCarver singled opening the Cardinal ninth and moved to second on a sacrifice. Julian Javier was intentionally walked and Tolan and Hughes followed with their hits.

Hughes, 13-4, hurled a four-hitter and was never in trouble against the Giants.

Shirley Smith Top Golfer At Field Day

Shirley Smith took top honors as the Beaver Creek Ladies Par 3 Golf League finished its season with a field day at the club Wednesday.

Shirley fired a 35-7-28 to record the best gross and net scores and also had the lowest number of putts.

Alice Danser had the most birdies but also received the booby prize. Evelyn Smith shared longest putt honors with Helen Butler and closest chip laurels with Lois Moore. Pat Lockhart and Glenda Stimms were cited for the longest drive.

The group followed the day's play with a picnic. The annual banquet will be held Wednesday at 6:30 at Heritage House.

Rich Allen Cuts Hand, To Miss Rest Of Year

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies' slugging third baseman Rich Allen will be out of action the rest of the season, after accidentally cutting two tendons on his right hand and wrist Thursday night.

The all-star slugger was pushing his car at home here when he accidentally shoved the hand through a headlight, cutting the two tendons and severing a nerve.

He was admitted to the operating room at Temple University Hospital, where two orthopedic surgeons and a neurosurgeon worked on the hand over a period of nearly five hours.

The doctors said Allen's hand would be in a cast at least six weeks and that if the healing was normal, he will not have any difficulty in grasping a bat or ball.

A team spokesman said one of the two tendons controlled the little finger and the other, part of the ring finger. He said the ulnar nerve was cut one inch below the wrist.

This means, he said, that Allen now has no sensation in the little finger and only partial sensation in his ring finger. He said the nerve also controls the fine motion of that side of the hand.

The accident happened about 8 p.m. after the battery of his car had run down and he was trying to push it toward a hill to get it rolling.

Allen reportedly makes $75,000 a year. At the time of the accident he was hitting .307 with 23 home runs and 77 runs batted in to his credit.

Towers and domes are scattered across Jerusalem, where free and unimpeded access to holy sites is now guaranteed to Christians, Moslems and Jews. The Israeli government has annexed former Arab - held sector.

Jerusalem- Old and New

Three Religions Look Toward A Holy City That Is Whole

THE HOLY CITY with the split personality carries on under one flag—that of Israel—in the wake of the six-day war in the Middle East. Old and New Jerusalem were reunited for the first time in 19 years by the lightning victory of Israeli troops.

Before the war, the Old City was part of Jordan. Behind the thick Turkish wall that forms, roughly, a square mile are sacred places for Christians, Jews, and Moslems. Outside the wall is the New City, the capital of Israel. Buildings in both sections are made from a native, rose-colored limestone, but the crowded streets of the Old City, where carts and donkeys are the most effective way to move goods, contrast sharply with the broad avenues of the New City. Here, buses, trucks, and cars move freely, and trees and shrubs help the buildings blend with the rolling hills.

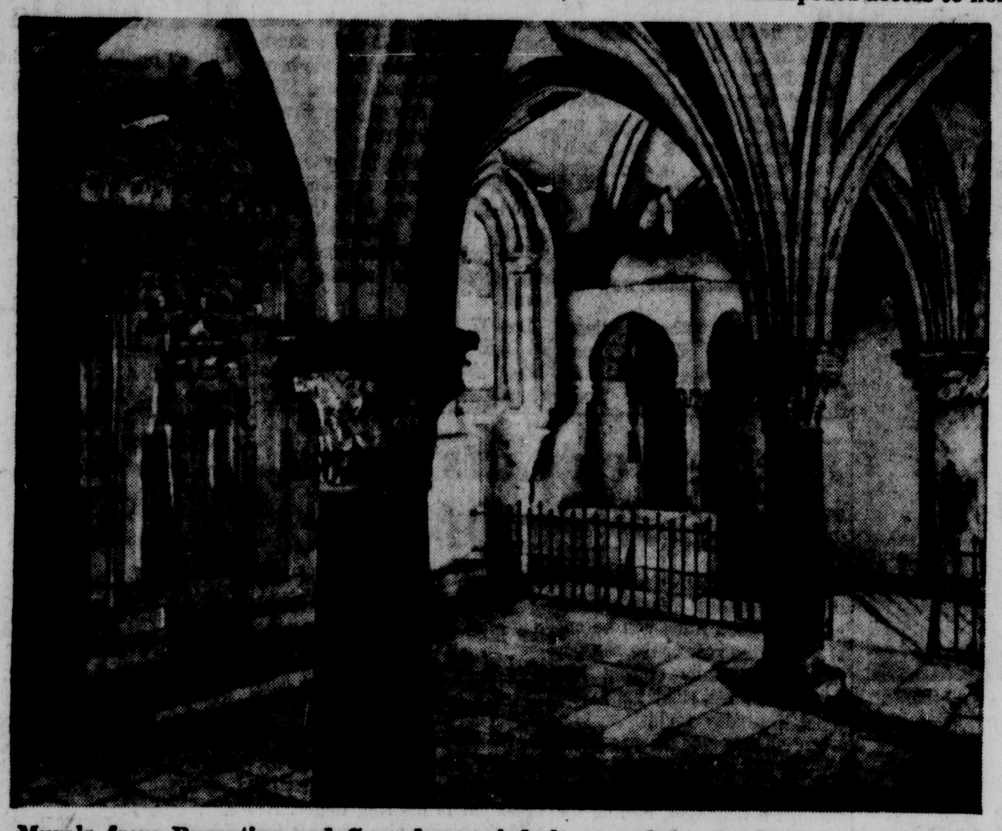

Jerusalem, at the end of fighting, had a population of about 260,000 persons, with some 30,000 living within the Old City wall. Plans are under way to turn former no-man's-land border zones into parks to enhance the majesty of the walls.

Within the walls is the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, revered by Christians as the tomb in which Jesus was laid to rest and rose from the dead. Jews now may flock to the wall that is believed to be part of the Second Temple, called the wailing wall because of plaintive cries that lament the distruction of the Temple. For Moslems, the destination is the Dome of the Rock on the Temple Mount. It is from here that his followers believe Mohammed ascended to heaven.

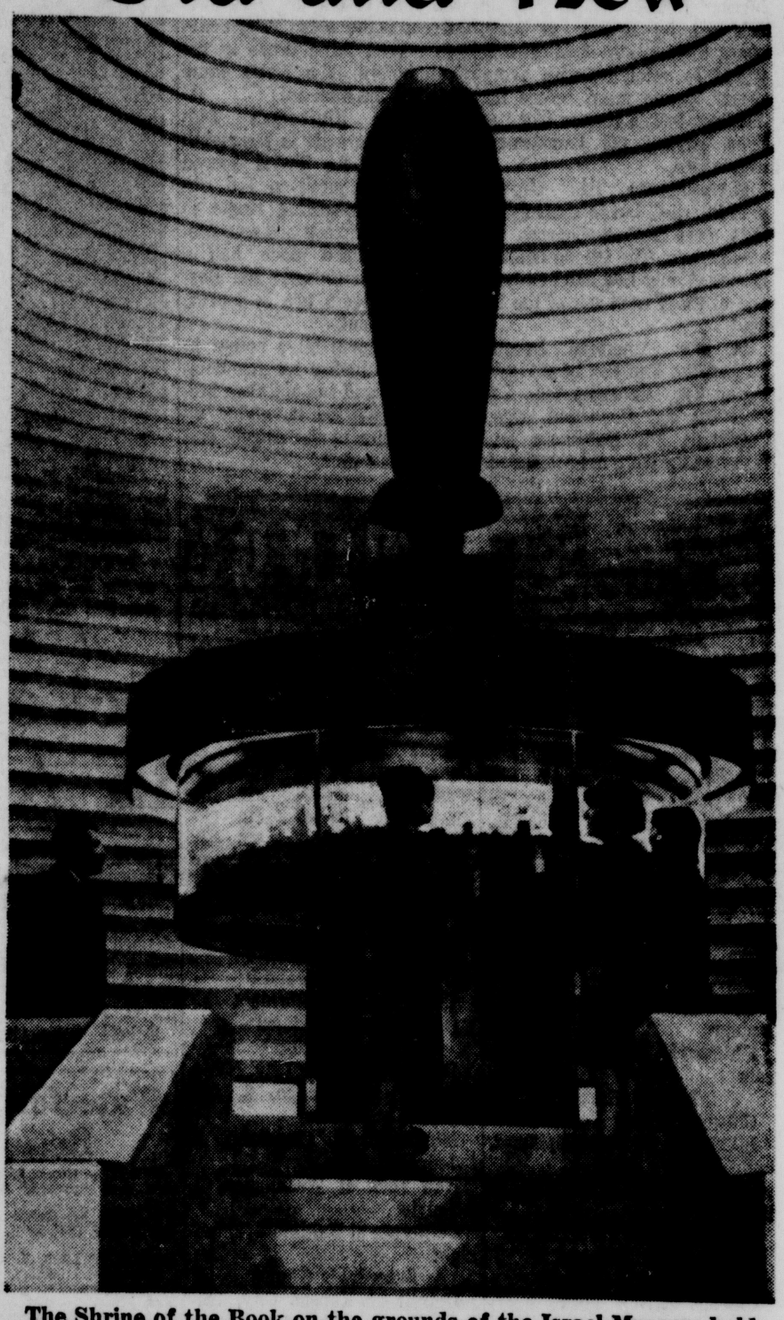

A united Jerusalem offers tourists many other historic sites. Just south of the city limits is Bethlehem, with the tomb of Rachel on the way. The Mount of Olives and the Dead Sea Scrolls are popular attractions.

The Israeli annexation of the Arab part of Jerusalem and the announced intention of maintaining possession aroused criticism in the United Nations and anger in Arab nations. The Vatican proposes placing Jerusalem under an international regime to protect holy places. Israel hopes, however, that by the free access granted to all persons, she will prove worthy of governing the city. Reports indicate that many Arabs of the Old City enjoy moving freely into the New City.

A new chapter has started for what the Jews call the City of Peace—a place where peace has never really been prolonged.

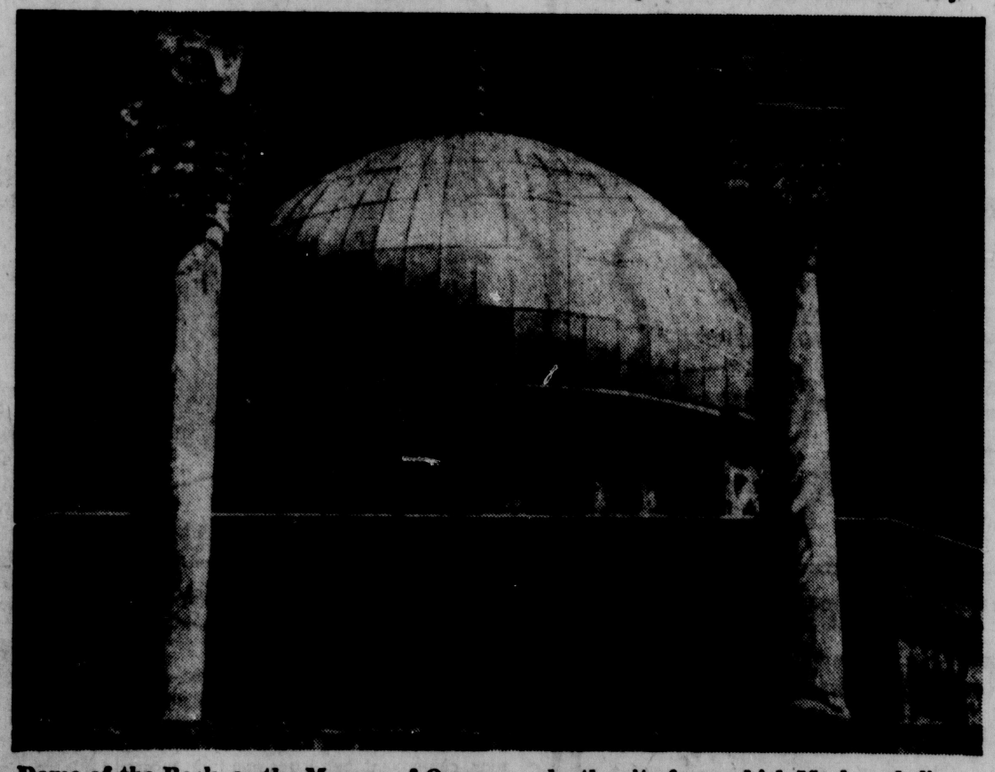

Murals from Byzantine and Crusader periods have peeled away in the room that is believed to have been where Jesus and His Disciples took part in the Last Supper.

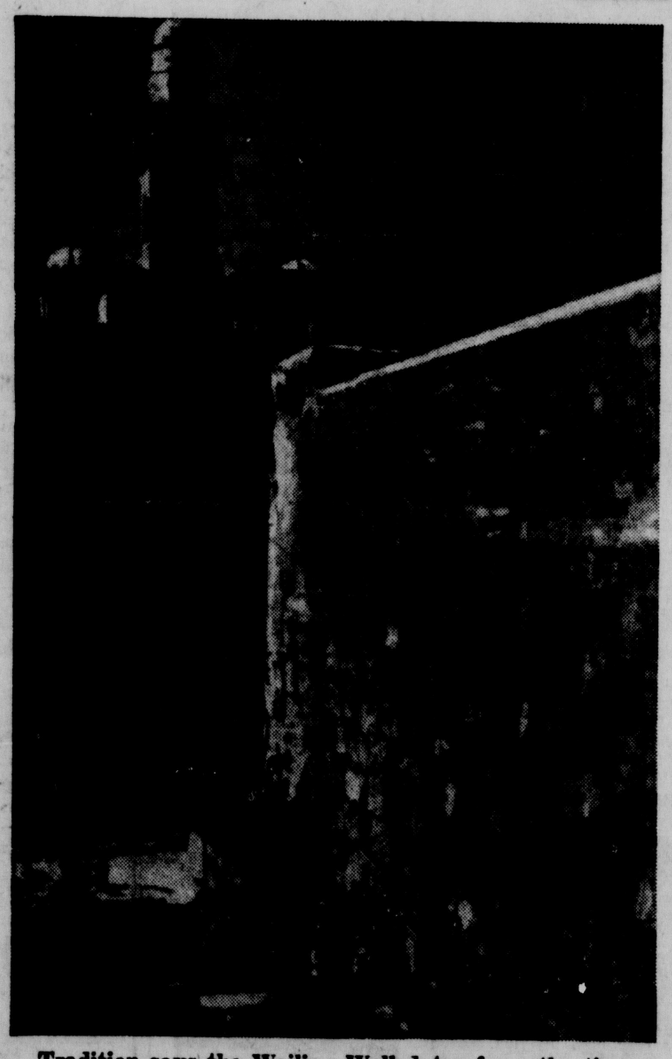

The Shrine of the Book on the grounds of the Israel Museum holds the Dead Sea Scrolls that were found in caves between 1947 and 1952.

The Tomb of David on Mount Zion lies a little south of the Old City walls. This is one of the shrines that once again can be visited by Jews in the reunited city.

'Catfish' Applauded At Parley

By JACK MILLER

He wore a sweatshirt, and he stood above New York's Mayor John V. Lindsay and talked to some of the most powerful and important people in the United States.

The dignitaries were there for the one-day "emergency convocation" of a new group called the Urban Coalition, and Catfish was telling them he was hurt because they hadn't invited him.

He pointed out they were there to decide what to do about "The Problem," and he said "I know what it is."

They applauded Rufus Mayfield, who was just another angry young man on the streets until this month when he became head of a Washington youth improvement group known as Pride Inc.

"Mr. Mayfield," said tall, aristocratic Andrew Heiskell, chairman of the board of Time, Inc., "I am sorry you were not invited."

Mayfield's appearance at the open-discussion end of the one-day conference Thursday emphasized by contrast the kind of people among the 1,100 delegates.

They were the potentates of the nation's cities: mayors like Lindsay and Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit and Richard J. Daley of Chicago; businessmen like Henry Ford II of the Ford Motor Co. and David Rockefeller of the Chase Manhattan Bank; and labor leaders like George Meany of the AFL-CIO and Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers.

The big names were there because of the riots that have rent the fabric of the nation's cities this summer. Several speakers said what is at stake is not only the existence of the cities but of the nation itself.

The convocation was called by Urban America, Inc., along with the U.S. Conference of Mayors and the National League of Cities.

Perhaps one-third of the delegates were businessmen, said Heiskell, co-chairmen of the conference and chairman of Urban America.

Does this mean business is about to take a much greater role in solving city problems? Heiskell was asked.

"All I can say is, the industry (people) have committed themselves to one hell of a lot."

The newly formed Urban Coalition said in a statement "private industry must greatly accelerate its efforts to recruit, train and hire the hard-core unemployed."

But "when the private sector is unable to provide employment to those who are both able and willing to work," the group said, "then in a free society the government must of necessity assume the responsibility and act as the employer of last resort or must assure adequate income levels for those who are unable to work."

For the short run, the group decided, the private sector is unable to provide the jobs.

So the coalition recommended a federal emergency work program to provide jobs for one million of the unemployed "at the earliest possible moment."

Historical Society Will Meet At Lisbon

LISBON — The Lisbon Historical Society will meet Sept. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Old Stone House — its museum on E. Washington St.

Plans will be completed for the society's booth at the flea market during "old - Fashioned Day" Sept. 23. Members and friends of the society are requested to donate surplus items for the sale.

The society will discuss a proposed tour of Lisbon homes in the summer of 1968. Owners will be asked to open their homes to visitors for one day. Officers say they hope this will become an annual event.

Missouri Mother Has Quadruplets

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A 34-year-old mother of six children gave birth early today to quadruplet boys in DePaul Hospital.

Dr. Nicholas C. Correnti, the attending physician, said the mother, Mrs. Richard Kahrenkrog of St. Louis County, and her sons were in good condition.

The first child was delivered, Correnti said, at 1:02 a.m., and weighed 5 pounds, 2 ounces. The second arrived at 1:42 a.m. weighing 4 pounds, 7 ounces; the third at 1:45 weighed 4 pounds, 3 ounces, and the fourth at 1:47 weighed 5 pounds, 1 ounce.

The Fahrenkrogs' other children—three boys and three girls—range from one to nine years of age. The father is an electrical engineer.

Correnti said, "The father predicted that they would all be boys, but we thought there would be at least one or two girls. We tried to call Lloyds of London and make a bet on his hunch, but we waited too long."

He wore a sweatshirt, and he stood above New York's Mayor John V. Lindsay and talked to some of the most powerful and important people in the United States.

The dignitaries were there for the one-day "emergency convocation" of a new group called the Urban Coalition, and Catfish was telling them he was hurt because they hadn't invited him.

He pointed out they were there to decide what to do about "The Problem," and he said "I know what it is."

They applauded Rufus Mayfield, who was just another angry young man on the streets until this month when he became head of a Washington youth improvement group known as Pride Inc.

"Mr. Mayfield," said tall, aristocratic Andrew Heiskell, chairman of the board of Time, Inc., "I am sorry you were not invited."

Mayfield's appearance at the open-discussion end of the one-day conference Thursday emphasized by contrast the kind of people among the 1,100 delegates.

They were the potentates of the nation's cities: mayors like Lindsay and Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit and Richard J. Daley of Chicago; businessmen like Henry Ford II of the Ford Motor Co. and David Rockefeller of the Chase Manhattan Bank; and labor leaders like George Meany of the AFL-CIO and Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers.

The big names were there because of the riots that have rent the fabric of the nation's cities this summer. Several speakers said what is at stake is not only the existence of the cities but of the nation itself.

The convocation was called by Urban America, Inc., along with the U.S. Conference of Mayors and the National League of Cities.

Perhaps one-third of the delegates were businessmen, said Heiskell, co-chairmen of the conference and chairman of Urban America.

Does this mean business is about to take a much greater role in solving city problems? Heiskell was asked.

"All I can say is, the industry (people) have committed themselves to one hell of a lot."

The newly formed Urban Coalition said in a statement "private industry must greatly accelerate its efforts to recruit, train and hire the hard-core unemployed."

But "when the private sector is unable to provide employment to those who are both able and willing to work," the group said, "then in a free society the government must of necessity assume the responsibility and act as the employer of last resort or must assure adequate income levels for those who are unable to work."

For the short run, the group decided, the private sector is unable to provide the jobs.

So the coalition recommended a federal emergency work program to provide jobs for one million of the unemployed "at the earliest possible moment."

Historical Society Will Meet At Lisbon

LISBON — The Lisbon Historical Society will meet Sept. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Old Stone House — its museum on E. Washington St.

Plans will be completed for the society's booth at the flea market during "old - Fashioned Day" Sept. 23. Members and friends of the society are requested to donate surplus items for the sale.

The society will discuss a proposed tour of Lisbon homes in the summer of 1968. Owners will be asked to open their homes to visitors for one day. Officers say they hope this will become an annual event.

Missouri Mother Has Quadruplets

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A 34-year-old mother of six children gave birth early today to quadruplet boys in DePaul Hospital.

Dr. Nicholas C. Correnti, the attending physician, said the mother, Mrs. Richard Kahrenkrog of St. Louis County, and her sons were in good condition.

The first child was delivered, Correnti said, at 1:02 a.m., and weighed 5 pounds, 2 ounces. The second arrived at 1:42 a.m. weighing 4 pounds, 7 ounces; the third at 1:45 weighed 4 pounds, 3 ounces, and the fourth at 1:47 weighed 5 pounds, 1 ounce.

The Fahrenkrogs' other children—three boys and three girls—range from one to nine years of age. The father is an electrical engineer.

Correnti said, "The father predicted that they would all be boys, but we thought there would be at least one or two girls. We tried to call Lloyds of London and make a bet on his hunch, but we waited too long."

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Happy New Star Until . . .

Carl Betz, who for eight long years played the good Dr. Stone on the Donna Reed Show, is in about the happiest state that an actor ever finds himself in today.

Hal Humphrey

He is going to be the star this time in a new TV series called "Judd, for the Defense." Five of the episodes have been filmed, but it is three weeks before it goes on the air (ABC, Friday nights), so neither the critics nor the Nielsen rating have had an opportunity to spoil Carl's glow.

-:-

AS JUDD, Carl is a flamboyant criminal attorney, honest but ruthless, and there are emotion-charged courtroom scenes which give him more chance to act than he got from a whole season of Donna Reed episodes.

"The Donna Reed Show was too long, too wholesome and so good and so upright," says Carl now. "I must say, though, I was a little more than "the monosyllabic Dr. Stone," which is what one reviewer cailed me. I'm not ashamed of 50 per cent of those Donna Reed shows. The other half you can burn."

Carl isn't the least concerned that in TV's trail is a whole slew of attorney series, some hits and more failures — "Trials of O'Brien," "Perry Mason," "Arrest and Trial," "Sam Benedict," to name a few.

"ALL I KNOW is this Judd is the best TV script I've seen in a long time. He even loses a case once in awhile," says Carl.

Getting a starring role came none too soon for Carl. In the movies and other TV he's done, it was either second leads or feature roles he inherited. But in "Judd, for the Defense," he's the big cheese. Stephen Young, who plays a junior assistant, Ben, is the only other regular in the series.

Those actors wondering how Carl got this break might like to learn that it was the result of producer Paul Monash's seeing Carl three years ago in Hollywood's Stage Society Theater playing the Rev. Shannon in "Night of the Iguana," the Tennessee Williams play which Richard Burton and Liz Taylor made into a movie.

CARL still was doing the Donna Reed Show then, but four nights a week for six months he would perform as Shannon in "Iguana."

It was like going to a gym and working out for Carl, who needed an antidote for the confining role he had on the Donna Reed Show. It certainly wasn't the money. He received $40 a week for "Iguana."

"Monash remembered me in that, and when 'Judd' got to the pilot-making stage, he called me. Then I had to make a test film for ABC, the network I'd been on for eight years as Dr. Stone. When it was all over and they said yes, my wife and I took off for Europe and a month of vacation," Carl recalls.

Like Perry Mason, Clinton Judd (Carl) will be in a courtroom for some of every episode, but not every case is a murder trial.

JUDD'S headquartered in Houston, Tex., and he wears a modified cowboy hat, boots and usually a string tie but doesn't talk with a Texas accent.

Carl describes his character as part Percy Forman of Texas, part Jake Ehrlich of San Francisco and part F. Lee Bailey of New York — all three noted real-life attorneys.

At this point Carl says he tries not to think of the series' premiere date on Sept. 8.

"I'll be a nervous wreck that night, then later when those first ratings come out. That will be another bad day," Carl adds.

BUT RIGHT NOW for Carl everything is delectable anticipation and lots of work. He says the latter doesn't bother him as much as it might some actors in their first starring series because of his years of experience in stock and repertory companies.

"I did 60 plays in 65 weeks in stock once," says Carl, "so work I am used to. And by the way, there's a 20th Century-Fox movie deal that goes with this contract, but I doubt if I'll have time to do a movie now."

He and Donna Reed and Shelley Fabares and and Paul Petersen (who played their offspring) have been getting together for a luncheon reunion once a month, but this could go by the boards now, too.

Five South Viet Generals Seen Ousted

SAIGON (AP) — A major shakeup was reported under way today among high-ranking generals of South Vietnam's armed forces.

One account from reliable sources said five generals would be relieved of their duties.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state, told newsmen that the nation's military rulers are discussing a plan that will "go from generals to second lieutenants." He denied that any generals had been fired yet, adding, "We have not taken any decision, but it's our plan."

Qualified unofficial sources reported that Maj. Gen. Linh Quang Vien, the minister of security, and Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, the chief of staff of the joint general staff, would be relieved of their military duties and sent abroad as ambassadors.

These sources said Maj. Gen. Tran Ngoc Tam, South Vietnam's coordinator with the Free World Forces Command, and Maj. Gen. Bui Huu Nhon, commander of the Thu Duc military school would leave the army.

A fifth general was relieved of his duties, the sources said, but his identity could not be learned.

Reasons for the shakeup were not immediately made known.

Thieu said he could not say how many officers would be involved in the changes "because it would create some demoralization for others who believe they are."

Asked if the moves were being taken because of charges of corruption, inefficiency or for other reasons, he replied: "For many other reasons." Pressed as to whether accusations of corruption were a factor, he answered, "Yes."

The removal of Vy, Tam and Nhon would take out of the top echelon most of the remaining natives of South Vietnam. The majority of the top military men are natives of North Vietnam who came south when the Communists took over. Geographic origins play an important role in military and political circles in South Vietnam and often lead to friction.

Dispute Over Pension Benefits Starts Strike

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — A dispute over pension benefits touched off a strike by 170 workers at Gregory Industries, Inc., Nelson-Stud Welding Division, in Lorain Thursday.

Before the walkout, members of Local 1539, International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, rejected what the company called its final offer for increased pension benefits.

Dies In Sleep At 85

Henry J. Kaiser Claimed; Built Industrial Empire

HONOLULU (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser—founder of a billion-dollar industrial empire spread over 40 countries—died in his sleep Thursday. He was 85.

Kaiser was at his oceanfront estate about 10 miles from Honolulu when he was stricken by a circulatory and heart condition.

At his side were his wife Alyce, whom he married after the death of his first wife in 1951; his son Edgar and Edgar's wife.

Kaiser was born May 9, 1882, at Sprout Brook, N.Y., one of four children of German immigrants. He started his career as a $1.50-a-week clerk in a Utica, N.Y., dry goods store after leaving school at 13 to help support his family.

Kaiser never longed for the "good old days." While celebrating his last birthday, the founder of the $2.7-billion complex said, "Yesterday is past . . . I always want to live this day to the fullest and to plunge into tomorrow's job."

There was almost nothing Kaiser did not have a hand in: giant dams such as Hoover, Bonneville, Grand Coulee and Shasta; famed Liberty ships of World War II; the familiar Jeep; the Kaiser health centers; cement; aluminum; steel; chemicals; aircraft and missile components and electronic equipment; radio and television stations; hotels; and the latest, a new community of Hawaii-Kai in Honolulu with projected population of 60,000.

This Kaiser did—in Kaiser pink. He chose a coral-purple color as a Hawaiian trademark, putting it on speedboats, catamarans, outrigger canoes, jeeps and even his clothing.

"Pink makes you feel good," he said.

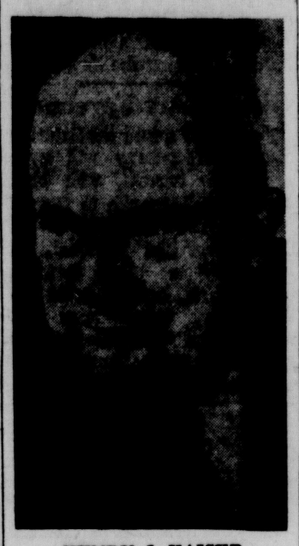

About the only venture in which Kaiser didn't achieve the success he sought was in making cars. For 10 years, 750,000 Kaisers, Kaiser-Frazers and Henry Js rolled off the assembly lines. But competition was too stiff. Kaiser withdrew to concentrate on the Jeep—utility vehicles of all times.

Henry Kaiser's success began in Lake Placid, N.Y., where he worked for nothing in a photographic shop on condition that if he doubled business he would get a half interest. The business tripled, he became a partner at 22, bought it out a year later and added three stores in Florida and Nassau.

But the West held dreams of which his life was to be made.

He moved to Spokane, Wash., in 1906 and went to work at a hardware firm for $7 a week. In 1912 he began managing road-paving contracts.

In 1914, at the age of 32, Henry J. Kaiser Co. Ltd., was formed at Vancouver, B.C., and the first job was two miles of road paving in the Canadian city.

HENRY J. KAISER
Industrial Giant Dies.

Kaiser made his entry into California by jumping off a train which slowed down at Redding to crop off the mail. He won a bid for a 30-mile road between Red Bluff and Redding and in 1921 set up headquarters in one room in Oakland.

Headquarters is still in Oakland—but in the 28-story Kaiser Center.

A 200-mile, 500-bridge highway project in Cuba in 1927 pointed the way for bigger things. The young contractor visualized the joint venture concept which evolved into partnerships and associations of contractors for giant projects.

One such combine called Six Companies, Inc., with Henry Kaiser as executive committee chairman, built Hoover Dam on a bid of $48,890,000 and finished it in four years, two years ahead of schedule.

Shasta Dam marked the beginning of Kaiser's industrial activity. His group lost the $36 million construction contract by $263,000. Although he had no plant, he submitted a bid on cement at 29 cents a barrel under that of a cement combine. He won the $7.7 million contract, built a cement plant at Permanente, Calif., and launched Kaiser Cement and Gypsum Corp.

Shipbuilding provided the big test for Kaiser, who mastered the "impossible" and red tape. World War II was under way and the Allies needed ships desperately. Britain called on Kaiser to build shipyards and 30 cargo ships.

At the peak, Kaiser and his associates operated 58 shipways at seven yards. They built 1,490 ships, roughly 30 per cent of the American production of merchant shipping, during the war. Kaiser shipyards averaged one new ship a day and an aircraft carrier per week through prefabrication of major units and assembly-line fitting of parts.

To meet the need for steel ship plate, Kaiser built a steel plant at Fontana in Southern California, the first integrated plant in the West. Kaiser Steel is now ninth largest in the country.

Kaiser turned over active direction of the Kaiser Industries to his son Edgar and moved to Hawaii in 1954. He continued as board chairman to his death.

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I deal with a couple of disfiguring scratches on the enameled surface of a door?

A.—Best for these is some of the original enamel, dripped into the scratches with a toothpick. After it dries, rub down with rottenstone. An easier treatment involves the filling of the mars with a wax crayon matching the enamel color, followed by a wax polishing.

A.—Rub with a little self-polishing floor wax. The wax dissolves these marks and blends with the rest of the floor without leaving a bare spot. You can use this treatment on asphalt tile floors, too.

Q.—How can I remedy a door that persists in rubbing at the top or against the threshold below?

A.—Tack a piece of coarse sandpaper to the frame of the door at the top or to the floor or theshold below, then open and close the door repeatedly over this "self - sander" until the door moves freely.

Q.—How can I remove burnt spots from granite?

A.—Cover these spots with a teaspoonful of baking soda mixed to a paste with water and heated. Never attempt to scrape with a knife-

Q.—How can I replace gems that have fallen out of earrings and other such pieces of costume jewelry?

A.—Brush clear fingernail polish into the setting, then press your "jewel" in and allow to dry before wearing. Should some of the polish seep up and around the stone, clean it off with a piece of cleansing tissue barely dampened with nail-polish remover.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Happy New Star Until . . .

Carl Betz, who for eight long years played the good Dr. Stone on the Donna Reed Show, is in about the happiest state that an actor ever finds himself in today.

Hal Humphrey

He is going to be the star this time in a new TV series called "Judd, for the Defense." Five of the episodes have been filmed, but it is three weeks before it goes on the air (ABC, Friday nights), so neither the critics nor the Nielsen rating have had an opportunity to spoil Carl's glow.

-:-

AS JUDD, Carl is a flamboyant criminal attorney, honest but ruthless, and there are emotion-charged courtroom scenes which give him more chance to act than he got from a whole season of Donna Reed episodes.

"The Donna Reed Show was too long, too wholesome and so good and so upright," says Carl now. "I must say, though, I was a little more than "the monosyllabic Dr. Stone," which is what one reviewer called me. I'm not ashamed of 50 per cent of those Donna Reed shows. The other half you can burn."

Carl isn't the least concerned that in TV's trail is a whole slew of attorney series, some hits and more failures — "Trials of O'Brien," "Perry Mason," "Arrest and Trial," "Sam Benedict," to name a few.

"ALL I KNOW is this Judd is the best TV script I've seen in a long time. He even loses a case once in awhile," says Carl.

Getting a starring role came none too soon for Carl. In the movies and other TV he's done, it was either second leads or feature roles he inherited. But in "Judd, for the Defense," he's the big cheese. Stephen Young, who plays a junior assistant, Ben, is the only other regular in the series.

Those actors wondering how Carl got this break might like to learn that it was the result of producer Paul Monash's seeing Carl three years ago in Hollywood's Stage Society Theater playing the Rev. Shannon in "Night of the Iguana," the Tennessee Williams play which Richard Burton and Liz Taylor made into a movie.

CARL still was doing the Donna Reed Show then, but four nights a week for six months he would perform as Shannon in "Iguana."

It was like going to a gym and working out for Carl, who needed an antidote for the confining role he had on the Donna Reed Show. It certainly wasn't the money. He received $40 a week for "Iguana."

"Monash remembered me in that, and when 'Judd' got to the pilot-making stage, he called me. Then I had to make a test film for ABC, the network I'd been on for eight years as Dr. Stone. When it was all over and they said yes, my wife and I took off for Europe and a month of vacation," Carl recalls.

Like Perry Mason, Clinton Judd (Carl) will be in a courtroom for some of every episode, but not every case is a murder trial.

JUDD'S headquartered in Houston, Tex., and he wears a modified cowboy hat, boots and usually a string tie but doesn't talk with a Texas accent.

Carl describes his character as part Percy Forman of Texas, part Jake Ehrlich of San Francisco and part F. Lee Bailey of New York — all three noted real-life attorneys.

At this point Carl says he tries not to think of the series' premiere date on Sept. 8.

"I'll be a nervous wreck that night, then later when those first ratings come out. That will be another bad day," Carl adds.

BUT RIGHT NOW for Carl everything is delectable anticipation and lots of work. He says the latter doesn't bother him as much as it might some actors in their first starring series because of his years of experience in stock and repertory companies.

"I did 60 plays in 65 weeks in stock once," says Carl, "so work I am used to. And by the way, there's a 20th Century-Fox movie deal that goes with this contract, but I doubt if I'll have time to do a movie now."

He and Donna Reed and Shelley Fabares and and Paul Petersen (who played their offspring) have been getting together for a luncheon reunion once a month, but this could go by the boards now, too.

Five South Viet Generals Seen Ousted

SAIGON (AP) — A major shakeup was reported under way today among high-ranking generals of South Vietnam's armed forces.

One account from reliable sources said five generals would be relieved of their duties.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state, told newsmen that the nation's military rulers are discussing a plan that will "go from generals to second lieutenants." He denied that any generals had been fired yet, adding, "We have not taken any decision, but it's our plan."

Qualified unofficial sources reported that Maj. Gen. Linh Quang Vien, the minister of security, and Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, the chief of staff of the joint general staff, would be relieved of their military duties and sent abroad as ambassadors.

These sources said Maj. Gen. Tran Ngoc Tam, South Vietnam's coordinator with the Free World Forces Command, and Maj. Gen. Bui Huu Nhon, commander of the Thu Duc military school would leave the army.

A fifth general was relieved of his duties, the sources said, but his identity could not be learned.

Reasons for the shakeup were not immediately made known.

Thieu said he could not say how many officers would be involved in the changes "because it would create some demoralization for others who believe they are."

Asked if the moves were being taken because of charges of corruption, inefficiency or for other reasons, he replied: "For many other reasons." Pressed as to whether accusations of corruption were a factor, he answered, "Yes."

The South Vietnamese army has been under heavy criticism because the major fighting now is being left to U. S. forces.

The removal of Vy, Tam and Nhon would take out of the top echelon most of the remaining natives of South Vietnam. The majority of the top military men are natives of North Vietnam who came south when the Communists took over. Geographic origins play an important role in military and political circles in South Vietnam and often lead to friction.

Dispute Over Pension Benefits Starts Strike

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — A dispute over pension benefits touched off a strike by 170 workers at Gregory Industries, Inc., Nelson-Stud Welding Division, in Lorain Thursday.

Before the walkout, members of Local 1539, International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, rejected what the company called its final offer for increased pension benefits.

Dies In Sleep At 85

Henry J. Kaiser Claimed; Built Industrial Empire

HONOLULU (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser—founder of a billion-dollar industrial empire spread over 40 countries—died in his sleep Thursday. He was 85.

Kaiser was at his oceanfront estate about 10 miles from Honolulu when he was stricken by a circulatory and heart condition.

At his side were his wife Alyce, whom he married after the death of his first wife in 1951; his son Edgar and Edgar's wife.

Kaiser was born May 9, 1882, at Sprout Brook, N.Y., one of four children of German immigrants. He started his career as a $1.50-a-week clerk in a Utica, N.Y., dry goods store after leaving school at 13 to help support his family.

Kaiser never longed for the "good old days." While celebrating his last birthday, the founder of the $2.7-billion complex said, "Yesterday is past . . . I always want to live this day to the fullest and to plunge into tomorrow's job."

There was almost nothing Kaiser did not have a hand in: giant dams such as Hoover, Bonneville, Grand Coulee and Shasta; famed Liberty ships of World War II; the familiar Jeep; the Kaiser health centers; cement; aluminum; steel; chemicals; aircraft and missile components and electronic equipment; radio and television stations; hotels; and the latest, a new community of Hawaii-Kai in Honolulu with projected population of 60,000.

This Kaiser did—in Kaiser pink. He chose a coral-purple color as a Hawaiian trademark, putting it on speedboats, catamarans, outrigger canoes, jeeps and even his clothing.

"Pink makes you feel good," he said.

About the only venture in which Kaiser didn't achieve the success he sought was in making cars. For 10 years, 750,000 Kaisers, Kaiser-Frazers and Henry Js rolled off the assembly lines. But competition was too stiff. Kaiser withdrew to concentrate on the Jeep—utility vehicles of all times.

Henry Kaiser's success began in Lake Placid, N.Y., where he worked for nothing in a photographic shop on condition that if he doubled business he would get a half interest. The business tripled, he became a partner at 22, bought it out a year later and added three stores in Florida and Nassau.

But the West held dreams of which his life was to be made.

He moved to Spokane, Wash., in 1906 and went to work at a hardware firm for $7 a week. In 1912 he began managing road-paving contracts.

In 1914, at the age of 32, Henry J. Kaiser Co. Ltd., was formed at Vancouver, B.C., and the first job was two miles of road paving in the Canadian city.

Kaiser made his entry into California by jumping off a train which slowed down at Redding to crop off the mail. He won a bid for a 30-mile road between Red Bluff and Redding and in 1921 set up headquarters in one room in Oakland.

Headquarters is still in Oakland—but in the 28-story Kaiser Center.

A 200-mile, 500-bridge highway project in Cuba in 1927 pointed the way for bigger things. The young contractor visualized the joint venture concept which evolved into partnerships and associations of contractors for giant projects.

One such combine called Six Companies, Inc., with Henry Kaiser as executive committee chairman, built Hoover Dam on a bid of $48,890,000 and finished it in four years, two years ahead of schedule.

Shasta Dam marked the beginning of Kaiser's industrial activity. His group lost the $36 million construction contract by $263,000. Although he had no plant, he submitted a bid on cement at 29 cents a barrel under that of a cement combine. He won the $7.7 million contract, built a cement plant at Permanente, Calif., and launched Kaiser Cement and Gypsum Corp.

Shipbuilding provided the big test for Kaiser, who mastered the "impossible" and red tape. World War II was under way and the Allies needed ships desperately. Britain called on Kaiser to build shipyards and 30 cargo ships.

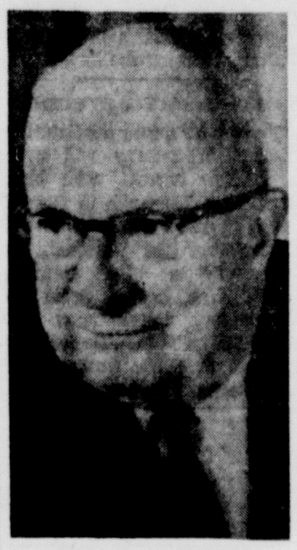

At the peak, Kaiser and his associates operated 58 shipways at seven yards. They built 1,490 ships, roughly 30 per cent of the American production of merchant shipping, during the war. Kaiser shipyards averaged one new ship a day and an aircraft carrier per week through prefabrication of major units and assembly-line fitting of parts.

To meet the need for steel ship plate, Kaiser built a steel plant at Fontana in Southern California, the first integrated plant in the West. Kaiser Steel is now ninth largest in the country.

This brought the founding of the world's largest private system of hospitals and prepaid medical care — Kaiser's pride and joy.

Kaiser turned over active direction of the Kaiser Industries to his son Edgar and moved to Hawaii in 1954. He continued as board chairman to his death.

Industrial Giant Dies.

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I deal with a couple of disfiguring scratches on the enameled surface of a door?

A.—Best for these is some of the original enamel, dripped into the scratches with a toothpick. After it dries, rub down with rottenstone. An easier treatment involves the filling of the marks with a wax crayon matching the enamel color, followed by a wax polishing.

A.—Rub with a little self-polishing floor wax. The wax dissolves these marks and blends with the rest of the floor without leaving a bare spot. You can use this treatment on asphalt tile floors, too.

A.—Tack a piece of coarse sandpaper to the frame of the door at the top or to the floor or theshold below, then open and close the door repeatedly over this "self - sander" until the door moves freely.

Q.—How can I remove burnt spots from granite?

Junior Editors Quiz on YAWNING

QUESTION: Why do we yawn?

ANSWER: As our picture suggests, yawns seem to pass from person to person, probably because we tend to imitate what another person is doing. Scientists do not know the whole story about yawning. For example, they are not sure what section of the nervous system controls it. They tell us it is an involuntary reflex, something you do without consciously meaning to. Once started, it's difficult to stop. You can close your mouth but the contraction of muscles goes on. The purpose of yawning presumably is to get more air into the lungs. It seems to be a warning signal that you need sleep and also a safety measure to keep you awake until you get the sleep you need. It is also thought that the stretching of muscles tends to awaken a person and make his blood circulate better. People do not look very pretty when they yawn. Probably because of this knowledge, we tend to cover our yawning mouths with our hands. Let's hope we haven't put you to sleep with this article.

May Heighten Violence

Guard General Questions Use Of Tanks In Rioting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Guard general who commanded troops in the 1965 Watts riot says the Guard may heighten violence if it deploys tanks and automatic weapons to quell street uprisings.

Maj. Gen. Charles A. Ott Jr. questioned also the adequacy of the stepped-up riot control training now being given a half-million National Guardsmen.

Following last month's Newark and Detroit riots, the Army prepared a crash program requiring all guardsmen to receive at least 32 hours riot control training in August and September.

Although the new training incorporates some lessons Guardsmen learned in recent riots, Ott said portions of the program are unrealistic.

The training directives say armored vehicles "should be employed where available and practical," but Ott said ".50-caliber machine guns are unnecessary" in riot control. "I don't think you should use armored vehicles such as tanks. "The people know you aren't going to use the tank's main armament, anyway."

Ott expressed fear that deployment of tanks and heavy military equipment at a riot scene could increase the violence.

"If we really start escalating the tempo in these riots, the rioters are going to be ready," he said. "They're going to have their gasoline bombs ready and they're going to start killing soldiers.

"I hate to see our cities become battlefields."

A business executive who heads the Army National Guards' 40th Armored Division in California, Ott was interviewed after testifying Thursday before a House subcommittee conducting hearings on the guard's ability to cope with urban riots. Ott said the Army lesson plans are unrealistic in instructing Guardsmen to use water sprayed from fire hoses to disperse mobs. In recent riots, he said, all fire hoses and hydrants have been required to battle major fires. "You'd have to wrestle the firemen to get the hoses," Ott said. "There just aren't enough to go around."

The requirement that the new training be completed by the end of September has disrupted previously scheduled drills, Ott said.

"I've got artillerymen who instead of being engaged in firing their basic weapons (in summer camp) are engaged in 32 hours of riot control training," he said. "The training is a little bit too much of a crash nature and doesn't allow enough flexibility.

Asked whether the new training program is adequate, Ott replied:

"No, I don't think it is. Nor do I think it was designed to be completely adequate. The directive did leave a certain amount of leeway; commanders could have altered it. But most commanders are inclined to go right down the line because they feel someone is going to come out and check them."

Pentagon Wields Economic Bludgeon

Thousands Of Rent Units Go To Negro Servicemen

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon, wielding an economic bludgon, has opened thousands of rental units to Negro servicemen in the Washington area.

Two months ago nondiscrimination pledges had been made by the owners of 10,400 units.

Now, the Pentagon says, 34,000 units are available to servicemen without regard to color and more are being listed each week.

The change was wrought through the first use of off-limits sanctions by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara. On June 22 such an order was issued covering new rentals of housing within a 3½ mile radius of Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland. Eight days later a similar order was issued for a 7-mile zone around Ft. Meade, Md.

The secretary promised similar actions, if necessary, at other major military installations.

In effect the McNamara order said: "If you don't agree to rent to all races, you can't rent to any servicemen."

A study of housing problems at 300 other military bases around the country was completed Aug. 15 and the results are being analyzed.

There are about 100,000 military personnel in the Washington area and 52,000 of them are married. There is room for about 7,000 families on nine major installations. The rest must find off-base housing.

Because most apartment owners close to military installations depend on renting to servicemen—and since transfers usually cause a turnover rate of one third a year—an off-limits order can be painful to the owners.

The military services have accepted only open housing listings in a referral system in effect since 1963. But never before has there been a ban against servicemen renting outside the referral system.

Of the nationwide survey, Ekman says:

"There have been meetings (with owners and local officials) at 11 places throughout the country so far where it appears there might be problems. In most cases, local representatives have gotten together and have resolved the problems. In those where we can't persuade them to do something about it, we may have to impose sanctions."

Naples is the modern name of the ancient city of Parthenope, founded by the Greeks.

Guard General Questions Use Of Tanks In Rioting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Guard general who commanded troops in the 1965 Watts riot says the Guard may heighten violence if it deploys tanks and automatic weapons to quell street uprisings.

Maj. Gen. Charles A. Ott Jr. questioned also the adequacy of the stepped-up riot control training now being given a half-million National Guardsmen.

Following last month's Newark and Detroit riots, the Army prepared a crash program requiring all guardsmen to receive at least 32 hours riot control training in August and September.

Although the new training incorporates some lessons Guardsmen learned in recent riots, Ott said portions of the program are unrealistic.

The training directives say armored vehicles "should be employed where available and practical," but Ott said ".50-caliber machine guns are unnecessary" in riot control. "I don't think you should use armored vehicles such as tanks. "The people know you aren't going to use the tank's main armament, anyway."

Ott expressed fear that deployment of tanks and heavy military equipment at a riot scene could increase the violence.

"If we really start escalating the tempo in these riots, the rioters are going to be ready," he said. "They're going to have their gasoline bombs ready and they're going to start killing soldiers.

"I hate to see our cities become battlefields."

A business executive who heads the Army National Guards' 40th Armored Division in California, Ott was interviewed after testifying Thursday before a House subcommittee conducting hearings on the guard's ability to cope with urban riots. Ott said the Army lesson plans are unrealistic in instructing Guardsmen to use water sprayed from fire hoses to disperse mobs. In recent riots, he said, all fire hoses and hydrants have been required to battle major fires. "You'd have to wrestle the firemen to get the hoses," Ott said. "There just aren't enough to go around."

The requirement that the new training be completed by the end of September has disrupted previously scheduled drills, Ott said.

"I've got artillerymen who instead of being engaged in firing their basic weapons (in summer camp) are engaged in 32 hours of riot control training," he said. "The training is a little bit too much of a crash nature and doesn't allow enough flexibility.

Asked whether the new training program is adequate, Ott replied:

"No, I don't think it is. Nor do I think it was designed to be completely adequate. The directive did leave a certain amount of leeway; commanders could have altered it. But most commanders are inclined to go right down the line because they feel someone is going to come out and check them."

Pentagon Wields Economic Bludgeon

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon, wielding an economic bludgon, has opened thousands of rental units to Negro servicemen in the Washington area.

Two months ago nondiscrimination pledges had been made by the owners of 10,400 units.

Now, the Pentagon says, 34,000 units are available to servicemen without regard to color and more are being listed each week.

The change was wrought through the first use of off-limits sanctions by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara. On June 22 such an order was issued covering new rentals of housing within a 3½ mile radius of Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland. Eight days later a similar order was issued for a 7-mile zone around Ft. Meade, Md.

The secretary promised similar actions, if necessary, at other major military installations.

In effect the McNamara order said: "If you don't agree to rent to all races, you can't rent to any servicemen."

A study of housing problems at 300 other military bases around the country was completed Aug. 15 and the results are being analyzed.

There are about 100,000 military personnel in the Washington area and 52,000 of them are married. There is room for about 7,000 families on nine major installations. The rest must find off-base housing.

Because most apartment owners close to military installations depend on renting to servicemen—and since transfers usually cause a turnover rate of one third a year—an off-limits order can be painful to the owners.

The military services have accepted only open housing listings in a referral system in effect since 1963. But never before has there been a ban against servicemen renting outside the referral system.

Of the nationwide survey, Ekman says:

"There have been meetings (with owners and local officials) at 11 places throughout the country so far where it appears there might be problems. In most cases, local representatives have gotten together and have resolved the problems. In those where we can't persuade them to do something about it, we may have to impose sanctions."
